Maranta And Epigram Are Joint Favorites For 99th Running Of Cesarewitch

IN THIS CORNER

Although things in sport circles are pretty quiet during the off-season nevertheless fans have plenty to get excited over and argue about these days as Bennie Binns prepares to defend his Island middleweight title against the challenge of "Irish" Leo Kelly, a challenge many think will prove too strong for the champion to repulse.

Ever since Kelly came back to the Island after having built up an enviable reputation in United States amateur circles Island followers of the game have been itching to see the two perform against each other. From the manner in which both have been shaping up in recent bouts the fight is regarded more than ever now as a "natural." And with little loss to the pair of mid-weights it appears very certain that the fans who have been clamoring to have the two match-ups will really see the outstanding scrap of the season.

Interest is already at such a stage that each boy has a large crowd of fans watching the workouts. Backers of both are eager to "lay it on the line" and in many cases willing to give odds on the outcome, but the betting is such that in all probability the odds will enter the ring with the pair-even.

Binns, with a decided edge on condition at the present time, daily goes through rounds of punching the light and heavy bags, shadow boxing, callisthenics, etc., and winds up with seven or eight rounds of work inside the ropes. His sparring partners are usually taking a fine lacing as usual a punch is being pulled and it is quite evident that when the date of the scrap arrives Bennie's followers will see him in the finest condition of his career.

Friday night provided a glaring example of this. Ossie Meikle, a Halifax fighter who has many victories to his credit was in the city at the time and Binns, taking advantage of this, contacted him for a workout. The result of it was that camp followers saw the two stage a bristling five-round encounter that had all the earmarks of a real bout.

Meikle, a short, thick-chested fellow waded into Binns from the opening gong, and there was a regular hail of leather every second of the two were at it. Showing plenty of coolness that has often been lacking in his fights Bennie displayed a damaging left jab that continually set Meikle back on his heels and as the pair fought at close quarters the local middleweight champion again showed a wicked two-fisted attack notwithstanding that he was pitted against a fighter who in his heyday was noted for his infighting ability.

At the end of the session Binns was hardly drawing a quick breath, winding up his evening's work with three rounds on the heavy bag, two rounds of shadow boxing and then decided to call it a day after punching the light bag for the equivalent of three rounds inside the ropes.

Kelly, however, is not letting any grass grow under his feet. Obviously not in the best of condition in his fight against Earl Kinman after being on the canvas with a damaged hand for three months, Binns' challenger is going through a grueling conditioning campaign to enter the ring in the "pink" of condition the night of November 3rd.

Working out daily at the Forum Kelly is all seriousness once he dons his fighting togs. Excess poundage that he carried is rapidly dwindling off his frame and as he nears the middleweight weight limit his punching is becoming keener and harder and his footwork is speeding up. Like Binns, Leo is subjecting his sparring mates to a drum-fire of punches every minute. He never lets up on them and his followers are all smiles as he begins to show flashes of temperament, denoting that he is nearing his fighting edge.

Never making any pre-fight statements nevertheless Kelly is quite confident that this time he will take the measure of the Island champion and atone for a previous defeat. He is not underestimating the hitting power of Binns one bit—he can hit a little on his own—but he feels strongly that Bennie will be too busy defending himself to throw many punches once he (Kelly) starts to force the issue at the opening gong.

Binns is not thinking of losing at all. Rather he wants to add another kayo victory to his string and at the same time settle for all

Rough Hockey Tactics Taboo In England

LONDON, Oct. 25—English hockey rips along daintily these days to a chorus of whistles as referees seek to instill traditions of "cricket" into the game.

In an effort to minimize rough play, the British Ice Hockey Association introduced a penalty shot rule similar to that used in National League competition while they have also adopted stringent "anti-riot" legislation.

Thought Too Severe
"Why they'll have us bowing to attacking wingers next," said Sir Abe Bailey's Maranta, Toronto boy who plays defence for the Greyhounds. He thinks the "clean-play" legislation too severe and says some things frowned on in England would be considered good strategy in Canada.

McAndrew recalled a case where he drew a three minute penalty for whacking the ice with his stick. He made the harmless gesture after an opponent had held his stick.

But the new penalty shot from a line 35 feet from the goal is welcomed by the netminders for it replaces one that gave them the jitters. Under the old free shot, the player could withhold his shot until he reached the goal crease.

"A goalie's job is tough enough without that kind of stuff," said Charlie Teno, Earl's Court Rangers netman, last season with Sudbury's champion Tigers. "If they let them skate in that close the goalie is either going to be knocked through the back of his net or seriously injured."

Abandons Attempt To Set New Record

(C.P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
BAGDAD, Iraq, Oct. 25—H. F. Macdonald, Australian, distance flier, today abandoned his attempt to capture the England to Australia solo flight record held by Miss Jean Batten of New Zealand who yesterday set a new record in the opposite direction.

Macdonald left England last Friday. He was delayed repeatedly by bad weather and gave up here when sandstorms and headwinds were reported along the route to India. He is expected to make another attempt later.

The record Batten seeks was set by Miss Batten at five days, 21 hours, three minutes. In three days of his present attempt, he had not covered half the distance.

Casey Stengel Former Pilot Of Brooklyn Dodgers Accepts Offer To Handle Boston Bees

BOSTON, Oct. 25—Boston Bees today named Casey Stengel, former manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, as their pilot for 1938, succeeding Manager William B. McKechnie.

In a room filled with newspapermen, J. Robert Quinn, president of the Bees, telephoned Stengel at the latter's home in Omaha, Tex., and offered him the job.

Stengel accepted. No terms were announced, but Quinn indicated the question of salary and length of contract would be settled when Stengel came to Boston early next month.

Stengel was idle last summer, although under contract with the Dodgers, from whom he was reputed to have received more money for not managing the club than Burchleigh Grimes, the team's pilot, did for finishing sixth.

Quinn said he had been in doubt of signing Stengel for the Bees until he reached him on the telephone.

"I turned down Casey's request for the job the day after the World Series," he said, "explaining that I had two others in mind—Donnie Bush of Minneapolis and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs."

"When I couldn't get either of them, I feared Casey might already have taken any one of five minor league offers he's had, including Kansas City." But there wasn't any doubt as soon as the telephone connection was made.

"Casey," asked Quinn, "do you want to come with us next year?" "I'd be delighted to," came the reply.

"Okay, you've got the job." "I'm delighted. Thank you. We'll fool a lot of the boys."

Before calling Stengel, Quinn revealed that Hartnett and Bush had been the only two approached, that neither Babe Ruth nor Rabbit Maranville had applied for the post.

William Wrigley, he said, informed him that Hartnett was not available for any managerial job, and that the Cubs' catcher would have a job in the Cubs' organization whenever he gave up playing.

Quinn said he had gone over applications from Rogers Hornsby and about 150 others, but had come to the conclusion "Casey Stengel is the only man left."

"Don't sell Stengel short. He's likely to fool a lot of people, and if he wins next summer... I've wanted somebody who knows the National League, and while Tony Lazzeri would make a pretty good manager in a couple of years, he doesn't know our league."

Stengel is a former pilot of the Brooklyn Dodgers and was with the team from 1935 to 1936. He was with the team from 1935 to 1936. He was with the team from 1935 to 1936.

W.K.S. Rugby Team Blanks Academy 3-0

In a return match played at the C. A. A. grounds yesterday afternoon the West Kent rugby team won their second straight game of the season over the Summerside Academy fifteen by blanking them 3-0. The Lou Campbell coached squad won the opening exhibition game at the western capital 11-0.

Due to the late arrival of the visitors the game did not get underway until near dusk—4.30. The local school team took the offensive from the opening whistle and forced their opponents to touch for safety on several occasions.

Near the close of the initial half the West Kent boys were awarded a penalty kick and Art Perry dropped the puck over the bar from some 25 feet out for what proved to be the winning score of the game.

In the second half the blue and yellow jerseyed warriors again had the advantage in territory, but were unable to break through the stubborn defence of the visitors.

The western aggregation proved a hustling band of ball-followers and occasionally flashed forms of brilliance in striving to deadlock the count. Both teams were guilty of misplays which might have gone for crucial points as tense, pent-up players fumbled the ball or tossed it indiscriminately for poorly executed passes.

Lineup: Summerside: Fullback, Edward Gallant; three quarters, Blair Baker, Charlie Hogan; halves, Benton Rankin, Murray Willett, Hume Ellis, Hubert MacNeill; forwards: Art Wright, Thompson Wright, James Forbes, Bill Wood, John MacNeill, Tammy MacNeill.

W. K. S.—Fullback, Ward; three quarters, Bert Perry, Victorson Irlam; halves, E. McLeod, Jay G. MacLeod; forwards, MacKinnon, Andrew, Haynes, Seaman, Kennedy, Downe, Laocsa, Crockett Referee—Rev. Mr. Wilson. Linesmen—Gordon Bennett, D. Lidstone.

Intercollegiate Rugby Series Opens Today

Prince of Wales rugby team and Second Saints will open their series for the intercollegiate rugby title this afternoon at the C. A. A. Grounds.

The city collegians, present holders of the championship, on the showing of many of their players against the Senior Saint Dunstan's team in recent exhibition games bid fair to retain honors. The Saints enter the fray as more or less "darkhorses," but can be counted upon to field a strong squad.

Red Hamill, fiery winger, and Johnny Shewchuck, detenceman, with Copper Cliff Redmen, who lost to Winnipeg Monarchs in the Canadian junior finals, have both decided to step up into moneyed ranks. The other nickel better is Mel Hill, forward star with Sudbury Tigers, Dominion senior champion.

The Toronto player signed was Johnny Crawford who played defence with St. Michael's College several seasons up to 1934-35 and in 1935-36 was with West Toronto, junior Dominion champion. Last year Crawford played with Kirkland Lake.

Brisk Workout
MUSKOGON, Mich., Oct. 25—Chicago Blackhawks today went through their most spirited scrimmage since they started training here two weeks ago for the National Hockey League wars.

Bill Stewart, who forsook his duties as a referee to take over the Chicago managerial job vacated by Clem Loughlin, said he was impressed by the performance of Cully Dahlstrom.

The rookie centre who played last year with St. Paul of the American Association, replaced Pete Palangio who fractured his wrist in last Saturday's exhibition game. Dahlstrom operated between left wing Oscar Hanson and Bill Kendall. Hanson was the top scorer of the American Association last season.

Bruins Sign Quartet To Bolster Squad

(C.P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
BOSTON, Oct. 25—Three players from Northern Ontario's nickel belt and one from Toronto, have been signed by Boston Bruins, it was announced here today by Weston Adams, club president. Adams, returning from the Bruins' training camp at Hershey, Pa., said the rookies would be sent to Providence to play in the International-American League, subject to recall of the Bruins.

Red Hamill, fiery winger, and Johnny Shewchuck, detenceman, with Copper Cliff Redmen, who lost to Winnipeg Monarchs in the Canadian junior finals, have both decided to step up into moneyed ranks. The other nickel better is Mel Hill, forward star with Sudbury Tigers, Dominion senior champion.

Suspension Of Ottawa Rugby Star Sought

(By The Canadian Press)
TORONTO, Oct. 25—Tommy Allison, president of the Argonaut Football Club of the Big Four, said today he had wired Dr. Andy Davies, president of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, asking that ponderous Bunny Wadsworth of the Ottawa team be suspended for rough play in Saturday's game here, pending investigation.

Wadsworth, 200-pound policeman and plunging middle of the champion Roughriders, was charged by Argos with deliberately using his elbow in the first period to stop Harry Sonshine, star plunger of the Seoulers. Sonshine's jaw was fractured.

In the fourth quarter the Ottawa giant was banished from the field for charging Arnis Stukus, Argos quarterback. Toronto officials, claiming Wadsworth was guilty of deliberate rough play, said an investigation of the player's conduct would be demanded.

Clancy Takes Active Part In Maroon Tilts

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Oct. 25—(CP)—His days as a defence star now history, King Clancy is getting "lots of kick" playing in practice games with Montreal Maroons, the team he hopes to coach to National Hockey League glory this winter.

"The King," who came to the Maroons from Toronto's Maple Leaf's on the understanding he would not participate as a player, today said he can "judge better how these fellows hand it out and take by getting in there with them than by just standing on the sidelines."

Each Clancy took a defence post alongside Allan Shields with the so-called regulars in two week-end exhibition tilts against the Yarnigans. King barged the first goal of the series but his mates lost both games by 5-4 counts.

After a conflag with Tommy Gorman, Maroons' President, Clancy wielded the axe among his rookies, cutting four amateurs from the squad. Floyd Perras, goalie, and Johnny Mahaffey, of Montreal, Doug Boston, Toronto defenceman, and Frank Sullivan, Regina winger, were eliminated.
