

Serviceable Whisks

A whisk broom is something we want to last, when one begins to go to pieces it is practically worthless. It scatters broom corn all over the house and is a nuisance. The kind of whisks we sell do not easily go to pieces; they wear off at the business end and become stubs in time, but stay whole till the last. If you want such whisks we have them from

RECRUIT FOURTH CONTINGENT.

LONDON, Ont., June 16.—General Sam Hughes stated here to-day that the total strength of Canada's forces, when the fourth contingent is raised, will be some 155,000 men. Seventy-three thousand Canadian soldiers, he said, are already overseas. This is practically as large a force as Wellington had at Waterloo.
Instructions for the recruiting of the 35,000 men of the fourth contingent, he said, will be issued within a few days.

TO THE MEMORY OF PRIVATE JOHN WILLIAM McDONALD

"Greater Love Hath No Man Than This, That A Man Lay Down His Life," etc. So at the age of 26 years John William McDonald, bravely fought and nobly died, in Liverpool Military Hospital, of wounds received on the battlefield in Belgium, May 26, 1915. Born at Bradabane, P. E. I., son of the late Donald and Mrs. Isabel McDonald, at the age of sixteen he first entered Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, and was successful in securing a 2nd Class Teacher's License. After teaching school at Springfield for two years he again attended P. W. College, this time passing in the first class. In August of that year he went West, where he taught school in British Columbia for three years and for two years previous to August last he was engaged in the study of law in the city of Vancouver. When his King called for men to defend our Empire and all that good men hold dear, he manfully answered: Here am I. Send me. Bravely enduring all the hardships with the first contingent without a single complaint. Through all the unprecedented weather conditions on Salisbury Plain, patiently training for the day they might become fit to face the foe and for sixteen days on constant duty when the "Canadians saved the situation."

God's day of wrath could not be worse; The sky rained fire, The earth rolled like the sea, And yet for hours in vain their fury burst, They stood firm-rooted like their Maple Tree. They fell by hundreds, died at duty's post. Civilians they had been a year before, Yet one division fought a German host. And held them from the English Charge, and never end. They laughed at death and died for freedom's sake; Sheer weight of numbers made the thin line bend. The German Army could not make it break.

Early in life he became a member of Summerfield Presbyterian Church, in which church on June 6th a service was held in honor of his memory conducted by the pastor, Rev. George Irvin, assisted by Rev. L. J. Leard, (Methodist), who so kindly changed the hour of service in his own church and so sweetly sang that comforting solo "Up There Sometime We'll Understand."

The Church was filled with those who out of sympathy for the bereaved and admiration for the deceased, came a considerable distance. He leaves to mourn (but not as those who have no hope) his widowed mother, two sisters and two brothers, Annie (Mrs. Hugh F. McKay) and Jeanette for the last year teacher at North

GERMAN INTERESTS NO LONGER CONNECTED WITH ST. LAWRENCE SUGAR REFINERIES, LIMITED

For some time past a strong feeling has manifested itself in the community directed against persons of either German name or birth. As a consequence, the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries, Limited, has been adversely criticised because it numbered among its shareholders certain persons of German name or origin. The old St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery Company, which was organized over forty years ago, included many Germans among its shareholders, several of whom resided in Germany. When the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries, Limited, acquired the assets of the old Company, nearly all of the former German shareholders disappeared.
With the retirement of Mr. A. Baumgarten and Mr. O. W. Donner, as announced last week, the last German of either name or origin has ceased to hold any interest as a shareholder and at the present time there is not one single dollar of German money invested in the Company, on the contrary, the entire capital is now held by investors of Canadian or British origin.
The present officers and directors of the Company have taken every step necessary to place the Company beyond criticism with respect to the interests connected with it either financially or otherwise, and while malicious reports may be circulated as to the continuance of German interests in the Company, the directors are able to give an unqualified denial to any such statements. If these reports were made, it must be considered that they are made with the object of damaging the Company's business and injuring its name and reputation. The Company is therefore prepared to take such legal steps as are necessary to protect itself against the further circulation of any such reports.

ISLAND BOY AT BATTLE FRONT

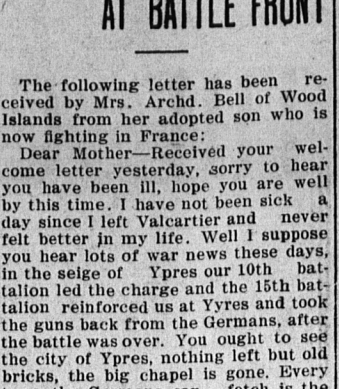

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Archd. Bell of Wood Islands from her adopted son who is now fighting in France:
Dear Mother—Received your welcome letter yesterday, sorry to hear you have been ill, hope you are well by this time. I have not been sick a day since I left Valcartier and never felt better in my life. Well I suppose you hear lots of war news these days, in the sequel of Ypres our 10th battalion led the charge and the 15th battalion reinforced us at Ypres and took the guns back from the Germans, after the battle was over. You ought to see the city of Ypres, nothing left but old bricks, the great chapel is gone. Every town the Germans can catch is the chapel and the churches and knocks them over any way. They started on the 22nd of April to do it right, and all you could see was women, kids and old men beating it, some carrying away their stuff on wheels and on their backs, it was fierce, nothing left but ruins, and dead civilians, dead horses, dogs and cats all over the place. When the shell started whistling all around us it made you think it was any place but this world. You don't look for a dry place to take cover, you just take the first place you see. When I first heard the shells I didn't know what it was but I soon found out. We have a piece of a German shell that burst in Ypres, the blacksmith is using it for an anvil. So you can imagine the size. Our aviators do good work and we are being up in the air and the shells bursting all around them. They have their nerve right with them. I don't mind these shells now like I did first because if you are going to get hit you will get hit anyhow and we have been very lucky so far. We have lost only two horses so we can't kick. There was a German shell just hit over around our batteries. I can see the smoke from where I am writing this letter. I don't think the war will last much longer. Well I have written about all I can think of at present. What battalion is John Stewart in. I may look him up when he gets back from the hospital. Remember me to everybody

ORANGE AND RHUBARB JAM
Remove the rind from eight sweet oranges. Boil it in water until it is tender. Drain, scrape off the white part, and cut the remainder into narrow strips. Clear the oranges as much as possible from any adhering white pith, break into pieces, and seed. Cut up four lbs. of rhubarb. Place with the oranges in a preserving pan, and cook over a gentle heat for three quarters of an hour. Add four pounds of sugar and the cut rind. Boil until the jam sets when tested in the usual way.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallow'd mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.
By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay;
And Freedom shall a while repair,
To dwell a weeping hermit there.
