AN APPRECIATION.

On Friday evening, May 26th, the pupils of Clyde River School waited upon their former teacher, Miss Irene Dixon at her home in Clyde River, and presented her with a beautiful jewel case containing a locket and chain and accompanied by the following address :

Dear Miss Dixon :—We, the pupils of Clyde River School, whose teacher you have been for nearly three years, cannot let your ceasing to be our loved teacher pass without taking this opportunity to let you know that we one and all loved you. How sorry we were when we heard that you were so seriously ill, how sorrowful when we heard that your health would not permit you to continue to be our teacher, how thankful we are to know that your health has been completely restored.

We know, dear teacher, that you had a large and trying school, and that we must often have tried your patience, but no parent could have been more loving or patient with us, and we know that we shall always cherish the thoughts of the days when you were our teacher.

Our parents, one and all, desire us to convey to you their thanks for your kind and uncreasing efforts not only in helping and advancing us in our studies, but in your private life as a citizen of Clyde River, being a model to us in all that was good.

Now dear teacher, on behalf of your former pupils, we ask you to accept this small rememberance as a token of our esteem, and that wherever your lot may be cast, you may sometimes think of your former pupils of Clyde River School, and know that we, one and all, loved and reverenced you.

On behalf of the school, Norman Murchison, Edna McKinnon.

Miss Dixon in thanking her former pupils for their beautiful gift, spoke of the happy relations that had always existed between her and all of her Clyde River pupils, and assured them that they would always have a place in her memory. Music, games and refreshments helped to pass a very pleasant evening.
