THE POTATO EMBARGO

H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce for Canada.

The Canadian Department of Agriculture claims that lifting of the Canadian embargo would open Eastern Canada to the menace of the wart disease and probably result in the prohibition of entry of Canadian potatoes into the United States—one of the Dominion's principal present markets.

"We are therefore confronted with a very difficult situation, i.e., that Great Britain considers the maintenance of this embargo against English potatoes as reasonable sufficient to warrant them maintaining an embargo against ours," wrote Hon. Mr. Stevens in reply to a letter from Mr. Smith urging efforts to open up the British market.

"On the other hand, if we remove the embargo we risk the loss of the American market, and perhaps other countries," continued Mr. Stevens. "In spite of this we are persevering in our efforts to secure the removal of the British embargo, but I confess, in the light of the above, the situation does not look very hopeful."

With reference to the hope the State of Maine potato growers were reported to have held for the opening of the market for their products in Japan via the Panama Canal, and the suggestion from Mr. Smith that there might be an opportunity there for Maritime Provinces growers, the Minister of Trade and Commerce was skeptical. "I frankly question whether this is possible," he wrote in reply to a letter from Mr. Smith. "If any shipments were made from this continent to Japan they would almost certainly be from the Pacific coast, British Columbia, Oregon and Washington. However, we will make inquiries but I confess to you that I see very little opportunity for this."

Commenting on this correspondence, Mr. Smith said: "I am free to admit that in my judgment the price that we should pay for the lifting of the embargo on potatoes entering the British market would be too great. We cannot afford at the present time to jeopardize in any way the outlets we have in the Southern States and in Cuba for our seed and table stock."

"Our transportation facilities via water makes it possible for us to take advantage of these markets and already there have been shipped hundreds of thousands of barrels of seed from the Maritimes to the Southern States and the island of Cuba. All the table stock that has been consumed in Cuba this year, thus far has come from the Maritimes except some small shipments that went from Maine which they were enabled to ship only on account of the very low price prevailing and the preference they have in Cuban markets."

"Under ordinary circumstances this competition would be eliminated. "I find there is a false impression in many quarters with reference to our obtaining no further concessions in the Cuban market for our potato products. Arguments have been advanced, that if we were to give them certain concessions on their sugar and tropical fruits, that they would give us in return concessions on our potatoes."

"In the face of the British West Indies treaty which was entered into some four or five years ago, which gives to those islands a preference in our markets, it is absolutely impossible for us to grant concessions to the island of Cuba such as is suggested. "A line of steamship communications has been established between Canada and the British West Indies and that treaty which was entered into by the government of Canada five years ago cannot be abrogated except for valid reasons."

"If we should admit the European potatoes into this market it no doubt would result in the placing of an embargo by the United States and Cuba against, not only our seed, but our table stock as well."

Same Treatment For Canadian Railway Lines

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11.—Canadian lines in the United States and subsidiaries controlled by Canadian transportation companies will be accorded exactly the same treatment in the disposition of the pool, which is to be formed from the profits gained from the increased freight rates recently approved by the interstate commerce commission, as railways that are wholly owned and operated within the United States. This was made clear this evening by Sir Henry Thornton, following meetings here today on the American railway executives association's advisory and general committees.

Sir Henry, who as a member of the advisory committees represented both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways at today's meetings, stated when interviewed tonight that "the accident of ownership will not in any way affect the participation of United States lines on the Canadian railways in the pool."

No Explanation For Resignation

(Canadian Press)

FREDERICTON, N. B., Dec. 11.—While nothing was forthcoming today from official circles as to the reasons for the resignation of Brigadier-General F. W. Hill, Chief Commissioner of the New Brunswick Police, or the identity of his successor, it is reported unofficially in local circles that the appointment will go to a man outside the Province. It is rumored that Captain E. C. P. Salt, who organized the provincial force, and resigned in 1929, to return to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, may be offered the post.

Brigadier General Hill's resignation is to take effect on January 1. It is likely that his successor will be named in the near future.

under the guidance of a committee, shall collect information for the central organization. There will be a national organization to centralize overseas propaganda and possibly offices in the principal overseas centres. It is proposed further that Lancashire municipalities should contribute from their local taxes.

The scheme—still in its initial stages—marks another forward step in a drive for trade which the "buy British campaign" is carrying to the most remote villages of the countryside. The young British businessman long ago abandoned the "take it or leave it" attitude which characterized British industry of the Victorian days. He is pressing his goods both at home and abroad.

Employment figures for the past two months have shown a net improvement of about 184,000. Manufacturers in the chief exporting industries are looking to a revival of business in the new year. Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, is authority for the statement that 99 per cent of the home market for steel ingots is held by British-made goods. Ninety-two per cent of the tinplate bars used in this country are home-produced.

Yet it would be a mistake to imagine anyone in authority considers Great Britain out of the woods. The impetus given British exports by the fall of the pound is being offset now by its instability. Exporters hesitate to quote far ahead. In addition, 23 countries have placed restrictions on exchange transactions which add to the difficulty. "International trade," observes one financial authority, "cannot thrive under present conditions." One method suggested to meet the exchange difficulty is the establishment of clearing houses where goods might be exchanged through a modified system of barter.

And British Parliament rises for the Christmas recess with the members all agog over the Government's fiscal policy. In the interval, the government will examine the effect of the anti-dumping duties, and study the whole situation. It will submit its policy when Parliament reassembles. In the meantime, a drive for a general tariff continues vigorously.

Bennett Government Seeks To Eliminate U. S. Middlemen

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 11.—Plans to free Canadian trade from the tribute it now pays to banking, brokerage, shipping and warehousing services in the United States are being studied by the Dominion Government, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated here last night. Already, he said, negotiations have been entered with three branches of the manufacturing industry to induce them to cease buying imported raw materials through United States agencies.

The recent drop in the value of the Canadian dollar in New York, Mr. Stevens said, had demonstrated more forcibly than ever before that Canada was too dependent on the United States. The tariff might correct an adverse balance of trade but other steps were needed to make this country independent.

Every year, the Minister said, this country imported millions of dollars worth of rubber from the East Indies, millions of dollars worth of hides from the Argentine, large quantities of wool from New Zealand and of coffee from Brazil and silk from Japan. Practically all these goods were brought from the United States.

This meant they were carried in United States ships and the profits from servicing and handling, stayed in the United States. Producing countries exported to the United States and when Canada went to ask favorable terms for Canadian exports from those countries they complained that they sold no goods to Canada.

The department, Mr. Stevens said, had taken the matter up with the rubber, silk and wool industries and was seeking to arrange a system whereby those industries could buy their materials direct from the producing countries, thereby keeping the benefits of trade in Canada.

The most serious difficulty was the reluctance of the average business man to change his way of doing business. But the governments advances had received a favorable reception and early action was to be expected.

Mr. Stevens brought his visit to Winnipeg to a close with an address to the MacDonald-Carter Club. During the day he spoke to a Board of Trade luncheon and conferred with officials of the Board of Grain Commissioners and with John I. MacFarland, general manager of the wheat pools. He left last night for Regina where he is to speak today at a Board of Trade luncheon.

Next week Mr. Stevens is to sail for Honolulu to meet Hon. Downie Stewart, New Zealand Minister of Trade and Customs to draw up a trade treaty between that country and Canada.

Early Settlement Of Fisherman's Strike

(Canadian Press)

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Dec. 11.—The next few days will probably lead to settlement of the fishermen's strike, which has kept 270 men and 35 boats ashore for the past nine days. Members of the North Sydney Fishermen's Union were in session here all day considering an offer made by the Northern Fish Company, terms of which have not been disclosed to the general public, and though no decision was reached it was expected that the proposition would be acceptable. The Federation will convene again today.

Word reaching this town from Montreal, North Sydney's chief fish market, indicated that the wholesale price of fish there had dropped from five to four cents a pound, carload lots. The fishermen claim that while they were unable to obtain two cents a pound for their product, it was retailing in the Province of Quebec for twelve.

Moderators View Of Western Outlook

(Canadian Press)

AMHERST, N. S., Dec. 11.—Courage in the face of storm and drought has kept the Canadian West a land of hope, Rev. Dr. E. H. Oliver told his hearers at a public meeting here last night. "The west may be down, but the west is not out," declared the United Church Moderator. Natural difficulties had been faced and were being faced with indomitable courage and hardihood. And the common need, he continued, was creating a more united and neighborly Canada.

Speaking at a conference called for discussion of the church's missionary and maintenance fund, the Moderator said that "east and west, the United Church of Canada is being welded more firmly by the present crisis in business, industrial and agricultural affairs." On a tour across the Dominion he had found increased devotion among the people.

The United Church, Dr. Oliver said, had spent $100,000 in aiding western churches, and had lost $225,000 in revenue from that area. Maritime Presbyteries reported the raising of $231,786 in these provinces last year for the missionary and maintenance fund. Efforts to equal that amount for the current year were promised.

It is known that the Minister of Fisheries, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, is keenly interested in such a project, although possibly not in the form as suggested by Mr. Britain. Whether or not the Government would deem it practical to appropriate money for a fish consumption campaign at the present time is questionable, but it is believed only the scarcity in funds would prevent the Department of Fisheries co-operating wholeheartedly in such a scheme.

To Negotiate

is not so much of a problem for during the last fiscal year it brought from Canada some 70 different commodities most of which were not produced in that island. Automobiles was the largest importation from Canada, to the value of $3,427,931. Rubber manufactures totalled $2,114,926 while canned vegetables and corn starch were both over the million mark.

Much thought has been given to the possibility of importing New Zealand canned fish. They are said to be very great delicacies which might become popular in wealthy circles. Next to butter, New Zealand's largest sales to Canada has been in sausage casings valued last year at $1,735,832.

To Increase Consumption Of Fish In Can.

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 11.—Assistance of the Dominion Government in conducting a coast-to-coast newspaper advertising campaign to increase consumption of fish in Canada is being sought. A. H. Britain, President of the Canadian Fisheries Association, said here today. Efforts are being made to obtain a fund of $150,000 for the purpose.

Mr. Britain said that already an elaborate survey of the industry had been made, and that Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries, is studying the matter through his department. "The consumption and sale of the sea fish must be increased," he said, "and a campaign of advertising throughout Canada will do the job. This is the one and only way that I know of quickly and permanently bringing about an improvement in conditions in the industry. Let the fishermen and the industry at large get behind such a scheme, and an increased consumption of only 10 lbs. per capita per year would mean about $4,000,000 added wealth to the country at large."

Pointing out that the harvest of the sea represents great potential wealth to Canada if properly developed and marketed, Mr. Britain said that such a campaign would put the industry on a basis where it would rub shoulders with similar unified efforts which had been made in the past by meat producers, and that the community at large would be given the opportunity of buying a commodity of great nutritive value at a low price.

MINISTER INTERESTED

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 11.—(By The Canadian Press)—Official comment was not available on the proposal in Montreal today by A. H. Britain, that the Dominion Government contribute to a fund of $150,000 for a Canada-wide advertising campaign to increase the consumption of fish. Mr. Britain who is President of the Canadian Fisheries Association, was quoted in a despatch as of the opinion that a national advertising campaign could quickly bring a great advantage to the trade.

It is known that the Minister of Fisheries, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, is keenly interested in such a project, although possibly not in the form as suggested by Mr. Britain. Whether or not the Government would deem it practical to appropriate money for a fish consumption campaign at the present time is questionable, but it is believed only the scarcity in funds would prevent the Department of Fisheries co-operating wholeheartedly in such a scheme.

Hypnotist Fails With Prosecutor

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—All the concentrated efforts of the most competent hypnotists in the world could not put Auguste Angers, K. O. to sleep, according to J. A. Porin, dit Latremouille, who appeared before Judge J. O. Lacroix in the Court of Summary Convictions charged with obtaining money under false pretences in his capacity as "professor of hypnotism." Mr. Angers, Crown Prosecutor, is a miserably poor subject for hypnotism, the accused told him.

With much elaborate passings of the hands and manipulations of eye balls, Porin, dit Latremouille, tried for some time to cast the lawyer under his hypnotic influence in open court. Judge, witnesses, and other lawyers sat in attentive silence while the "professor" sought to make good his threat that he could hypnotize the Crown Prosecutor. But the accused's piercing eyes fixed themselves on Mr. Angers in vain, and his long thin hands waved about without effect; the lawyer was still wide awake after several minutes of this procedure.

Porin finally threw up his hands in despair. He brushed his long hair back from his brow and turning to the judge admitted frankly that it was impossible for him to hypnotize the lawyer. "You are a bad subject; nobody could ever hypnotize you," he told Mr. Angers, while the "bad subject" and others in court chuckled heartily.

The accused's failure was not only of professional moment to him either. For the futile experiment came after he had challenged the Court on the subject. "Give me three years in the penitentiary if I do not hypnotize the Crown Prosecutor in a few minutes," he had told the judge. Now he was in a dilemma; but Judge Lacroix assured him he would not hold him to his offer.

No Proof of Guilt

In the end, Porin found that he had not altogether failed to impress the court. He was acquitted on the false pretences charge. The judge said he found no proof that the accused had obtained $38 from one of his pupils by false pretences. This sum, His Honor stated, had been paid for lessons in hypnotism.
