CHARLOTTETOWN AND QUEEN'S COUNTY

It pays to buy in this province.

The fire alarm sounded for a second time yesterday at 12.30 for a slight fire at the residence of F. Beas, Kent St. West. The first fire was at Mrs. Currie's, Spring Park Road, and was caused by a spark from the fire igniting the shingles.

D. B. Stewart, City, has been appointed general agent in this Province for the Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company of London, England, vice Ross & Matthews, resigned. This is a very strong and reliable old British Company and will no doubt receive a large share of patronage from the insuring public.

One of the best spirited meetings yet held in the Baptist Church was held last night, Rev. E. P. Calder preaching on "Redemption." It was a clear and convincing presentation of a great theme. The witnessing part of the service showed the influence of the sermon. This was prompt and a large number gave glad testimony to the saving power of Jesus Christ. New voices were heard. When the opportunity was given to express the desire for salvation a number stood. It was a very interesting service all through. One was received for baptism. All those thus far received, with others to be received, will be baptized next Sunday evening. Hugh McLean, the sweet gospel singer, will sing tonight and tomorrow night, when the series of meetings will close.

Yesterday the Oddfellows in this city celebrated their 92nd anniversary in the usual manner, viz: Church parade in the afternoon and a public function at night. The parade in the afternoon was a most creditable one, about 100 Oddfellows forming in procession at the hall and, marshalled by Col. H. M. Davison and headed by the 4th Reg't. Band, proceeded to St. James Church marching in excellent style, as is usual in Oddfellows parades. The music of the old Fourth. The service at St. James Church was well attended and besides Oddfellows quite a number of Rebekahs were in attendance. The following was the order of the service: Invocation, Psalm 72, Lesson, Hymn, Sermon, Offertory, Hymn, Benediction. In his sermon Rev. T. P. Fullerton excelled himself, preaching a splendid fraternal discourse from II Samuel, 1:26. In his address the reverend speaker proved conclusively that although not an Oddfellow he entertained a most convincing belief in its first principles and in a manner in which the I. O. O. F. carried them into fulfillment. He spoke at length on the teachings of the order and emphasized their principles of Friendship, Love and Truth as worthy of the great order and so faithfully upheld by its members. The day was all that could be desired, the beautiful April sun graciously assisting in the faithful observance of one of the most significant days in the Oddfellows' fraternity. Many flags were flown throughout the city in honor of I. O. O. F. Natal Day.

The death occurred in the City Hospital late last night of Daniel G. McDonald, city, formerly of Kelly's Cross.

Among the passengers on the Minto this morning will be five young men from different parts of this Province en route to Grand Falls, N. B., where they will engage in railway work on the Grand Trunk Pacific.

A report was circulated in and around this city yesterday respecting the appointment of a Health Officer for this province. Inquiry from the proper sources elicited the information that no such appointment as rumored had been made.

The death occurred in this city early this morning of Mrs. James Hennessey, Sydney St., after an illness of seven months of paralysis. She leaves to mourn, besides her husband, three sons and one daughter, who are: Michael, Lawrence and Edward, at home, and Miss Fannie, of Boston, who is expected to arrive here today. A grandson is also expected from Boston and funeral arrangements are delayed pending their arrival. The Guardian extends sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

MEXICAN TRUCE EXTENDED UNTIL PEACE IS ASSURED

EL PASO, Texas, April 24—It was learned this morning that if there should be a cease-fire longer period, the armistice signed yesterday between General Navarro of the Federal forces and General Madero will be extended from next Friday, when the five days agreed upon expire at noon.

Negotiations for peace this morning had extended just far enough to put each side in possession of the outlines of the other's demands. General Madero has known and secretly guarded for two weeks information as to what the government will grant. He telegraphed Mexico City yesterday, the nature of his own basic demands. Following this, a long telegram was received from the Mexican capital, but no indication of its contents leaked out.

The telegraph wires are proving unsatisfactory for the purpose, and both parties wish to appoint envoys with full power to act. The naming of the envoys, the selection of a meeting place and travelling to it, it is thought, will require more than the April sun graciously assisting in the determination to extend its duration if necessary.

Many of Madero's men, feeling that the fighting is over, are preparing to quit the paths of war for the walks of peace.

The dispatch from Paris stating that General Bernardo Reyes, idol of his own country, is to return to his own country in a state of tranquillity was read in the surrecto camp and among the federalists at Juarez with the greatest interest. Reyes, it is said, does not desire the presidency, and is regarded as the most loyal among President Diaz's followers. His influence with the army is greater than that of any other man.

as with us, and handle fifteen to twenty-five operators upon lines that do not tend to produce the quick service our public is accustomed to. The cardinal virtue of the German service is its cheapness and the cardinal defect its leasurlessness.

Berlin calls average two and a half cents a piece, and it is possible to talk nearly four hundred miles for twenty-five cents. But the German exchequer, of course, bears the burden of a deficit, on the same plan as Uncle Sam's post office.

One excellent practice universal in Germany Americans might well adopt. Telephone managers here are identified themselves when answering the telephone. Every German does it, for instead of saying "Hello," the form of answering is invariably "Herr Karl Schmidt" or "This is Karl Schmidt."

Long distance operators identify themselves by their towns so that when Frankfurt-on-the-Main is rung up from Berlin the operator says "This is Miss Frankfort" or "Herr Fraulien Frankfort." The Fraulien is never left off.

While long distance is cheap, it is also crowded through the day, and considerable time is needed to get a message through as a rule. The Berlin operators on long distance speak several languages, as they are working with French, Italian, Russian, Swedish, Dutch and other operators.

SCORED "UNWRITTEN LAW"

ATLANTA, Ga., April 22—The application for pardon of Thomas E. Stripling was late this afternoon denied by Governor Brown.

Stripling was formerly chief of police of Danville, Va., and was under life sentence for killing W. J. Cornett. He escaped from officers years ago and had been successful in business under an assumed name.

Governor Brown scored the "unwritten law" to which Stripling appealed for justification as an anarchistic argument, and in Stripling's escape and subsequent career said he found no reason to charge the decision of the courts.

L. J. HEYRESS LOCKS MILLIONS

BOSTON, Mass., April 25—The legal heirs of an estate valued at more than $1,000,000 will never receive a penny of it unless George T. Rendle, a well known Boston bridge builder and contractor, is successful in the search he has just begun to find Victoria Rendle, or she is legally declared dead. She left Bideford, P. E. I., some forty years ago, and has not been seen since by her relatives.

Until she is found or, if dead, her death is legally determined, the score in this country and in England will be unable to share in the estate, comprising real estate in Devonshire, county England, and money.

George T. Rendle, a prominent Boston bridge builder, with an office at 28 School street, and whose residence is at 139 Prescott street, East Boston, is trying to locate Victoria Rendle, who is his first cousin.

For years William S. Rendle, of the firm of Rendle & Son, wharf builders, East Boston, and who is the eldest of three Rendle brothers, all of this city, conducted a quiet search for the missing woman. He did so at the instigation of his parents.

After a vain hunt throughout the cities and towns of New England he discovered that Victoria Rendle had heard of in New York city, where it was said that she had married. Investigations in that city were without success, and William became weary of the hunt and gave it up.

Recently George, the younger brother, decided to make an attempt to locate Victoria, and he began by inserting advertisements in newspapers. Thus far he has received no news of the much wanted heiress.

The latter said that Victoria, is living, is now about 50 years of age, and that she is the daughter of Ann and John Rendle. Her father died when she was two or three years of age and her mother took a second husband, George Shores, of Prince Edward Island. He had been left two sons by a former wife.

The family removed from Bideford to New York city some 39 years ago, Mr. Rendle thought, and she believes that she married there and for the third time. Her third husband's name is unknown to Mr. Rendle.

She wrote no letters to her Canadian friends nor did they receive any word of her whereabouts. Meantime the estate is in a limbo and remains entire, awaiting the finding of Victoria Rendle, the connecting link, or the proving beyond a doubt that she is deceased.
