ANOTHER ROBBERY—Another robbery is reported this week from the office of Auld Bros. of this city, which was entered and the safe robbed of $98. Entrance was effected by the breaking of a window just above the roof in the rear of the office. The robbery was discovered on Monday morning.

WELL MERITED PRAISE—In his charge to the jury at the McKinnon trial Thursday morning His Lordship the Chief Justice referred to that spendid old officer, Sergeant Bradley. It is fitting that such faithful service should be thus recognized. The Guardian wishes Sgt. Bradley many more years of active service.

WHERE THE FAULT LAY

As an Irish police recruit strolled along on his first turn of night duty, loud yells of "Fire" rent the air. He halted quickly to the spot and found a house full of people with a man hanging out of an upstairs window.

"Help! Help!" he yelled. "If I jump will you catch me?"

"Sure, an Oi will" replied the policeman readily.

So the man jumped, only to crash to the ground and lie there stunned. When, a few minutes later, he recovered consciousness he looked up at the constable reproachfully and murmured softly: "If I caught you, you said you could catch me!"

"Begorra!" replied the Irishman. "Oi was only waiting for ye to bounce an Oi had had ye?"

Egyptian Women Prospering

The rebelleh of Egypt, for centuries the most ignorant and improvident of serfs, has ridden into prosperity on the tidal wave of reconstruction, and with him his long suffering wife, still, as in the days of Christ, may see him on his donkey with his wife, with her heavy burden on her head, trudging behind. Yet there is a real, if invisible change in their relations.

Through the sudden rise in the price of cotton from $20 to $100 a kamir since the beginning of the war, the housewife has been enabled to make long-neglected purchases and has been enabled to display her native shrewdness in bargaining and financial matters. It is she who markets all the products of the farm.

When cows are kept inside, the stable should be cleaned regularly and some absorbent material like sawdust, shavings, or straw, should be scattered along the passages, on the platform, and in the gutter. This helps very much in cleaning the stable, and in keeping the cows clean, and in keeping the cowshed dry.

Another advantage of stabling on frosty nights, is that it prevents cows eating frozen feed, which is generally injurious to milk cows. They may be kept in the stable or yard, and during the winter months, in this way, animals are protected against digestive troubles, and conditions are more favorable for maintaining the health and milk-flow of the animals.

NAMES FOR CARS.

Girls' names for automobiles is the newest fad in Paris. "Gloria" for a ride with "Veronique," is the favorite, and you find the word "Gloria" neatly scrawled under the windshield. Similarly, "Alice" may be taken out of tea, and instead of a girl friend it is a car.

Maids are appearing with more frequency. Both the square and diamond types are being used.

HEARD OWN BURIAL SERVICE

Dying Millionaire Had What Might Be Called a "Rehearsal" in His Bedroom.

When Mr. Parker Mason, shrewd and level-headed millionaire of the United States, was on the point of dying a few years ago having a rehearsal of his own funeral service in his bedroom, he called in a Presbyterian minister, and a few members of the church heard in his presence and that of his family and a number of his friends. The clergyman preached an eloquent and touching sermon on the virtues and charities of the dying man, and the choir sang appropriate hymns. At the conclusion of the service, which the millionaire had followed with the closest interest and attention, he warmly complimented both the preacher and the choir on their performance, and after dismissing them sent for an undertaker and made the necessary arrangements and had a personal interview with the pall bearers, it died ten hours later, and was buried with the same service to which he had listened when alive. Clynes Paints

Gloomy Picture

LONDON, Jan. 19.—J. R. Clynes, leader of the Labor forces in the House, speaking at Manchester last night said public men should be thinking not about elections but about the appalling industrial conditions.

Local authorities and relief agencies, he said, were distracted by the demand made upon them. The unemployed were now reduced to such slender resources that they could not live for long under the allowances received from relief bodies.

Shortly their dire necessity would have exhausted their patience and privation might drive them to excesses.

"We must cease manoeuvring for political advantage and concentrate on trade revival," declared Mr. Clynes.

DRINK PLENTY OF FRESH WATER

Few people realize the value of the general health of the habit of drinking plenty of pure fresh water. It is said that to make up for the liquid waste of the body, about three pints should be drunk every day.

Often one will get up in the morning with a dull headache; the digestive system is in some way out of order. Often a glass or two of water will in a little while relieve the trouble. Again in the morning the stomach is unfit for the immediate reception of food. This mucus would only mingle with the food and hinder digestion. A glass or two of water, drunk on getting up, will wash this mucus out of the stomach, and leave it ready for breakfast. And, by washing out the system daily, it will surely prevent headaches and derangement of the liver and kidneys.

It is said that the slipping of hot water has a most beneficial effect on the heart action, and that it regulates the flow of bile. But, early in the morning very few people have time to sit up and sip a cup of water.

Neither should the water be drunk cold because this will lower the temperature of the stomach too much. Water is perhaps best heated to a little higher than the blood temperature, for then it may pass from other activities from time to time to take a swallow. If a little salt is added to the water, its beneficial qualities will be enhanced and the flavor will be less unpleasant. Better still would be a few teaspoons of lemon juice with no sugar. The lemon juice acts on the liver. Yet, if one has plenty of time, there is no good reason why he may not sip hot water.
