JURY UNCERTAIN (Continued from Page 1) closed wadding and paper cap from gun shell. Witness saved one pellet of shot recovered from that area. Considerable damage had been done to all tissue and bone in the area. The end of collar bone was also shattered. The chest cavity was full of blood and there was damage to the left lung. Witness said he recovered some pellets from the lung. It was the opinion of witness that death had been caused by hemorrhage.

Dr. MacGuigan: "What would you say, Doctor, could have caused the wound?" Witness: "Lead pellets from a shotgun."

Mr. Holmes: "Did the edge of wound show signs of having been burnt? If so, to what would you attribute the burning?" Witness: "Yes, the edge of the wound was burnt. It could have been done by the muzzle of a gun having been close to the body when fired. There was no indication of any scattering of the shot. About two pellets struck the body at a distance from where the main charge entered."

Mr. Holmes: "What was the direction of the wound?" Witness: "The direction was lateral but slightly forward and downward."

Mr. Holmes: "What would you say was the position of the deceased when he was struck by the shot?" Witness: "I cannot answer that."

Mr. Holmes: "If the late Mr. McDonald was standing when struck, what position would the gun have to be in when fired?" Witness: "It would not have to be above him in order to account for the direction of the wound. It could not have happened as it did if both men were in a standing position."

Witness: "I don't think so."

Mr. Holmes: "What distance would the gun have to be from a body to have the charge spread before entering the body?" Witness: "That would depend on amount of the charge and the powder charge."

Mr. Holmes: "What are the heights of the two men, Roche and McDonald?" Witness: "I did not measure them, but I would say McDonald was slightly taller."

Mr. Holmes: "Then Roche would have to be in a higher position?" Witness: "Yes."

Cpl. D. G. Heath, R.C.M.P.

Souris, said he went to the store of Leo Roche about 9.50 on evening of March 18. A number of people were there. McDonald was lying on couch in the kitchen in a semi-conscious state. He was not talking but seemed to be uttering rambling remarks. Witness went to warehouse where he found the late Leo Roche on the floor with gun near him. Roche was lying on his back. Witness made an inspection of the premises and behind the counter in the store he found one expended shotgun shell. Witness found second expended shell on the floor of the warehouse and a third expended shell in the breach of the gun.

Asked by Coroner MacGuigan about the spread of shot upon leaving a gun muzzle, witness said he was not a ballistics expert, but that his experience had taught him that the choke of a gun, its bore, and the size of the shell load would all have an effect on shot spread. There was, too, the witness said, the factor of the individual gun as no two were exactly alike. Witness had not experimented with the 12-gauge shotgun believed to have killed both Roche and McDonald.

Juryman: "Would you say this gun in Court is the one which fired the shells you found in the store?"

Witness: "No; but the mark on the hammer struck the shells about the same distance off center on each shell. I would say this is the gun, but I am not prepared to swear to that."

The witness said the hole in the body of Roche was made in the abdomen about three inches above the navel.

Juryman: "You say you found three empty shells. Where did the charge from the third shell go?"

Witness: "There was a hole in the floor of the warehouse made by discharge of one shell. Two full unexpended shells were found. One was in the shellbox found behind the counter; the other was found in an apple barrel."

Describes Events Sheldon Laybolt said he lived in Dundee. He left his home that evening about 6 o'clock to go to Roche's store to do some shopping. The witness was in there about 20 minutes. Joseph McDonald and his brothers, Peter and Merlyn, came in. They bought a few bottles of "Silver Tip" and Peter began to talk pretty loud. Witness told Peter to go out. Later, all left and went to store of Leo Roche. Merlyn and witness went in first. Joseph and Peter went in next. The brothers bought some lemon extract. Witness did not know how much. Peter was using loud talk. Danny Conohan, partner of Roche, told Peter to be quiet. Peter went over to bench and fell asleep. The boys were drinking something. Joseph was talking to witness and the other boys when Peter came out. Witness said Roche told someone to shut the door. Witness heard Peter say "I'm going in."

In a second or two Peter went in, also Joseph. There was a cupboard in front of window on east side. The store, witness said, was only small. Witness looked through window but could not see much. Heard some talk and then saw Roche pick up a gun and swing around. Witness said to his brothers standing near him, "He is going to fire." Witness ran and took shelter. Witness had just got down when he heard someone say: "Joe is shot." Witness ran over and went in kitchen. Joseph McDonald was bleeding behind the stove. Witness said: "You shot him, Leo."

Witness replied to witness: "He is not shot but, just in the left shoulder." Witness told Roche he was going to call a doctor and the police.

Witness said Merlyn and Peter McDonald were on the bridge a short distance away. When witness got to the bridge, he heard another shot. Soon, he heard a third. Witness then went back to the store and listened. He heard a sound like a man taking a deep breath and then sounds as if a man groaning. Then he heard something similar to a man taking deep breaths. Witness said they then went to the window because they did not know what to do. At that time Joseph was calling Roche and when witness entered door of porch, he heard some noise as of something falling over. Witness flashed light into warehouse and saw Roche on his back. Joseph was asking to be put on the couch.

Mr. Holmes: "Was the late Mr. Roche in the habit of keeping a gun in the store?"

Witness: "He kept it at the head of his bed at all times."

Daniel Conohan said he was the partner of Leo Roche. About 6 o'clock the boys started to come into the store. There were George, Sheldon, and Everett Laybolt and Joseph and Peter McDonald. After awhile, Peter McDonald began to get noisy and about 8:30, Roche told the boys to get out.

When the boys went out, witness began putting out the lights. When the lights were put out, witness prepared to lock the store and was feeling for the lock when he heard a shot from the kitchen. Witness saw Roche dragging Joseph McDonald to the kitchen door. Roche had the gun in the crook of his left arm. Someone said "better leave him there" and Roche went and put gun back by the stairway. Witness lighted the lamp in the kitchen store. Sheldon Laybolt came in the kitchen. The boys went for a doctor and the police. Witness then went home. He left Roche alone in the store with Joseph McDonald lying on the floor. McDonald was asking for a doctor and "we told him we would get him one as soon as we could." About ten minutes later when witness was about one hundred yards from his house, he heard another shot, then when he had walked between 300 and 400 more yards, he heard another. Witness met Sheldon and Everett Laybolt near the store. They told witness Roche had shot himself. Witness went into kitchen and heard a noise like someone falling over.

Witness said he thought the sound may have been made by a funnel of a quart measure which was on the floor. Witness said some of the boys put McDonald on the couch. It was only about 14 or 15 feet from the kitchen to the warehouse.

Dr. MacGuigan: "How do you account for the two shots?"

Witness: "I can't account for them."

Dr. MacGuigan: "Was it possible for other men to be in the store?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Started For Home Everett Laybolt said he went to Roche's store about 6 o'clock. Roche was in bed. Joseph McDonald bought some "Silver Tip" and his brother went going in and out of the store. When store was closed witness and some others started to go home. Joseph McDonald was talking to them. Peter McDonald and Merlyn came around from the front door of the store to the kitchen door. Joseph McDonald went in. He had just got in when witness heard a shot. Witness ran in and Joseph was lying on the floor. Witness said: "My God, Joe, you are shot!" Joseph asked witness to take him out but witness said "no, wait for the Medicines." Witness stayed for about 20 minutes. Went to the west window and flashed a light through the window. Witness then rushed around to the back door. Leo Roche was lying in the warehouse dead. Witness had only heard one shot. Roche had seemed to be in good humour when they were in the store.

John P. Laybolt said he had heard the other evidence and had nothing further to add except that Joseph McDonald had asked him if he thought he (McDonald) was hurt bad. McDonald then told witness he wanted a priest and witness had called a priest. McDonald was lying on his left side in the kitchen by the door.

George Laybolt said he and three brothers of witness and the McDonald boys were together. When they were getting ready to go home, Peter McDonald went around to the back door and Joseph said: "I'll go in and take him out." Witness heard nothing unusual and started for home. Brother of witness came after him and said Joseph McDonald had been shot. When they got back, police had arrived.

Mr. Holmes: "When did Peter come out of the store?"

Witness: "I don't know if Peter was in the store."

Mr. Holmes: "Why would Joe say he was going in to take him out if he was not there?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Mr. Holmes: "Was Peter annoying Roche?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Mr. Holmes: "These boys were all drinking. Where did they get it?"

Witness: "I could not say. I did not see them buy any."

Alozo Laybolt said he and his brother went to the store about 8:30. Witness was talking to Joseph McDonald. McDonald was all right then. Joe said: "I'm going in to get Peter out." Witness never saw Peter going in. When witness heard the shot, he went home.

Mr. Holmes: "Why did you go home?"

Witness: "I was scared."

Mr. Holmes: "Was Peter McDonald drinking?"

Witness: "I could not say."

Brothers Give Evidence Merlyn McDonald said deceased was his brother. Witness had gone to the store with his brothers and had stayed there about 15 minutes. The boys were drinking whiskey near Devere's store. Afterwards they went to Roche's store about two hours. They were drinking lemon. Had five bottles. "We were at the back door when Peter was in the store." Witness heard a shot and saw his brother, Joseph, falling. Witness could not say who fired the shot. They were just inside the kitchen door when the shot was fired. Witness said he noticed a gun as he turned to go out. Asked if he went back to see who had shot his brother, witness said he went to get a doctor. He saw no flash from a gun. Asked how he could be so close to his brother and yet not see the flash, witness said there was only a dim light in the kitchen.

Mr. Holmes: "When you entered the kitchen with your brother, did you notice anyone else there?"

Witness: "No, I did not see anyone."

Dr. MacGuigan: Do you think the shot was fired from a higher level than the floor?"

Witness: "There was a stairway. Perhaps my brother saw the gun and turned around. He seemed to turn around."

Peter McDonald, age 20, said he was a brother of the late Joseph McDonald. Witness had been in Souris that day and had bought a bottle of whiskey. When he went to Roche's store, his brothers, Merlyn and Joseph, were with him. They were outside and had a couple of drinks of whiskey and had then gone into the store. About 8 o'clock, they went out and witness said he was going home. When he got near Devere's store on his way home, he heard a shot. Witness saw Sheldon Laybolt running toward him. Sheldon told him Roche had shot Joe. Witness walked at the bridge and heard another shot. Then his brother Merlyn came and they went for a doctor. Near Roche's store, they heard another shot but they kept going. Witness said there was about 10 or 12 minutes between the two last shots.

John P. Laybolt upon being recalled was asked by Mr. Holmes: "In your statement to the police you said you saw Peter McDonald standing by the cupboard when you rushed into the kitchen and saw Joseph McDonald lying on the floor?"

Witness: "I thought I saw someone by the cupboard when I went in but I cannot say it was Peter."

Holmes: "Who shot Joseph McDonald?"

Witness: "I could not say."

Holmes: "There must have been three or four men in the store when McDonald was shot?"

Witness: "I don't know. I saw Merlyn and Peter at the kitchen door but did not see them go inside."

WORKS MINISTER (Continued from Page 1) field, but they had the better chance.

"So far as concerns outsiders taking part in an election, it is not a serious matter for a man to put gasoline in his car and so to another constituency and help convey votes to the polls. The receiver I heard was that the Minister of Public Works took the taxpayer's car, put taxpayers' gas in it and worked up there like a man putting out a fire" (laughter).

Hon. Mr. Barbour: "Was that the first time a Minister of Public Works used a Government car at an election?"

Mr. MacKenzie: "I don't know, but in any case two wrongs do not make a right. The Minister confessed to sympathize with the men in our party who had been defeated. He was sorry to see them out in the cold, and he thought something should be done about it. From the financial standpoint I would just about as soon be in Opposition as in the Government; I was in a Government and I received $100 a year plus five dollars for every meeting of the Government I attended. I looked on it as a privilege to serve in that way."

But so far as reimbursing these men for services rendered is concerned, couldn't the Minister of Public Works make a recommendation? He mentioned Mr. Matthews in particular. I think the Minister was on the payroll himself for many years. What about putting one of Mr. Matthews' boys on the payroll, who served overseas? I suppose it is not liberal doctrine to be that broad-minded."

Hon. Mr. Barbour: "I said Mr. Matthews ran a number of elections and served your party well."

Mr. MacKenzie: "Couldn't you put one of his boys on the payroll?"

Mr. Barbour: "Has any of them asked to be put on?"

Mr. MacKenzie: "Did you ask to be put on the payroll, Mr. Jones?"

You have been on almost continually ever since. You were on the Public and Trade Board during the war and now you are a Minister of the Crown. And are you not one of the Board that sits on the divorce cases for a consideration?"

Mr. Barbour: "No, I don't sit on those cases."

Mr. MacKenzie: "Who sits on them?"

Mr. Barbour: "You have the question on the order paper, and you will get an answer."

Fat Commissions Mr. MacKenzie: "Does the Attorney General sit on them? At any rate it is a mighty good thing to be a Government member now, isn't it? A much better thing than to be a private member. And it is a mighty good thing to be a supporter of the Government when a coal dealer can sell $90,000 worth of machinery to the Government and not even be a machine agent and not even be a machine agent and not even be a machine agent and not even be a machine agent."

Mr. MacKenzie: "I would like to see a stop put to this practice? It may have been done by both parties, but you are past masters of the art. There have been such things as piracy on the high seas, but apart from that this comes about worst on the list. I would live on two meals a day, before I would think of such a thing. This man gets a commission of 40 percent on parts, I suppose."

Service At St. Paul's Church

In the final service of the Mission which has been conducted this week in St. Paul's Church, Charlottetown, by Bishop G. P. King, His Lordship opened his remarks by answering several questions which had been submitted by members of the congregation, then continued to discuss yet another great truth in our Faith: how Christ conquered not only sin but death on the Cross and Resurrection. He not only conquered death for us but for our loved ones. We confirm in our Creed that Christ rose from the dead, and that He shall come again to judge both the living and the dead. Then the Bishop mentioned briefly the unfortunate calculations of time of our Lord's second coming, and the disillusionment which results. The great point to remember is that we should be ready for Him when He comes. Even though He comes in judgment, if we have been trying to live in Him and through Him and in the right relationship to Him, we would not fear that judgment. We would welcome Him as the King of Glory and rejoice as fellow citizens of His Kingdom.

Says Workers' Vote Condemns Premier's Anti-Labor Speech

"The way Canada Packers workers voted should show Premier Jones that the C.I.O. is in Charlottetown to stay, that his anti-labor statements, his anti-labor administration and his anti-labor legislation will soon be things of the past," Mr. Jacques Casgrain, Maritime and Quebec representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America stated yesterday after members of the local plant of Canada Packers had voted 64 to 2 in favor of retaining the labor organization as working agents for them (Canada Packers) in Charlottetown.

The vote was under the supervision of Mr. J. A. Fullerton, City Clerk.

The master agreement at present covering seven other plants of Canada Packers throughout the Dominion will now be extended to take in Charlottetown Local No. 282, which is headed by President Arthur McKinnon and Secretary Thomas Jones.

Enlarging on the above comment Mr. Casgrain stated further: "Premier Jones will not outlaw our Union; our Union shall outlaw him and place in his stead a labor and union-minded Premier."

"The C.I.O. intends to do a job for the workers of this Province and the unionization of Canada Packers is only the first step."

President Arthur McKinnon of Local No. 282 was named as International representative to the international convention of the C.I.O. to be held at Cleveland in May of this year and will also attend the Canadian Conference scheduled for Winnipeg in August.

Benefits accruing from the agreement with the C.I.O. include an additional 10 cents per hour wage increase, eight paid statutory holidays, a five cents an hour night premium, one week's vacation with pay for employees with a year's service, and two weeks vacation with pay for employees after they have served five years, double time for work on Sundays with time and a half being paid on all work after nine hours have been completed on weekdays. Security rights are also guaranteed with all employees guaranteed a 40-hour week despite any shortage of work that may occur.

The WEEK at S. D. U.

We mentioned the signs of spring around the campus in last week's communique. Since that time another sure indication of approaching fair weather has been in evidence. It is that look of smug intelligence which has characterized the features of most of the Saints during the past week, a look which comes only to those who have spent hours poring over their books. And what does all that add up to? Examinations. The quarterlies have been posted for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. And so we go to bat again. If the pitching is anything like it was the last two trips to the plate, most of us should be good for at least a double.

In addition to activities out here at the college, Saints have also been quite busy in and about Charlottetown. The hockey team played three more games with the Legion, and, as you know is now deadlocked with that team in the playoffs for the City League title. Saturday night, that is tonight, will be the clincher. You have all read reports on the game, so anything we have to say would just be repetition. We would advise you to see the game tonight, though, it should be a honey.

In the basketball semi-finals the Saints succeeded in eliminating P.W.C. The finish to our way of thinking was one of the most thrilling ever seen. In the second half and the first overtime period, Saints were forced to come from behind to tie things up with only seconds left to play. Then in the second overtime period the boys edged P.W.C. out by the slim margin of one point. Hero of the series was Clarence Roche who was all around high man. Congratulations fellows. Next up! Navy.

Saints were hosts this week to the Island interscholastic hockey champions from Tignish High School, who won the Hawley Crockett Trophy Wednesday evening by defeating West Kent 4-3 in the Forum. This marks the first time that a team from outside the Charlottetown area has won the Island title. Congratulations!

We had Campfire, after which a lunch of ice cream and cake was served by those taking their Hostess Badge.

The following girls passed their Hostess Badge: David MacEachern, Jessie MacRae, Dorothy MacLaren, Sheila MacInnis, Wilma Macdonald, Laura King, Elaine Murray, Dawn Messer, and Elaine Murphy.

We then closed with evensong and taps.

Well the bell goes and... do we.

EASTERN GUARDIAN

TENDERS will be received up to April 10th for sale of plot of land (one-half acre) on Brook Street, Montague. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Address, Cyrus A. Shaw.

lows, on your great showing, we hope you enjoyed your visit to St. Dunstan's.

On Wednesday night, March 26th, the Saints were privileged to hear an address by a young lady who has an impressive record as a guest speaker. She is Miss Catherine McLean of Toronto. Miss McLean is a former National President of the Federation of Newman Clubs. Last summer she represented Canada at a conference of student organizations held in Peru. Returning from there, she went to Cambridge and Exeter in England. From England to Paris to Geneva, to Prague, to Spain, and then back to Switzerland, with conferences at each stop. About mid-September she returned to Canada, after two months of conferences.

She spoke to the students on student organizations, both national and international. Much of her speech was taken up with a report of the International Students' Congress at Prague which was held for the purpose of founding the International Union of Students. She charged that this conference was Communist controlled, and dominated. The majority of each delegation present was Communist, with the exception of those from Canada, the United States, and Spain. The incidents she related for the students' benefit demonstrated clearly how thorough is the organization work of the Communists, and how zealous they are in the pursuit of an ideal. From the minority (non-Communist) members of the other delegations, with whom she conversed privately, she brought a message for all Canadian students: "Do not judge the way we think by the way we vote. It is not that we support the Communists, but that we can do nothing else. Were we to vote against the Communists we could well be placed in a concentration camp when we return home. Do not forget us nor our cause. We appreciate what you have done and are doing for us. Please do not let us down now when we need you most." Miss McLean concluded her address with a plea that the students of St. Dunstan's take the lead in forming a Maritime branch of the Canadian Federation of Catholic College Students. It is hoped that when the C.F.C.C.S. has been well organized across Canada it will be possible to affiliate with Pax Romana, and thus throw the weight of the Canadian Catholic colleges and students into the fight against Communism.

Well the bell goes and... do we.
