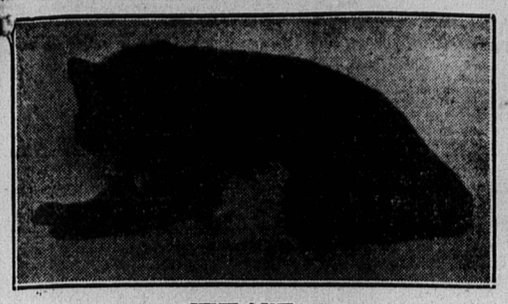
BEGINS IN PATON PAVILION THIS AFTERNOON



VIMY AGNES
World's Champion Silver Fox 1922

IT PAYS TO BREED THE BEST

THE Vimy Ranch was established in 1919. In 1922 it first made its mark in the show ring winning seven firsts out of sixteen, seven seconds out of sixteen and the World's Championship, at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto.

The next year at the International Silver Fox Show held in Boston, Vimy foxes won seven International Championships out of sixteen and five Trophies out of seven.

Since then MacKinnon Foxes have been a big factor at every show where they have been exhibited. They are the result of carefully studied and selected matings and represent the very acme of perfection in standard bred Silver Foxes.

If you are interested in securing a good male or good female from one of the very best strains in the world today, get in touch with us.

FUR PURCHASING AGENCY

Since 1926 we have been representing the Hudson's Bay Company of London, England, the oldest and greatest fur company in the world, established in 1670 and bigger and stronger today than ever before. We are making an active campaign to secure consignments and we are also prepared to purchase any quantity of Silver Fox pelts, paying the highest market price.

Clues Lacking In Recent Theft Of Black Foxes animals would be most difficult. How they were taken from the ranch is uncertain but it is thought that the services of a motor-truck were used in transportation. Numerous roads adjacent to the ranch would make a getaway very easy and it is thought that they were taken to a car or cars on the Fredericton-Woodstock highway.

Over one thousand animals have been housed there this year and it was said that there was no caretaker on the ranch at the time of the theft which was made by cutting the wire in the rear fence of the enclosure. Foxes in the ranch are mostly owned by local interests.

The loss of $1,000 is the heaviest by theft, to fox ranching recorded so far in these parts.

How To Prepare Foxes For Pelting

of old fur and with a well washed skin.

Some ranchers follow the practice of dipping their foxes at this season of the year in various kinds of dips. A good scrubbing in slightly warm water with a tablespoonful of Borax to each two gallons of water will thoroughly clean the fox's coat and skin, and proper feeding will insure a clear, glossy coat that will mean more dollars to every rancher who takes the proper pains with his foxes.

Only enough food should be given to keep your foxes in active, healthy condition and the quantity of food should be gradually increased when the cool weather comes. A fox is not a pig and should never be fed to the point where it becomes too lazy and inactive to play and exercise.

Growing pups now require more food than adult foxes and should be fed to develop size of frame with plenty of bone and muscle. There is plenty of time to put the flesh on the frame after the first of October. Keep the pens and dens clean, guard against fleas, and don't forget regular treatments for Round Worms and Hook Worms; and remember that more damage is done to foxes by overfeeding, especially at this season of the year, than by any other cause.

Careful Breeding

their meats in order that overhead expenses may be kept to a minimum.

The fox being confined in his pen must naturally be dependent upon his caretaker to balance his ration and provide the most essential elements in his daily rations which will not only appeal to his appetite but convey a wealth of blood stream materials. It is, therefore, to his owner's advantage to select those foods which in general practice have proved most suitable for the production of good sized litters and clear colored fur.

While the fox is a carnivorous animal, we must not overlook the fact that vegetables such as carrots, lettuce, raisins, prunes, etc., must be added to the ration as the alkaline mineral salts to be found in such vegetables serve to offset the large amount of acid salts to which the animal is subject on a strictly meat diet. Cereals finely ground, such as barley, corn, wheat and whole oats as well as wheat germ, bran for roughage; codliver oil and all meal and eggs, should be thoroughly mixed with daily feeds of meat and vegetables. Stale bread with plenty of fresh cow's milk makes a balanced ration in itself as a morning meal.

Horse meat I feel is just as good fox feed as is beef if only one uses good judgment and adds to it in his daily rations a small quantity of liver, hearts, some fish, and in the fall and winter months plenty of rabbit, together with the above mentioned cereals.

One very essential point which has caused the loss of many a litter is the fact that a great many of the ranchers fail to warm their meats during the fall and winter months. It is true that the animals will devour frozen feed, but when breeding season and puppy season turn in, the rancher finds he has paid dearly for the little added work it takes to warm all feeds.

A great deal has been written and said about the quantity of feed a fox should consume, but as a fox being confined in his pen must naturally be dependent upon his caretaker to balance his ration and provide the most essential elements in his daily rations which will not only appeal to his appetite but convey a wealth of blood stream materials. It is, therefore, to his owner's advantage to select those foods which in general practice have proved most suitable for the production of good sized litters and clear colored fur.

A great deal has been written and said about the quantity of feed a fox should consume, but as a matter of fact ranchers are more apt to underfeed than overfeed.

It might be well to mention the fact that a fox, like a human being, will almost invariably consume food according to the exercise he takes. Place your animals in a small pen, say 12x50, then place him in a 50x50 pen and then in a large run pen of some six acres or over and you will find the inactive, lazy fox coming from a small pen becomes a real active animal consuming twice as much feed and yet lays on less flesh in the large run pen. Summoning it all up, you will find your animals coming from a large pen in a better physical condition and better fit for the breeding season

This Movie Map Covers Canada

MONTREAL, Nov. 6—(C.P.)—A moving panorama map of the Dominion of Canada the largest of its kind in existence, is being painted by Gordon Hammon, well-known Montreal scenic artist who created the gigantic map used in Canada's exhibit at the Century of Progress Fair at Chicago. The huge canvas is 190 feet long and 10 feet high and will move on a belt behind a stage equipped with an opening 10 feet high by 20 feet wide. It will be exhibited through Canada and England.

Starting from the Atlantic Ocean the scene takes in the whole of Canada to Victoria and the Pacific, employing various colors for cities, towns, lakes and rivers. Government parks stand out distinctly as do the mining areas, and the relative position of one place to another can be easily picked out. Even Canada's sports facilities have been included in this important undertaking.

Nazi Activities Are Discounted

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov 6—Rumors from abroad that Nazi activities were connected with the recent anti-Jewish rioting in Palestine were discounted here today by the Jewish Telegraph agency.

The Hitler Government's policy of Jewish restrictions was seen as having only an indirect effect in Palestine, by giving the Arabian Press ammunition for its attacks on Jewish immigration to that country.

The Jewish agency says, however, that the total number of Jews which have emigrated from Germany to Palestine since Hitler came into power is approximately 6,000.

None of the stringent requirements of the immigration laws into the British mandate have been waived in favor of the refugees and German Jews can enter Palestine only under the regular immigration schedules allotted.

LIVESTOCK

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Nov 6—Offerings on the two Montreal Livestock markets today totaled 6,672.

Cattle receipts were 6,096. There was a marked decrease in the number of cattle offered for sale. Those offered were lacking in quality and the best cattle were of but medium grade. There was a firmer tone and with sellers asking higher prices sales were slow in starting. At time of writing, not enough cattle had been sold to form a basis for quotations.

Calf receipts were 1,498. There were less than 200 drinkers and veal calves for sale, the balance of the offering was made up of common to just fair grassers. Prices were steady. Good quality veals were quoted at $8 to $6.50. Medium veals brought from $5.25 to $5.75 and drinkers and common veals from $2.75 to $4.50. Grass calves were selling from $1.75 to $2.25 with most of the sales at $2.

Good and choice veal, $6 to $6.50; common and medium $2.75 to $5.75; grassers $1.75 to $3.25.

Sheep receipts were 2,188. Good ewes and wethers were sold for $5.75. Lambs, weighing 95 lbs. no more, were discounted $1 per cwt. Culls and bucks brought $3.75. One straight load of mixed lambs was sold for $5, including culls and bucks. Sheep were unchanged at $1 to $2.50 with the bulk at $1.50 to $2.

Ewes $1 to $2.50; lambs good, $5.75 common .75 cents to $5.

Hog receipts were 2,190. Hogs were fully 15 cents higher. Between 800 and 100 hogs were sold early at $5.90 for bacons and butchers. Selects drew $1 per hog premium. Heavies were $5.40 and extra heavies $4.90 and lights $5.65. Sows were from $4.25 to $5.25, according to quality and weight.

PRODUCE

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Nov 6—The recent upward movement on the Montreal dairy and produce market was continued during today's trading. Eggs and cheese showing strength while other lines remained unchanged. With fresh egg production in Canada now at the low point of the year and with an improved export inquiry for storage eggs, the egg market shows continued strength. Strictly fresh eggs in carlots or less were quoted at 44 to 45 cents a dozen for extras, 38 to 40 cents for firsts, 35 to 37 cents for pullets and 18 to 19 cents for seconds. Storage eggs remained at 21 cents for extras, 19 cents for firsts and 16 cents for seconds. Receipts were 1,124 cases which included storage eggs en route for export.

The cheese market was fractionally firmer being quoted at 9¾ to 9½ cents a pound for Ontarios and 8¾ to 9 cents for Quebecs. Higher sterling quotations and improved export demand strengthened the market. Arrivals totalled 110 boxes.

No 1 grade butter in carlots or less held steady at 20¾ to 21 cents a pound. Offerings totalled 26 boxes.

The potato market was unchanged at 65 to 70 cents per 80 pound bag of Quebecs and 75 to 80 cents for New Brunswick green mountains in similar quantities

Woo Chong Kee To Seek Sight In Fatherland

MONTREAL, Nov. 6—(C.P.)—Woo Chong Kee, prominent Chinese-born Montreal merchant, widely respected in the Chinese colony here and boasting hundreds of Canadian friends, after 32 years in Canada, is going home. Blind and old, Woo Chong Kee is returning next month to his native Cathay to enjoy his Cantonese orchard before death claims him. Accompanying him will be his son, Willie Woo, one of the most prominent all-round athletes in Montreal. Willie intends to continue his university studies, started at McGill University, in a Chinese institution, coaching a basketball team as part payment for his tuition.

It is just 32 years ago, when the Manchu dynasty ruled China that Woo decided to come to Montreal. But before he disembarked in the harbor, he encountered numerous adventures. The father of the present Mr. Woo had gone out to Australia during the gold rush and made a modest fortune. His son then joined him in Melbourne and became a tea importer rather than the traditional Chinese laundryman. Before he left, however, he married a pretty little Chinese girl. After 10 years he returned, but deciding things did not look so promising in China as they did in the new world, he set out once more, with California as his particular goal.

Woo changed his destination, however, when he was told by an importer that he would make him his agent should he come to Montreal. And so, in the early years of the present century the ambitious oriental was found trekking from door to door, lugging his wares and peddling his tea. After he had been in the country 10 years and had set up his shop, he sent for his wife whom he had not seen during that time.

Since then his business has steadily grown. Last year Mrs. Woo died. Stricken with grief the old man gradually grew weaker, until finally the doctors told him if he could get back to a warm land he might regain his sight, lost 10 years ago from overwork. He is therefore going back to Canton, or possibly Victoria, Hong Kong's Island's lovely capital with his son, who feels that his destiny lies under Chinese skies, to lead the way.
