FACTS THAT PROVED UNPALATABLE

By the Patriot's Office Cat

"I see," said Our Farmer Friend to the boss the other day after they had settled down to a quiet chat, "that you haven't been giving us much politics lately."
"Your sight is good, anyhow, whatever else may be out of gear," was the reply. "I thought you would notice the omission of politics from the paper. But it is only the calm that preceded the storm. I'm liable to break out again at any time."
"I've noticed that," said the old man, apparently nettled at the brusqueness of his reception. "And you do not always break out in the right spot, either."
"What do you mean?" queried the boss as he scented trouble. "What in the name of Sam Hill have I been doing now? You are always seeing something that no one else sees. You're Job's comforter, beyond a doubt."
"Do you want me to go over it all again," said the caller. "You should not need to be told a thing more than once."
"Oh, go on; unload," said the editor with a smile that I could see was forced. "Get it off your chest. Don't mind me."
"I don't mean to hurt your feelings, but this is a time for plain speaking. You had your fling at several things editorially, including the delegations to Ottawa, the Summer School of Science, the expenses of the Government Departments, and such like, and in each case the tables have been effectively turned. Now I see you have called up one, A. Joffre, who hails from Greek River, wherever that may be, to go over it all again. Generally speaking, he's your long suit. It was Roberts a short time ago and now it is Joffre. You're safe in using these names. Poor Roberts is dead and Joffre is too busy a man to object to the use of his name. Indeed, I don't believe either one of them ever even heard of your paper."
"This bogus Joffre reshapes all the stuff you have been retailing for months, and which has all been exploded," he continued. "And he tickles your fancy at the outset by commenting upon the great improvement in the paper."
"Well, we all like to be told that what we do is done well," said the boss in a tone that I thought was somewhat apologetic.
"But what's the use of getting some chap who has not the courage to sign his real name, or make his expenses over all that stuff, especially that time-worn gag that it was Hughes who got the $100,000 increase in subsidy. That's a raw joke. You know, I know, and every intelligent man in the province knows, that if we waited until Hughes got $100,000 from the Borden Government we would wait until the crack of doom—and then some. Everyone knows that Hughes couldn't get a five cent piece from the conservatives, and you can't make anyone believe that it was he who got the $100,000."

"Don't you know that Farquharson got $30,000 additional subsidy," put in the editor, apparently at a loss for a better excuse to offer for the Hughes claim.
"But what bearing has this on the Hughes case? Farquharson got this increase of subsidy in 1901 for breach of contract in respect to winter communication. There was a Liberal Government in power here at the time. The Liberals were in power at Ottawa."
The editor pointed out that the Liberals got $70,000 in 1907.
"I am aware of that too," said Our Farmer Friend. "I am also aware of the fact that this amount was the smallest that could be given to any province and if there were no delegates at Ottawa. Had our delegates put in a claim showing that we were entitled to more we would have got it. But this was not done. The delegates had a right good time at the public expense and brought home just what was doled out to them. They were entitled to any credit whatever for this concession."
"I could see that the editor did not like this line of talk and was hard at work searching his brain for something to find anything. But he could not find anything. Believing me that old farmer chap is sure some wise guy."
"I see too," went on Our Farmer Friend, "that this man of straw talks about the extravagance and waste of the Public Works Department, for instance."
"If you're wise you'll say very little about the expenditures in that Department," said the caller. "Don't you know that the expenditure of the Public Works Department from Oct. 1st to Dec. 31st, 1911, was $47,634.19. If we add to this road orders unapproved for $4,959.44 and outstanding accounts for $4,854.17, we have $9,847.80 more. Besides, there were inspectors returns unapproved amounting to $921.09. The whole totals up $58,383.94 for the two months. This, presents a monthly average expenditure of $28,267.98. At this rate the expenditure for the twelve months would be $339,215.76!"

"This is certainly a black record," went on the speaker. "And the money was all spent, for the most part, for political purposes. The Liberals were fighting for their very lives. They were in the death agony. They did not have a majority on the floor of the House and their leader was set to lose a seat. I don't see, in view of this, that he is wrong in doing this or your straw man has a license to talk about extravagance and waste of the people's money. I think you had better call off that—"
"Excuse me," said the boss, "someone wants me at the phone in the other office." As he said this he went out, and did not return. I wondered at the time why the boss did not use the phone that was on the desk beside him. But I think I know now.

GERMANS NOW IN POSSESSION OF WARSAW

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Germans are in possession of Warsaw, the Capital of the Russian Empire. The Russian troops entered the city this morning having taken successively the Blonkie lines and the outer and inner fortresses of the town itself, the Russians only fighting rearguard actions to allow the main army to make good its escape. While the Poles have fallen, the honor of taking over Warsaw in the name of the German Emperor and his Consort who are expected to make a state entry within a few days the real conquerors are the troops fighting under the banner of the Emperor. Field Marshal von Hindenburg along the Narva River to the Northeast, and to the Austro-Germans who crossed the Vistula to the South of that city and to the armies of Austrian Archduke Joseph Ferdinand and German Field Marshal von Mackensen which are advancing Northward between the Vistula and the Bug Rivers. Russians, fighting desperately and stubbornly to check the progress of these four armies, had several inflicting heavy losses on their pursuers as a Polish Salient a hazardous undertaking. Even now although the steady advance of the Russian troops and their fierce counter-attacks gained the much valuable time it is problematical whether the whole Russian army will succeed in reaching the new positions chosen for it, and whether, if it should get there, it will not find those positions turned by the Austro-Germans and the Bug Southward, and the Austro-Germans and General von Scholtz and von Gallwitz who have crossed the Narva. At the Northeastern end of the line the Russian communications are further threatened by General von Buelow who is advancing towards Dvinsk on the way to the Petrograd Railway. Indeed although the Austro-Germans have set three traps to catch and destroy the Russian Army none of them sprung, but one was so near to closing that Grand Duke Nicholas was forced to evacuate Warsaw and is now fighting with might to prevent others from cutting off his retreat. Thus far, seemingly he has been successful for although the Germans claim the capture of a large number of prisoners the aggregate is small, when compared with the immense force engaged. In addition the Russian way to the rear. From the west, who left Warsaw even at that early date it is learned the city has been denuded virtually of everything that might be useful to the Teutons. Factories have been stripped off their chimneys and their stores moved to the interior of Russia.
The Russian Government of the city left to the Polish population. Russians also are preparing to evacuate Riga a port on the Gulf of that name. In the North the arrival of Ger-

TERROR IN TURKEY

In describing a visit to the Dardanelles front, a correspondent of the Cologne Gazette sheds remarkable light upon the methods by which the present tyrants of Turkey have to control the country. He writes:
"It is very remarkable to notice how strongly the whole railway line is guarded. The gendarmes, in their blue uniforms, stand motionless by the sentry boxes at intervals, and at all important points there are whole detachments of gendarmes. In spite of the small number of lines, a very large number of men must be engaged in watching the Turkish railways and lines of communication during the war."
It is not surprising in a country which is so dangerous internally, and is swarming with spies. When one considers that, even in our trust-worthy national Germany, which is as good as free from enemy aliens, all the railway lines are still permanently guarded, one can understand the situation in Turkey, which in its good nature still allows English, French and Russians to go free and unmolested about their business.
"Turkey has, moreover, among the Greeks and Armenians so many determined enemies and traitors that it would be impossible to guard against them were not made from time to time a bloody example made—as was recently the case in the square before the Bajazid Mosque, where some twenty distinguished Armenians found at dawn a well-earned death on the gallows. Of course, the provisions against espionage, from which Turkish warships especially always have to suffer, are as severe as can be imagined."

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Everyone who possibly can is enjoying a holiday this month, and those who cannot leave the city for any definite length are enjoying short outings that take them into the country. Within reasonable distance from the city these pleasure resorts are quickly reached and the going and coming by auto, boat or team adds but to the interest of the outing.
A sail up the picturesque West River seems to be one of the favorite outings this season and when the tide permits beautiful Bonshaw is the goal of all lovers of beautiful scenery and the delight of tourists of whom quite a number were to be seen this week.

Wednesday, Aug. 4th, the anniversary of the declaration of war was joyfully celebrated here by special services in the Church of England and a grand patriotic procession and rally in the evening. It was a day that everyone will remember, the anniversary of a war for the freedom of the world.

It is understood that Sir Robert Borden, the Premier, will remain several more weeks in England.

Prof. and Mrs. Barlow have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lay of Amherst for the past week, and are now visiting relatives in other parts of Nova Scotia, having a delightful time.

Rev. Cecil Wiggins of Sackville was welcomed to the city this week and gave pleasure to many of his friends when assisting at the services in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Miss Dorothy McSweeney of Moncton who has a host of friends in Charlottetown and Summerside, left this week for Saratoga, New York, where she will spend a month with friends.

Mr. J. Sydney Roe, Private Secretary to Dr. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs, has returned to St. John having had a pleasant and most successful fishing excursion to this Province.

The Royal Commission brought several prominent visitors to the city this week. Included in the party were Sir Charles Davidson, Royal Commissioner, Mr. John Thompson, K. C., counsel, Mr. A. Fraser, Auditor General of Canada and Mrs. Fraser, Mr. Owens, Court stenographer and Miss Owens all of whom were guests at the Victoria. They left Tuesday for Moncton.

Everyone, young and old, is delighted to have the Khaki lads in camp at Charlottetown. They are now under canvas at Brighton in full strength, and made their first public parade on Wednesday, the anniversary of the declaration of war.

Judge and Mrs. Stewart are home again after a pleasant outing at the bungalow on a recent Mrs. Jones at Shediac Cape.

Dr. and Mrs. Reddy, who have been summering at Keppoch left yesterday morning on return to Montreal having had a delightful month at that charming summer resort.

Among the late arrivals at Keppoch are Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson of Cambridge, Mass., and their daughter Miss Elizabeth. Mr. Ferguson, who is a son of the late Senator Ferguson, is a Professor at Harvard and was on the continent last year doing research work for his University which war broke out. He, with his family were in Switzerland at the time and their experiences then and previously, while touring through Europe, make them most entertaining conversationalists and they are receiving a very warm welcome from their many friends.

The friends of Mr. Neil McQuarrie, K. C., are pleased to know that he has so far recovered from his recent serious accident, that he is now able to resume work at his office downtown.

There has been quite a number of social functions this week and although informal, were quite enjoyable. The largest of these was a very interesting party given by the members of the Y. M. C. A. where one goes knitting and sewing in this laudable cause is quite noticeable.

Chalottetown will be swarming with visitors next week, the occasion of the meeting of Grand Lodge I. O. G. T. of the Maritime Province. A very charming program is being prepared for their entertainment and if the weather is fine the guests should thoroughly enjoy themselves as they are heartily welcome.

Miss Helen Hughes who has been on a yachting trip with a party of friends to Gaspe has returned home.

Colonel Montague Campbell of Sussex is to be the week-end guest of his sister Mrs. Deacon at Brighton.

The Misses Mary and Lucy MacNutt were the guests for a day this week of Mrs. Cecil Stewart at her pretty bungalow at Bellevue.

ROAD DISTRICTS GUN GIFT

Sir—I see by your paper that druggists, merchants and others are doing grand work in raising funds to procure guns for our Island boys, and as the farmers cannot raise large amounts individually I have a proposal to make. There are about four hundred and seventy-six Roadmasters in P. E. I. Why should not every Road Master in P. E. I. raise five dollars in his district? It would only be twenty-five cents for twenty in every district which would make $2,880.00 and there are one half the districts that will make more, so that we ought to make out $4,000. I know that the districts will give that much if the Road Masters will do their part. Now to commence I will do my part. I know my district will do theirs. Don't lag boys, let us get four guns to be called the Road Districts of P. E. I. gift to our boys.

I am, Sir, etc.,
A. W. BRUCE,
Road Master.

UNDERGROUND LIFE HAS REACHED ITS CLIMAX.

VERDUM, via Paris, Aug. 3.—The German hammering at Verdum, the fortress on which the drive of a year ago went to pieces like a wave on a rock, may continue for years and years without making the slightest impression.
The underground life with which the trench combats of this war have familiarized the world, and to which the modern soldiers already are accustomed, here has reached its climax in an immense underground city prepared for the defenders of the key of northern France. Miles upon miles of streets alleys and public squares, chambers stocked with wine, flour and tinned meat and lodgings, recreation rooms, bakery equipped to make bread for fifty thousand men and heat, light and telephone. Like a modern apartment house have been constructed beneath the smiling, unrevealing surface of the meadows of the valley of the Meuse surrounding France's barrier, which has been placed in the path of whoever attacks from Metz.

On the level of the old moats of the ancient fortress 75 feet below the summit, the galleries begin. There are no evidence in the most perfect military preparations that already have been completed of any lack of ammunition necessary to stand an old fashioned siege. Here also the staff is parted and an entire army corps can easily be accommodated underground, with everything necessary for its livelihood for months.

The last violent bombardment by the German long range guns was a wasted effort. The trench and the Germans so near as one has an ideal. The correspondent this morning visited the trenches facing the most advanced German line, ten miles out beyond Charniere, near Champmeville, situated at the head of the Meuse. The French position on a hill is exceedingly strong, and can be held by a comparatively inconsiderable force. It is being intermittently shelled by the Germans and one shell, bursting in a trench just ahead of the visiting party killed three men and wounded several others.

The spirit of determination and the serene confidence of the men are inconceivable to those who have not seen them. They seem to feel that
