Pneumonia Left Her With A Bad Cough

Mrs. W. R. Bennett, 2307-14th St. West, Calgary, Alta., writes:—"Over a year ago, before my twins were born, I had an attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough.

Being under the doctor's care, he tried first one thing and then another, but I coughed day and night.

A friend brought me a bottle of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

for to try, and after coughing for two months and taking four six ounce bottles of cough medicine, I got rid of my cough with one and a half bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

Price 35c. per bottle, large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FROM EXPERIENCE

"Eddie, how do you like the plans for the new house? You know I get married next month."

"Swell, only you've forgotten one thing—an emergency exit."

PRESSES WITH SAD-IRONS

Wifie: Cook is always mournful when she presses the clothes.

Hubby: The sad-irons may have something to do with that.

EYES DON'T SHOW THE WIT

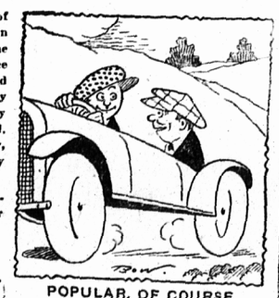
"Do you think girls' eyes show what kind of wit they have?"

"No, their eyes are sparkling most of the time."

THAT LETS HIM OUT

"Er-er, Miss Peacherino, are you going to have any mistletoe hanging around your house about Xmas?"

"Yes—but that's all I intend to have hanging around the house though."



POPULAR, OF COURSE

1st Youth: Do you find yourself popular with the girls?

2nd Youth: Oh, yes, I own a car.

Poultry Wanted

The average for the last five years shows that better prices have been paid for Turkeys, Geese and Ducks previous to December 15th than after that date.

The reason for this is quite clear. By that date the buyers in the consuming centres have provided for their requirements and unless there is an acute shortage it is difficult to make sales after that date at satisfactory prices.

The situation is different with Chicken and Fowl. The demand for these is not seasonal as is the case with Turkeys, Geese and Ducks.

It is not necessary to market them in time for Christmas shipments to get the top prices. There is always a good demand for heavy well fattened Fowl and Chickens and it will pay you to hold these until they are well fattened rather than to offer them for the Christmas market in an unfinished condition.

We will be paying top market values throughout the season for all classes of Poultry.

Be sure and get our quotations before disposing of your stock.

CHAPTER 23.

WITH RELEASE IN SIGHT

For the remainder of that day and the others following, Hartley devoted himself to Doris as assiduously as even the romantic eye of his Aunt Ada could wish.

He found a certain bitter amusement in saying rather sharp and gifting things to her while he bent over her with all the ardor of a lover and bridegroom. Her amiable replies, her occasional mild flashes of anger, diverted him from his own gloomy and dejected thoughts. Moreover, her very attitude goaded him to new audacities, even when he felt a trifle ashamed of his own ill-temper.

If she had exhibited either the independence of the modern, efficient girl, or the supine helplessness of the clinging vine, he might have understood her. But her placidity, her calm, unruffled acceptance of circumstances, the ease with which she drifted into this difficult role, baffled him. And angered him. And stimulated him to further bursts of ill-temper.

He couldn't rid his mind of the idea, bizarre and unfounded as it was, that she was responsible for the equivocal situation in which he now found himself.

He argued that it was hardly decent of her to accept this trying emergency so light heartedly. She had no right to gaze so happily upon a sunlit sea, no greener than her own eyes. It was wrong of her to find enjoyment in watching her fellow-passengers, in playing deck games with energy and relish, in dancing half the night to the seductive strains of the ship's orchestra, in eating with a relish the delectable viands provided by an excellent cuisine.

Food fairly choked Hartley. For the first time in his life, he sought and haunted the bar.

As a matter of fact, Doris was enjoying herself. She was having the time of her life. Hers was the type so constituted that it gives no thought to the morrow. Doris couldn't worry to save her soul. Life had always treated her well and landed her on her feet, without any effort of her own. Why should she bother now, she argued?

France—the return to her own status—the explanations to respective families—the transportation of herself back to America and the resumption of her interrupted music studies, were things for Hartley to worry about. Was she not doing him an actual favor by playing out this preposterous farce into which his own infatuation had plunged him?

Inwardly Doris was rejoiced that for three whole days she had not had to throw back her head, open her pretty mouth and warble: "do re, mi, fa, so" for hours on end. And this state of leisure bade fair to prolong itself into a fortnight at the very least—provided even that an American-bound ship should be waiting at the French pier when Hartley was able to give the slip to his relatives and place h's "bride aboard for her return trip her purse, was only three dollars and ten cents.

Let Hartley do the worrying was her very sensible conclusion.

And having reached this pleasant state, she proceeded to let nothing mar her enjoyment of her first ocean voyage. The only actual fly in the ointment was Hartley himself, for whom she felt the shocked contempt of a well-balanced young woman brought up to a rather stringent code. In Doris' straight thinking mind, Hartley was an utter rotter. She knew nothing of that charming alibi called "extenuating circumstances". Though she would scarcely have recognized evil in its many guises when she met it, once it was called to her attention, it became very black indeed. She was unacquainted with its delicate, grey nuances.

To the conduct of Camilla, she closed her eyes. She had an inherent respect for her own blood-kin. Aunt Elsie had taught her that one's relatives could never be in the wrong. Omipotent wisdom, unfailing taste, and strict rectitude were the attributes of ones family. It had tried Miss Elsie's logic somewhat to account for the accident of Doris' father, who had deserted her in the railway station at Weyburn Junction some sixteen years before, but she had managed the discrepancy somehow, being the sort of woman who generally accomplishes what she has set out to do.

The ship was one day out of Havre. Already the sea gulls, harbingers of land, had made their appearance, and passengers were straining their eyes for a glimpse of the chalk cliffs of England, quite as if they were ship-wrecked mariners and not fortunate souls, who, on a floating palace, could scarcely say, after five days, that they had noticed the absence of the terra firma of Manhattan.

Hartley and Doris were dutifully pacing the deck and trying to look beautiful in each other's company. As a matter of fact, he was saying:

"I've just learned from the purser that the "Lebanon" is sailing from Cherbourg day after tomorrow. I'll see that you get aboard. So, be sure you're all packed and ready to make the jump when we hit Havre tomorrow.....For Heaven's sake don't miss that boat!"

"Rather!" laughed Doris. "But," she added wistfully, "II would like to have seen Paris once I'm abroad."

"Nothing doing!" he answered sharply. "You're going back to the United States as quickly as I can put you on a boat."

"And your aunt and uncle?"

"Are taking the midnight train tomorrow for Cannes."

"And you?"

He shrugged, his lips in a bitter line.

At that moment his aunt joined them. She brandished a fluttering scrap of paper.

"A wireless for you, Jack dear. The operator just gave it to me. I have an idea," she looked beamingly mysterious, "that it's going to be a beautiful surprise."

Gleanings From Tryon And Vicinity

The stork paid a flying visit to Augustine Cove on Thursday, November 25th, and left a bouncing baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McFarlane. Congratulations.

Mr. Lowell Compton of Summerside spent last week-end visiting at Crapaud.

We are sorry to learn that little Miss Muriel Holland, daughter of Mr. Comden Holland is quite seriously ill with pneumonia. There has been no improvement as yet, but we hope that in a few days her condition will be much improved.

Mr. Arthur Howatt motored to the city on Saturday, November 27th, on business.

The young people of the United Church at Tryon, gathered on Friday evening of last week to discuss plans for the organization of young people's work at Tryon. Rev. George Somers outlined the program which to all appearances seems very interesting and instructive. They meet again on Friday of this week.

Mr. Ken McDonald and "Tiger" Lord, were visitors at Summerside on last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Howatt of Cape Traverse left on November 30th., for to spend the winter season in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Clayton Morrison, Tryon, lost a valuable horse a few days ago, having broken its leg on a threshing outfit.

A motor party: Miss Gertrude Howatt, Miss Grace Wright, Miss Lila Wright and Mr. C. D. Wright, attended "Dumbells" in Ch'town last week. They report a pleasing entertainment.

On Saturday morning, November 27th., there passed away to her everlasting home, Mrs. James Morrison of North Tryon, at the early age of 59 years, after a prolonged illness of several months. A fervent Christian and a loving disposition, she will be sorely missed by her large circle of friends and by members of her own family. Mrs. Morrison was formerly, Ella Leard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leard. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at half past two at the United Church of North Tryon. She leaves a sorrowing husband also two brothers. The pall-bearers were: Clayton Morrison, Kenneth McDonald, Heath Chisholm, William Rogerson, Lloyd Rogerson and Mr. Waite.

Mrs. Alexander Robblee intends spending the winter with her sister, Miss Penzie Bell at Cape Traverse.

Captain Allan has docked his vessel, "Victor W. T." at Victoria with coal. Everyone is busy getting their winter supply of coal. Roads are bad for hauling just now, the mud being about 3 or 4 inches deep.

Russel Howatt motored to Summerside on the 30th.

On Sunday, November 28th. Miss Louise Callbeck, missionary from Japan, and formerly from Bedeque spoke to the United Church congregation at Tryon on her work there.

Master William Fell has not been able to attend school for a few days on account of sickness. We hope to see the little lad in his accustomed place in a few days.

The following visitors from Tryon and vicinity, were noticed on streets of Summerside on Tuesday last: Mr. Lewis Howatt, Mr. and Mrs. William Callbeck, Artemus Carr, Brenton Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dawson, Dr. E. Bell, Erle Boulter, Harrison Bell, and Mr. and Mrs. V. Howatt.

The radio fans of Tryon were very much disappointed that atmospheric conditions prevented their getting the professional hockey game between "the Boston Bruins" and "the Ottawa Senators" on Tuesday evening. A few heard the score which was 2 to 1 in favor of the "Senators".

"Kentucky Pride", was the title of the excellent picture shown at Victoria on last Saturday evening. We are very much afraid that Mr. Yeo will not be able to follow up his weekly visit to Victoria much longer on account of the impassable state of the roads, but, if this should be the case, we hope to see Mr. Yeo again early next year with his movies.

The new dwelling house at Tryon corner, which has been constructed under the supervision of Mr. Roy Dawson, is at last completed. We understand that the owner, Mr. Ernest Howatt, is soon to move in with his family. This house is conveniently situated, adjoining the general store and is fitted with all modern conveniences. —"D".

Torpid Liver Causes Blood Impurities Rashes, Pimples

Easy to Give Tone to Liver by Taking Vegetable Juices.

Mandrake and Butternut Most Useful

When the complexion turns sallow, when dark circles appear under the eyes, when the face breaks out in small pimples and rashes, you can know that the blood is impure.

The easiest way to remove redness, pimples, eruptions is to tone and purify the blood with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. These mild acting pills act directly on the liver and bowels. They are so easy to take that most girls and women use them frequently to give regularity and tone to the system.

Blood purification begins the day you start to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills which contain sufficient Mandrake and Butternut to give proper action to the stomach, bowels and liver. Sallow skin will disapear. You'll feel brisk, healthy and youthful. Sold in 25c boxes by all dealers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Montreal.

Pastor Welcomed

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF NEW BAPTIST PASTOR AT NORTH RIVER

Rev. W. R. and Mrs. MacWalker and their three little daughters, Sarah, Anna and Jessie are comfortably established in their new home—the Baptist Manse, North River.

A large number of their new friends from the North River, Clyde River, Kingston and Charlottetown Baptist churches and friends from other demoninations assembled at the Manse on a recent evening to bid them welcome. Mr. Dan Fraser presided and in a serious humorous address held the attention of a large audience while he spoke the first words of welcome. Then followed Rev. R. C. Eaton, of Charlottetown, Rev R. W Lindsay of Hazelbrook and Messrs Drake, Ackland, Newson, MacKinnon and other native speakers. A splendid musical programme was also provided.

The women of the congregation (bless their dear hearts) did not forget to bring baskets and they spread a table that royalty might envy. After the guests—or rather the hosts and hostesses had departed the Minister's family found themselves the richer by a generous supply of table dainties, groceries and vegetables. Nor were "Leeta" and "Paul" forgotten — turnips being donated to one and oats to the other.

The manse has been renovated inside and out and is "a thing of beauty," reflecting great credit upon the building committee and others who were actively interested. Special thanks are due to Mr. Arthur Affleck of Charlottetown, who although not of the North River congregation was untiring in his efforts to make the work on the Manse a success.

While en route to North River, Mr. and Mrs. MacWalker were detained in Charlottetown for about a fornight while there eldest daughter was a patient in the P. E. I Hospital. They speak words of highest praise of Rev. R. C. and Mrs Eaton and other friends of Charlottetown who stood by them in the days of their anxiety.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

We use this adjective advisedly

Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eyestrain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body, and produce ill health
