Minor Damage Reported From Rural Quebec

They were the signs that told all New Brunswick, Ontario and Quebec and 17 states across the border that the earth's crust had shifted.

The tremors started at 1:05 a.m. and lasted less than a minute in most areas. They were much more widespread than the quakes that started southern Alberta and Montana Thursday, although damage was considerably greater and citizens more frightened by the northeastern states and three Canadian provinces were jarred by the most severe earthquake to hit this area in 10 days today and scientists predicted it would be followed by further shocks.

Although extensive in scope, the tremors did comparatively little damage except in Quebec, where railway tracks were twisted and broken near Parent.

In other sections hundreds of sleeping citizens were awakened to find their beds swaying, their noses creaking, and the dishes rattling in their cabinets. Frightened, they swamped police and newspaper switchboards with calls for information.

Ernest A. Hodgson, seismologist of the Dominion Observatory, said after shocks nearly always occur at the epicentre of the original quake, but frequently were of a minor nature. Dr. Don Lett of Harvard University expressed certainty there would be following quakes in the East.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Seventeen northeastern states and three Canadian provinces were jarred by the most severe earthquake to hit this area in 10 days today and scientists predicted it would be followed by further shocks.

TO SEARCH FOR EPICENTRE OF QUAKE

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—The Dominion observatory prepared tonight to send a man in search of the epicentre of a severe earthquake that rocked the eastern part of the continent early today, twisted railway tracks in western Quebec and tore a long hole in the ground.

Dr. R. Meldrum Stewart, director of the observatory, and Dr. Ernest A. Hodgson, its chief seismologist, early in the day placed the epicentre about 180 miles northwest of Ottawa, in a sparsely settled region near the Canadian National Railway transcontinental line from which no quake had ever been reported before. Dr. Hodgson will start for there Monday by train.

Cumulative evidence of damage in that area, coupled with seismographic records from their own and other observation points, tended to confirm official belief the quake had its origin northwest of Ottawa. The land in this district is rocky and rolling, wooded and dotted with small lakes and rivers. Its elevation varies from about 1,000 to 2,000 feet above sea level. Most of the rock is granite.

Seismographs were thrown out of commission by the violence of the shock after making a record of less than one minute. The instruments showed the first preliminary tremors arrived at 1:04:20 a. m. E. S. T. and the record continued for more than one hour, although the tremors were felt by alarmed citizens for only a few seconds or minutes.

Dr. Hodgson, a veteran seismologist, said the quake was the second he felt personally. He estimated his house rocked for about two minutes. Most other reports from here indicated the shocks lasted 30 seconds or less, except in one case where an apartment house superintendent claimed to have timed them for 14 minutes.

Variations in the reported duration of the shocks occasioned no great surprise, partly because houses built on different kinds of soil shake in earthquakes with varying degrees of violence and for longer or shorter periods and partly because different types of buildings set up different kinds of vibrations during tremors.

Officials generally agreed after-shocks were likely to occur but would not predict they would be felt over wide area. They were more likely to occur close to the epicentre, they said.

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—Federal steamboat inspectors opened an inquiry late today into the first major shipwreck of the season on the Great Lakes, which sent the Norwegian freighter Viator to the bottom of Lake Huron.

Capt. C. J. Steffensen of the Viator said his 231-foot vessel, bound for Chicago with a cargo of pulp, fish, and cod liver oil, was rammed and sunk by the motorship Ormidale in a dense fog yesterday, 10 miles south of Thunder Bay Island.

The Ormidale, en route from Duluth to Buffalo with a cargo of pig iron, took off all 18 members of the Viator's crew.

Members of both crews were instructed to appear at once before Capt. William Kiel and Capt. William Dungan, steamboat inspectors, for questioning.

ONTARIO BOND ISSUES (C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—A syndicate headed by Wood Gundy and Company today purchased a $15,000,000 provincial bond issue. Ontario treasury officials announced today.

The issue was sold at 98.85 to yield 2.65 per cent, it was stated and used to refund an issue made by the Dryden Government which sold on a yield of 6.82 per cent. A saving to the province of approximately $600,000 a year is estimated. The original issue was for $16,000,000 of which $1,200,000 has been retired.

QUEBEC, Nov. 1.—From remote mountain villages along isolated stretches of the old Canadian National Railway Transcontinental line in northern Quebec word trickled into Quebec tonight over a heavily-burdened despatchers' wire to tell intimate stories of an earthquake that jarred the entire northern area and terrified a widely-scattered populace.

Droll messages from station agents, only source of information throughout the hinterlands, told of the jolts that broke away railway embankments at widely-separated areas and rumbled on into the northern mountains with a roar that residents said resembled a fast train racing over a wooden trestle.

Height of the disturbance, that brought sleeping residents from their beds, shook buildings, rattled windows, shifted furniture, and in one lumbering settlement sent a pile of logs tumbling into a lake, appeared to have been reached near

HELENA QUAKE DAMAGE GROWS (A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 1.—Scores huddled around campfires outside Helena tonight, afraid to return to their homes in the quake-stricken city as winter pressed down from the sky and the earth still trembled below.

Oscar Baarson, city engineer, estimated that yesterday's earthquake shock added between $500,000 and $1,000,000 to the previous losses of $2,500,000 caused by the quakes of Oct. 12 and 18.

The federal relief administration wired $100,000 to its agency here to care for persons on relief. The Red Cross was prepared to care for destitute people not on relief.

From Dr. Charles Richter, seismologist at Pasadena, came an opinion there was no connection between the Montana tremors and those in the northeastern section of the country. Their occurrence on the same day was just a coincidence, he said.

Gable Popular With Trinidad Young Ladies (C. P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Nov. 1.—The screen idol of the weaker sex, Clark Gable, is more fascinating in real life than in pictures, according to a few Trinidad young ladies who met the actor here today.

No Happiness In the Home When the Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy with which to recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and bring back their bodily vigor.
