—WEDDING BELLS.—Nuptial Mass was celebrated at 6.30 Monday a.m., November 12th at St. Mary's Church, Winnipeg, by the Rev. Father O. M. J. Pastor, when Miss Lena Wedge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wedge of Summerside, P. E. I., became the wife of Mr. John Lawrence Koehmstedt of Minto, N. D. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Major Schurman, and Miss Margaret Wedge was her sister attendant, while Mr. E. C. Kehoe assisted the groom. The bride was smartly attired in a suit of Burgundy velour, with seal trimmings, the coat opening over a dainty blouse of white Georgette crepe, with bead embroidery. She wore a corsage bouquet of Maryland rosebuds and valley lilies. Her hat was of black seal, with a crown of tricotine, and she carried a seal muff, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid wore a navy blue suit, with hat to match; her corsage bouquet was of Ophelia roses. Throughout the service appropriate music was rendered by the organist, and at the Offertory, Miss Gertrude Koehmstedt of Minto, sister of the groom, sang an "Ave Maria" by Caro Roma, and "God make Thee mine" during the signing of the register. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Koehmstedt left for their honeymoon to Florida, and will visit Minneapolis and Chicago en route, after which they will take up their residence in Minto says the Manitoba Free Press.

GERMANY'S REMARKABLE OFFER TO FRANCE

French newspapers and letters received on this side of the Atlantic explain, as the cables failed to do the reasons underlying the fall of the Poincaré Administration. They also give details of a remarkable peace offer made to the French Government, the treatment of which by the Government was the immediate cause of the downfall of Poincaré. As remarked in The Mail and Empire previously the French Socialist party was the prime mover in the overthrow, and no doubt had it not been able to seize upon the German peace offer as the lever to oust Poincaré it would have found some other point upon which it could unite with other Parliamentary groups and achieve the desired end. The fact that the Poincaré Government had no Socialist representative in it, that the Socialists had formally declined to assist in the administration when invited by Poincaré, shows clearly enough that they had in advance determined upon an attitude of hostility, open or concealed.

The German Proposals.

It appears that Count von Buelow representing the German Government made a written offer to France, through a Belgian diplomat, of the following terms: The evacuation of Northern France and compensation for damage done. The evacuation of Belgium, restitution in an amount to be fixed in accordance with the Belgian law of damages, the convening of a peace conference at Brussels under the presidency of King Albert.

Negotiating concerning a satisfactory settlement of the Alsace-Lorraine question. These proposals were not intended, according to the German peace, but it was contended that if these matters could be adjusted the other difficulties might be taken up with the other powers later on.

Rejected by Ribot.

The proposal was directed to M. Briand, former Premier, and by him communicated to M. Ribot, Foreign Minister, who in turn consulted with Mr. Balfour and Baron Sonnino, of Italy, without conferring with the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French Senate. Later on M. Ribot referred publicly to German offers being "whispered about," and asserted that France would not fall into the "trap." This created a sensation and a secret session of the Chamber was held at which M. Ribot was condemned for calling a "trap" what appeared to the United Socialists and some other groups as a genuine offer of peace. They demanded Ribot's resignation. At first Ribot refused to resign, and only did so when the Premier threatened to bring the matter to the attention of President Poincaré. Following these incidents the German Foreign Minister, von Kuehlmann, publicly declared that Kuehlmann would "never, never" give up any part of Alsace-Lorraine.

Barthou's Bold Demand.

M. Barthou succeeded M. Ribot, and was acceptable to the Socialists as a "new man," because he had not spoken since the beginning of the war, though his Imperialist past was well known. To the dismay of the Socialists, and maybe to the consternation of M. Poincaré, Barthou's first

Lemons Beautify! Make Quarter Pint of Lotion, Clear

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty. But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white in this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a white quarter pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin. Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

speech was a passionate declaration that France would never abate her claims to Alsace-Lorraine, and that, moreover, France must be guaranteed in possession of her lost provinces by establishing a neutral zone in adjoining German territory. He concluded by saying that the nature of the guarantees and the extent of the territory to be neutralized were both dependent upon the extent of the French victory. This was the first time since the beginning of the war that a French Minister had declared it to be the intention of France to deprive Germany of any territory, other than colonial, except Alsace and Lorraine, which are not properly German provinces. The statement was a contradiction to what Poincaré had said earlier, namely, that France stood only for a policy of "disannexation" with regard to Alsace-Lorraine.

Naturally the Barthou statement created a tremendous sensation. Thomas, leading the Socialists, who are said to be ready to fight for years for Alsace-Lorraine, but not for a moment to gain a foot of German territory, demanded that M. Poincaré declare whether M. Barthou represented the Government. It was because the Premier said that he and M. Barthou would confer that a vote of want of confidence was not immediately passed. Details concerning what happened since then are wanting, but there seems little doubt that M. Barthou declined to present to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate the letter of former Premier Briand in view of the present critical situation when it is said that there is a rapid growth among the Socialists who favor an immediate peace conference, it will be satisfactory to the Allies that M. Thomas, despite his fine record as Minister of Munitions, was not called upon by President Poincaré. It is not believed that Clemenceau will greatly moderate the French claims as enunciated by M. Barthou.

FAREWELL ADDRESS BY MAJOR MCPAHL

A large and most representative audience gathered at the Heartz Memorial Hall last night to hear Major Andrew Macphail's lecture on "Women and the War."

The address was more of an informal friendly talk by the Major to the audience, rather than a conventional lecture. He told of the special work the French and Belgian women are doing, citing in every case instances observed from his own personal experiences when behind the lines.

He told of the work the women are doing in France, Flanders and England, their work in the farm fields, on the stock farms, in the munitions works and the various industrial establishments that formerly were operated by men only.

The sacrifices made by the European women were mentioned and he also told of the great kindness shown the Canadian troops in France and Flanders.

The Major also gave some practical suggestions on the contents of parcels for the boys overseas, telling just what was needed, how much the soldiers could carry in their kits, and what articles are supplied by the government which need not be sent by those at home.

The lecture was most interesting, illustrated with many anecdotes and delivered in the Major's best style, which has charmed the most select audiences of two continents.

At the close, Chief Justice J. A. Matheson in a few happy words endorsed the vote of thanks, which was seconded by Major A. A. Bartlett, and tendered to Major Macphail by the chairman, Judge Fitzgerald.

EXPERIMENTAL ARMY BASE HOSPITAL BUILT AT NEW YORK

American surgeons are to be taught the Carrel-Dakin method of treating wounds at a demonstration war hospital established on the grounds of the Rockefeller Institute in New York. Within the last few weeks a complete model base hospital, consisting of 15 buildings, of portable house-unit construction, has been erected, the purpose being to present to members of the medical and architectural professions a material example of the base hospital as it exists at its best on the western battle front. Those who receive instruction in the chemical sterilization of wounds will thus be trained under conditions as nearly analogous to those actually to be found in the war zone as can be provided. Furthermore, the plan makes possible the thorough testing of the unit portable hospital so that its

Doctor Says Crying Need Of The Woman Of Today Is More Iron In Her Blood

TO PUT STRENGTH IN HER NERVES AND COLOR IN HER CHEEKS

Any Woman Who Tires Easily, is Nervous or Irritable, or Looks Pale, Haggard And Worn Should Have Her Blood Examined for Iron Deficiency

Administration of Nuxated Iron in Clinical Tests Gives Most Astonishing Youthful Strength and Makes Women Look Years Younger

"There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy cheeked woman without iron," says Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York physician and author. "In my recent talks to physicians on the grave and serious consequences of iron deficiency in the blood of American women, I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—nuxated iron—for their nervous, run-down weak, haggard looking women patients. Pallor means anemia. The skin of the anemic woman is pale, the flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone, the brain fags and the memory fails, and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks."

"In the most common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degenerated cornmeal no longer iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cooking, by throwing down the waste pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss.

"Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe old age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt."

"As I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak or run-down, instead of dosing themselves with habit forming drugs, stimulants and alcoholic beverages I am convinced that in this way they could ward off disease, preventing it becoming organic in thousands of cases, and thereby the lives of thousands might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, kidney liver, heart troubles and other dangerous maladies. The real and true cause which started their disease was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition, brought on by lack of iron in the blood.

On account of the peculiar nature of woman, and the great drain placed merits and defects may be determined at home.

The structures, views and details of which are to be found in the October Popular Mechanics Magazine, are connected by covered passage ways, but, except for this, each is entirely separate from the others. They are grouped in such a manner as to eliminate, so far as possible, all unnecessary work in handling patients. The administration building consists of a waiting room for visitors and offices for various functions. Adjoining it is the laboratory in which a demonstration and lecture room is provided. The receiving and discharging pavilion offers facilities for bathing patients as they arrive and dressing them in fresh hospital garments. Their own clothing is dispatched to the laundry and later returned and stored until again needed. Immediately back of this structure is the operating pavilion, which is divided into various rooms. Two ward buildings each contain 24 beds and have a "quiet" room suitable for the accommodation of one patient. An isolation pavilion where contagious diseases developing after patients have been accepted, may be treated, is fitted with four beds. A recreation hall, mess hall, kitchen, laundry, supply house, and quarters for orderlies, nurses, and maids, compose the rest of the buildings.

upon her system at certain periods, she requires iron much more than man to help make up for the loss.

Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly-looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: see how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely rid themselves of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. The iron demanded by Mother Nature for the red coloring matter in the blood of her children is, alas! not that kind of iron. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. I have used Nuxated Iron widely in my own practice in most severe aggravated conditions with unfailing results. I have induced many other physicians to give it a trial all of whom have given me most surprising reports in regard to its great power as a health and strength builder.

Many an athlete and prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the fray; while many another has gone down in inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jacques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said, "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But so many American women suffer from iron deficiency with its attendant ills—physical weakness, nervous irritability, melancholy, indigestion, flabby, sagging muscles, etc., and in consequence of their weakened run-down condition they are so liable to contract serious and even fatal diseases that I deem it my duty to advise such to take Nuxated Iron. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in nuxated iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man, or woman 60 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 per cent, or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Geo. F. Hughes, Apothecaries' Hall; E. A. Foster, Central Drugstore; H. J. Mahou, Montague, and all good druggists.

Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, tells physicians that they should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their patients—Says anemia—iron deficiency—is the greatest cause to the health, strength, vitality and beauty of the modern American Woman.—Sounds warning against use of metallic iron which may injure the teeth, corrode the stomach and do far more harm than good; advises use of only nuxated iron.

The structures have a number of interesting features. On each side of a ward, for instance, two panels are hinged at the bottom so that they may be swung out to permit quick evacuation of the building in the event of fire. Double walls and roofs are used. Also, the windows are designed to prevent drafts and avoid interference with the spacing of the beds. The lower sashes are set, while the upper ones are hinged at the bottom so as to swing inward.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE SOLDIERS

Nothing of recent times will so hearten the Canadians in the trenches as the formation of the Union Government at Ottawa. Through many a bleak dawn, waiting to go over the top, or steeling their hearts to meet an attack, the Canadian trench-dwellers must have wondered in their inmost souls whether the hardships and dangers they are enduring at the front were being realized in Canada, and whether their sacrifices were to be lost by the indifference of those at home. The band-playing and cheering and fine speeches accompanying their departure overseas must have contrasted strangely with the lack of necessary reinforcements at the front and the seeming forgetfulness of the needs of our bonnie fighters. The news that old political lines have been obliterated and the heart of Canada set to the one task of winning the war, will inspire the tired but still undismayed Canadian soldiers to renewed efforts of the kind that have brought honor to Canada. We must win the war or quit the war.
