This is one of the most wonderful things in modern medical science. Miss MacLean spoke of the recent achievement of the Red Cross in making 2300 lbs of jelly for shipment to England to be used in hospitals and for children. Miss MacLean referred to the newly formed Red Cross Corp, which has been organized in Summerside and Charlottetown and which is making good progress. The Air Ministry listed last night's northern raid as the 220th of the war on Italy. The airmen told of plunging their bombs into beckoning fires at Genoa from altitudes of 2,000 and 3,000 feet.

moves of Reinhard Heydrich, Gestapo leader named temporary protector of Bohemia and Moravia last Saturday.

Authorized Germans said those executed had been convicted in the protectorate courts of acts of terrorism and resistance to the Reich.

They were described as mostly "laborers", and Czech reports from London that two of those put to death were former generals were denied.

A German radio broadcast, however, quoted a D. N. B. dispatch from Prague which listed those executed as two former generals, convicted of preparation for high treason; two residents of Prague, convicted of possession of arms, and two Czechs from the Bruenn district, convicted of sabotage.

The Czech government in London said Gen. Josef Bily, former military commander of Bohemia, and divisional Gen. Hugo Vojti, deputy commander of the army corps at Bratislava, in the Slovak protectorate, were among those executed.

This intimation of troube extending into Slovakia followed British Broadcasting Corporation reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate Bela Tuka, Nazi-backed Slovak Premier.

"Western Union"

Zane Grey's Great Story of West Photographed in Vivid Technicolor Capitol, Summerside

Zane Grey's "Western Union" has been made into a memorable picture by 20th Century-Fox, filmed in brilliant Technicolor, it opened last night at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside.

Its brilliant cast, headed by Robert Young, Randolph Scott, Dean Jagger and Virginia Gilmore, brings to life all the colorful characters created by the West's greatest storyteller in his latest best seller. Others featured include Jonn Carraome, Chill Willis, Slim Summerville and Barton MacLane.

Romance, action, drama and thrilling adventure are all part of the spectacle in "Western Union" which opens in the roaring boom town of frontier Omaha—where the only law was a blazing six-shooter.

Dean Jagger, portraying Edward Creighton the telegraph builder, starts a huge wagontrain rolling out across the prairies. Their job is to build the telegraph over a West infested by renegades and savage Indians.

Randolph Scott as a reformed outlaw and Robert Young, as a tenderfoot surveyor from Harvard, leave with Creighton's men. Both are in love with the builders charming sister, Virginia Gilmore.

First sample of the dangers ahead comes soon after the wagon-train leaves Omaha. Vicious renegades attack without warning. Devastating forays by the savage Sioux follow.

But the plainmen keep moving forward across the prairies, sinking telegraph poles and stringing wires as death strikes swiftly and silently all about them.

Under Director Fritz Lang's superb direction the sweeping suspense grows more intense with each scene until "Western Union" reaches a pulse-pounding climax as an engulfing fire rages down from the hills to destroy the camp. Even that, however can't stop the march of the "magic wires" — Creighton rallies his men and goes on to complete the first transcontinental telegraph.

P. T. IN BUSINESS

PRETORIA—(CP)— South African Chambers of Commerce have recognized a principle that an employee taking authorized and organized physical training increases usefulness to employer.

A spokesman at the Slovak legation in Berlin termed reports of such an assassination attempt "a childish lie."

Dr. Eduard Benes, chief of the provisional Czech government in London, predicted at a luncheon that a new wave of terror would be inflicted upon Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia.

From France Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway and Yugoslavia—even from within Germany—came a steadily lengthening list of other restless moves against the Reich.

The German Gazette announced confiscation of the property of the Catholic Foundation, St. Valentinus Haus, in the Rhineland, because it was "hostile to the state."

Execution of two more men in Paris last Saturday was disclosed by German authorities, bringing to 37 the number shot by firing squads there in intensified efforts to halt a wave of terrorism.

The BBC said that five miners had been executed in France, but it failed to say whether they were in the occupied or unoccupied zone.

Aneta, Free Netherlands Indies news agency, reported Netherlands citizens were providing beacons to guide British bombers on raids into the continent despite strict police measures.

Twenty persons were put to death last week at Lille where dynamite which the Germans said was stolen by saboteurs in northern France and Belgium was used to wreck German troop and French supply trains.

With more than 1,000 newly-arrested persons held possibly as hostages, German authorities in Norway have relaxed the state of civil siege put into effect there Sept. 10 but continued to keep close watch over factory production and Norwegian gatherings.

Italy continued to patrol the northeastern Adriatic seacoast where she sent her troops last week after outbreaks of fighting between Serbs and the little army allotted to the Croatian state the Axis carved out of Yugoslavia.

Doctors, Gov't

The government has now introduced a bill providing an entirely new basis and with a compulsory clause. The doctors are to receive five shillings for each call. with travelling allowances.

It would be illegal for a doctor to accept any fee from a patient. The fee will be payable only from a state fund.

The doctors, after many meetings with the government, announced they would carry on as before and will not operate the scheme. Under the bill this would amount to defiance of the law.

If Parliament passes the measure, which is due for final consideration in the next few days, a dramatic situation seems inevitable.

Interpreting The War

petrovsk toward Kharkov and also due eastward into the Donets Basin midway between Kharkov and Rostov. The Nazi report indicates that the present drive is aimed primarily at turning the left flank of Russian defence of Kharkov via Krasnograd.

The Russians announce effective counter attacks in the Krasnograd area. The Germans have gained no additional ground for days on that flank of the Kiev pocket, nor northward in the Gluskova sector, so far as is known.

It seems obvious, therefore that the new thrust marks development of a real battle for Kharkov and for possession of the rich Donets river basin and the city of Rostov, pivot for a German land march into the Caucasus oil fields. The new Dnieperopetrovsk spearhead expands the Kharkov fighting front to nearly 200 miles.

There seems now no question that it is on the southern flank that the Royal Air Force is already aiding the Russians. It is also almost certain that Soviet-British military conferences have paved the way for British troops to join in defence of the Caucasus.

The claimed new Nazi victory northeast of Dnieperopetrovsk tends to hasten the moment when British land forces will meet their axis foes again, this time in Russia.

Sir Claude is his successor as commander in chief for the Middle East—that is, Africa and Asia Minor. He succeeded Sir Archibald as Middle Eastern commander July 2 when the latter was moved to the Simla post.

The two strategists met at Baghdad, Iraq, Friday and Saturday.

Since the Cairo and Baghdad visits Sir Archibald has continued his personal contacts along the Middle Eastern line with a stop at Teheran Iran. There he conferred with commanders of both the Russian and British forces in occupation of Iraq.

Sir Archibald held a press conference at Teheran today but kept secret whether he would send troops into the Caucasus defence line of the Russians. He declared, however, that he expected complete co-operation would be achieved between British and Russian forces.

cruisers and at least three merchantmen.

The R. A. F., Italian sources acknowledged, smashed at Italian island possessions in the Mediterranean, including the Island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese group near the Turkish coast, the North African coast and Sicily.

Simultaneously other planes dropped bombs and leaflets on northern industrial cities, including Genoa, Turin and the naval port of Spezia.

The Italians claimed that their aerial assault on the British convoy travelling between Sardinia and Tunisia, scored damage on a battleship, "believed to be" the 33,950-ton Nelson, another "large undetermined unit," six smaller units and a destroyer.

All the naval damage was caused by aerial units, the Italians claimed, listing loss of seven aircraft, including that of an Italian colonel who was reported to have perished. They claimed the downing of six British aircraft.

of Moscow—German tank forces were declared to have suffered another defeat, this time being sharply thrown back with heavy losses in men and equipment by a Russian drive that recaptured two Soviet villages.

Before Odessa, two Rumanian infantry brigades were routed, the Soviet communique announced, with the loss of more than 2,500 dead in a single action

Off shore, Soviet warships were officially described as still in heavy action in support of the besieged city, despite repeated German efforts to mine the Black Sea from the air and thus bottle up the southern Soviet fleet. Russian minesweepers, it was added, were clearing the shipping lanes as fast as they were filled with mines.

The situation about Leningrad was not stated in detail except that unending Russian counter-thrusts were beating the Germans back at places.

Islanders among Contingent Sailing recently

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 29—(CP)—As much as two years' training behind them, servicemen from all the provinces of Canada and friendly foreign lands were in a contingent that sailed from here recently.

Artillerymen, engineers, signallers, graduates of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan and Empire fliers trained for the fleet air arm mingled with Norwegian soldiers, British troops and American civilian technicians.

Most of them were eating when they left, and the sailing was one of comparative quiet in keeping with the secrecy of wartime.

The various units included anti-aircraft groups recruited in Quebec, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, engineers from across Canada who joined up in Northern Ontario and a Saskatchewan unit of signallers.

Made Prohibition Law in Ontario

TORONTO, Sept. 29 — (CP)— Sir William Hearst, who introduced prohibition in Ontario when he was provincial premier during the First Great War, died today. He was 77.

Sir William also was noted for having extended the vote to women.

A successful lawyer, Sir William retired from politics after his Conservative Government was defeated by the United Farmer-Labor coalition of Hon. E. C. Drury in 1919 but he was appointed to the international joint commission in 1920 and served on that body for 20 years. The commission was formed under a treaty between the United States and Britain to settle boundary and watershed disputes between Canada and the United States.

Sir William's prohibition measure, the Canada Temperance Act, was upheld in a referendum held at the same time as the election in which his government was defeated. The measure was relaxed somewhat in 1924 when sale of "4.4" beer was permitted in Ontario and government control of the sale of liquor, eliminating prohibition, was instituted in 1927.

Sir William was knighted in 1917 for recognition of his services to the Empire.

He is survived by his widow and two sons and two daughters.

Spitzbergen Raid was well Kept army secret

(By Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 29—(CP)—The Spitzbergen raid was the Canadian corps' best-kept military secret of the war. Before the raid was well under way the word "Spitzbergen" apparently was unknown in army conversation.

The first time it was used in public was when the Canadian force, with its British and Norwegian detachments, was over the Arctic circle heading through misty Polar seas. It was evening and Canadian troops crowded noisily into a troopship dining room for a concert to begin.

They didn't know yet where they were going. Before them was a blackboard, chalked with a map of an island and some meaningless names.

Brig. Arthur E. Potts of Saskatoon came forward and told the men:

"You are all puzzled where we are going. I have not been able to tell you sooner. It has been a question of security and secrecy. We are going to occupy an island to deprive the Germans of the use of valuable coal mines. We are going to Spitzbergen."

For two seconds there wasn't a sound. Then a burst of cheering echoed through the ship as the troops applauded their Brigadier.

"We will land here and here and here," he said, pointing to spots on the rugged fjords. "We will blow up mining properties at this place and at this spot. It will be difficult. But I know you have the stuff in you to do it."

His explanation was followed by another outburst of applause.

The most tense moment on the expedition was when the first group landed at the Russian town of Barentsberg, not knowing whether they would be met by Russian handshakes or German bullets.

Brig. Potts was first ashore. He met the Russians on the quay and started up the long flight of stairs leading to the town. Between him and the protecting detachment, several officers and myself eyed the buildings for possible snipers. I noticed one officer unhook his holster flap. But we all felt a little chastened when we found there were no Germans in the town.

So people snub you every day?
It's your own fault they act this way.
You must perspire—but don't offend
Or you will never keep a friend.

RED CROSS EXECUTIVE MEETS

Interesting reports on the meetings of Central Council held in Toronto on September 3rd, of the Jelly and Aluminum Committees were given at a meeting of the Executive of the P. E. I. Division, Canadian Red Cross Society held at Red Cross House on September 25th. It was announced that 2300 pounds of jelly had been sent by freight to the Canadian Red Cross Warehouse at Saint John from where it will be shipped overseas and that approximately 2,000 pounds of aluminum would be ready for shipment by the first of October. The Secretary was instructed to write and extend the thanks of the Division to Mr. J. D. Jenkins, proprietor of the Royal Packing Company, and Mr. F. A. Walters, manager of the Prince Edward and Capitol Theatres for their assistance with the jelly and aluminum projects.

Due to the fact that there has been no National Red Cross appeal during 1941 and that there will not be one until the combined National War Services Campaign next March it was felt that more money raising projects should be organized. This matter was left in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee.

It was also reported that the Hospital Visiting Committees are active in the Prince Edward Island and Charlottetown Hospitals as well as the Sanatorium. Men of the services who are patients in these hospitals are visited every week by members of this committee and brought little treats.

Miss Catherine MacLean, Commissioner for Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick was present at the meeting and told of having visited the Red Cross Branches during the week to acquaint the different committees with the latest Red Cross activities. She was accompanied by Miss Beulah Munroe who showed samples of the articles being made at present and told of the needs for the next few months.

Magazines for Men of the Merchant Navy Needed

In response to an appeal which came over the "Carry on Canada" broadcast on Sunday evening, September 28th., for used magazines for men of the Merchant Navy, the Office Administration Section of the Red Cross Corps would be most thankful if persons having suitable magazines would leave them at Red Cross House this week. This appeal is for men's magazines only.
