THE SECOND TRAP

The declarer in today's deal avoided one pitfall but fell into another.

South, dealer. East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	3♥	Pass
4NT	Pass	5♣	Pass
5♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

After using the Blackwood and finding out that North had only one ace, South decided that a five notrump bid would be too risky, since it would force a slam no matter what North answered. This was a good decision—South had bitten off enough in reaching even the five-level, without adding himself with a slam contract. West opened the spade ace and, on sight of dummy, shifted to a diamond. The ace was played from dummy; then declarer cashed the two top trumps. It was disappointing that the suit failed to break, and South saw that now his contract was in jeopardy.

After studying the situation, South realized that the diamond finesse, even if successful, could not help him, since he could discard only one club from his own four clubs, and still would have to find the club queen. So South tried a different plan.

He cashed the spade king, discarding a diamond from dummy, then led directly to the diamond king and ruffed the diamond jack. Now he threw West on lead with the high trump.

If West, fearing to give the declarer a ruff-and-discard, had led back a club, everything would have been lovely for the declarer, but West made no such error. It was apparent to West that declarer, as well as dummy, held four clubs, so what good would it do him to get rid of one of them? On that excellent analysis, West played another spade. This left South high and dry, with an unavoidable club loser.

South's line of play had been almost right, but not quite! If he
