CONSTANTINOPLE, July 26.—Turks halted forty miles east of Eskishehr at the pass of Al Tikouk and also Seidel Ghazi where counter-offensive stopped the Greeks advance. There seems to be no doubt the Greeks obtained impor-tant initial success in taking Kutai and Eskishehr due to their great superiority in artillery. The Allied military observers, however, do not consider the decision has been reached in fighting.

Use of Wireless

Wireless, while a most valuable auxiliary to the means of communi-cation, was not going to displace the cable—certainly not in the near future. Against one aspect of its use, if ever it was extended to this country, the public would have to raise its voice, and that was the circulation of news by foreign governments containing insidious inferences. After representations made to them the Marconi Com-pany frankly abandoned the idea they once held of becoming publish-ers of wireless news in this country.

Viscount Bunnham who presided alluded to the high reputation Sir Roderick Jones earned in South Africa, and paid tribute to the pre-minent position occupied by Reu-ter's as a news agency. Its conduc-tor, he said, had been characterized from earliest days of its history by an integrity as well as an intel-ligence that had won world-wide recognition, and it stood today just as high as ever it did.

THE HUMAN TOUCH

(New York Evening Post)

ENJOYABLE FESTIVAL.—The Altar boys of St. Dunstan's Cath-edral held a most successful ice-cream festival on Rochford Square Monday. There was a large crowd present, and a good sum was real-ized. The League of the Cross Band furnished excellent music. There were a number of articles on lot-tery, which will be drawn for later.

SOURIS BUSY TODAY.—Today will be a busy day in Souris, this being the annual race day. Last year Souris joined up in the P. E. Island Racing Circuit and put on a very good meet, but this year they are improving very much on last year's program and will place three very fine races before the specta-tors. Indications point to a record crowd and it looks as though Man-ager Acorn will be well rewarded for the interest he has taken in sport in King's County. The free-for-all will bring together some very fast horses and it is ex-pected that a track record of 2:16 1/4 made last year by Edna Heintz will be lowered. In the 2:22 trot and pace there will be a big contest as Kellie 2:18 1/2, A. L. G. 2:21, Colonel Waltz 2:18 3/4 and several other fast ones will meet. The three minute trot for King's County horses will bring out a field of from eight to ten horses—all good trotters and even-ly matched. This will be an ex-citing race as each horse has his own particular following, all anx-ious to see him win. With the ex-cursions from the Magdalenes and Montague, and from the west, who are going by automobiles, it is expected that Souris will be a busy town today.

THE STORM

Like the winds of the night, The clouds hide the light Of the sun in its dazzling bow; The thunder loud rolls Striking fear into souls, Then the storm breaks, full of power.

The birds seek their nests, Put their heads on their breasts, And trust in the father above; They know that no harm Will come from His arm, As they think of His undying love.

The strong lightning flashes, The needed rain dashes Down to length of the clear crystal fountains.

Tree toads and frogs Sit out on to logs By the creek; they are glad of the rain.

Ducks and geese go a-walking, Gaily splashing and squawking, Down the beautiful, soft muddy road;

The farmer come hurrying, And soon them all scurrying, He wants to get home with his load.

And when the storm's over, 'Mid the sweet-scented clover, The bees return, eager for honey; The birds carol long, Their thanksgiving song, For their world is once more bright and sunny.

D. SCARFIELD, Richmond Hill, July 11.

HOW SOILS BECOME LESS PRODUCTIVE

A soil is productive in proportion to its ability to supply to a growing plant's development. If we look upon a soil as a bank or treasury from which something may be drawn, we will realize that the pro-ducting power is largely in propor-tion to what is on deposit. Every atom of phosphorus or potash that we remove from a given area of soil leaves the soil just so much poorer. So if we keep on taking the essential or crop limiting elements from the soil by means of crop removal, the producing capacity of the soil will be reduced, just the same as a cash bank deposit will be reduced if something is drawn out and no corresponding return made. Neglect to return the required elements to any soil will lead to soil poverty. The crop-yielding capacity of a soil may be greatly reduced by poor plowing, poor tillage and neglect to practise the best methods of soil management for the district. Autumn plowing of lands that wash badly during the winter and early spring frequently causes consider-able soil or soil fertility loss. Per-mitting a soil to become matted with the living roots of undesirable plants, such as couch grass, will make any soil unproductive of desir-able crops. Neglect to provide pro-per drainage to give relief from sur-plus irrigation, seepage or flood waters results in considerable de-crease in the produce capacity of soils. The permitting of live stock to run over the pastures and tillable fields during the wet pe-riods of the year, when the soil is water soaked, is an all-too-frequent means of reducing grazing and giving an unceasing graded condition to the soil. Return phosphorus and potash in quantity equal to that removed by the crop. Practise the best cultural methods at the pro-per time in order that the product-ive capacity of your soil may not be decreased.

DESTRUCTIVE ENEMY OF SHEEP

Sturdy or gid is another disease that takes its annual toll of sheep, and, similar to that of foot rot, it has not been suspected to be pre-valent in Canada. It is, however, very prevalent in Britain and, as the supply for breed improvement in Canada it claims the attention of all sheepbreeders to take precau-tions to prevent or control it. It European countries gid has been responsible for heavy annual losses among flocks for more than sixty years, notwithstanding the fact that the methods of its suppression have been well known. In the United States also from which place many sheep are imported to Canada, the disease has been known since 1904, and in some years in the Montana districts the total losses from gid amount to 10,000.

Several of the queries sent by sheep owners contain descriptions of symptoms of a disease among their flocks, that point to that of gid or "sturdy." It has recently been discovered to be prevalent in Western Canada, and from deaths that occurred after similar sym-ptoms seen in flocks in previous years, it is now believed that "sturdy" is not a new trouble among Canadian sheep.

The term "sturdy" or "staggers," that the disease gid, is known by among Scottish sheep owners, is derived from the manner in which the sheep act when once the at-tack has set in. The symptoms of the disease are nervous twitch-ing about the head, and unnatu-ral elevation and tossing of the head, and a stumping style on one side and head is often held in a circle and the animal falls over. These symptoms occur at intervals, but become more and more emaciated owing to loss of appetite. The eyes are fixed and pupils dilate. The char-acteristic symptom of "staggers" is the "staggering" of the head, in circles become more pronounced, and at the end of nine months af-ter infection the animal dies of pa-ralysis or from the effects of ex-haustion.

The symptoms are caused by the presence in the brain of a tapeworm, the young stage of the tapeworm which is found in the intestine of the dog. In appear-ance the tapeworm is a round-ened bag with a very transparent wall, the internal cavity being filled with a watery fluid. A close examination of the bladder reveals a number of small white objects not larger than pin heads project-ing into the cavity containing the fluid.

Each of these minute objects of which there may be as many as one hundred to five hundred, is a tapeworm head.

Should this tapeworm be fed to a dog, the bladder is digested but the tapeworm head back be-comes attached to the walls of the intestine by means of sharp hooks. Here they grow by budding off a chain of segments behind the head until, after about a month, they attain a length of two or three feet. In each tapeworm the older seg-ments as they are pushed back by the new ones, formed, contain-ing hundreds of small tapeworm eggs.

SAVE SOAP

When pieces of toilet soap be-come too small for regular use, they can be utilized in the making of a shampoo jelly. Put them in a glass with a small amount of water and they will form a jelly.

BEETS

Boil beets without cutting, in this way they will not bleed, and be-come tough. Peelings can then be taken off easily by rubbing with the hands.

HAT CLEANING

If the velvet hat is shabby, put some finely powdered salt in the oven. When it is quite hot, rub it into the hat with soft paper. Pay special attention to very soiled parts and discard the soiled paper for new occasionally. Brush with very stiff brush. Velvet responds remarkably to such treatment.

Farmer Select Premier Today

CALGARY, July 26.—Already quite a number of the thirty-eight farmers members elect have ar-rived in Calgary to attend the his-tory making convention to be held here today when the selection of a leader in New Provincial House will be discussed. Continued strength was given the opinion in some quarters that unquestionably H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta will be given the offer of premiership.

A MUCH GOVERNED COUNTRY

(Louisville Courier Journal)

Law-making is becoming one of the nation's largest industries. What with Congress, forty-eight State Legislatures and thousands of City Councils turning out, statu-tutes and ordinances and commis-sions, bureaus and boards multiply-ing rulings and regulations, the country is in a fair way of becom-ing flooded and inundated with things not to do. "Verboten" is the legend on the national signboard, but it falls to forbid.
