The Guardian received from J. F. Wheat, Postmaster City, an interesting souvenir program of the sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., which was held in Atlanta, Georgia since Sept. 19th concluding Saturday. The cover of the program has the seal of the order and the state when they are convening and the three links of the fraternity. The souvenir is profusely illustrated with public and private buildings of Georgia which enhance its value as a souvenir. For the use of the members attending the convention there is a full list of delegates in attendance, officers of the Grand Lodge and full program of the sessions. The booklet is an excellent specimen of the printer art, and is an attractive souvenir of a great convention.

John Taylor, formerly of St. Peter's Island, but for several years past a resident of Moyle, B. C., had had a thrilling experience recently. He and a friend named Hudson went out in a canoe duck shooting one evening and the canoe became capsized, and Hudson sank but Taylor seized him and got him to grasp the canoe. He lost his grip again. Once more Taylor succeeded in saving him. A third time he went under that time to find a watery grave. Taylor was also getting exhausted. But for another half hour he clung to the canoe which it was nearly impossible to keep sufficiently steady to maintain his grasp. The night was very cold with frost in the air, and when Taylor was about to give up in despair, numbed and exhausted, he saw a man in a motor boat hastened to his rescue. He was reached just in the nick of time and is now none the worse of his exposure. The body of his chum was recovered the following day in 80 feet of water.
