Hard colds, hard coughs, severe bronchitis, weak throats, weak lungs. We wish you would ask your doctor if he knows of anything better for these troubles than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. We believe it is the best medicine you could possibly take. But ask your doctor, and thus be sure to make no mistake. Solely, Mass.

Do not trust too much to your own judgment in medical matters. Consult your doctor frequently. He knows best.

At the Opera House last night Human Hearts, a melodrama, containing all the qualities which appeal to those whose sympathies respond readily to human emotions was well put on by a large company of players. The play affords scope for the exploiting of many different and interesting characters. The plot was an elaborate one though set in humble scenes and afforded the actors opportunities to run through the whole gamut of human passions and affections; their work being awarded frequent applause. The principal parts were capably taken; a cleverly acted tramp and a laugh-making negro relieving the piece of the charge of being too serious. There will be a matinee this afternoon and also another performance tonight.

At this season of the year coughs and colds are very prevalent. Remember that British Cough Cure is one of the best remedies for these complaints. We have just put up a large quantity. 25c per bottle. A. W. Reddin, Pharm. B.

"HUMAN HEARTS"

"Human Hearts", aptly described as the "forever evergreen success." "Human Hearts" is a play that invariably appeals to all that is best in man's nature, and uplifts him from the sordid cares and petty worries of daily toil and trouble. The story of "Human Hearts", is clean, wholesome and intelligible to everyone. There is no suggestion of vulgarity in any of its acts; but a story of convincing strength is told by the author, in a manner that appeals irresistibly to all classes of theatre goers. The enormous success of "Human Hearts" during the past ten years is a direct refutation of the idea entertained by so many theatrical managers, that sensationalism and criminal adjuncts are necessary to a play to assure its success with the public. Such plays die out, as soon as the public interest wanes. Not so with a drama possessing the merit of "Human Hearts". The lease of life accorded such a play is not dependent on a momentary interest, excited by some crime, but on the firm solid basis of humanity and human feelings. It touches our heart strings, rouses our latent better instincts, and makes us feel kinder towards our fellow-man, for having witnessed it. "Human Hearts" will be presented this season with an especially strong company of players, and the same fidelity to scenic and mechanical detail that made its former visits notable. See the play in the Opera House tonight.

Retinoscopic Eye Examination

The cent accurately shows this method in operation. It is probably, the most reliable test known today. By its use the expert optician accurately measures the amount and kind of error in the patient's eyes, completely removing the uncertainty of the old system, and reducing to a minimum, the possibility of prescribing the wrong lenses. We use this System and rely on its readings, almost entirely; The results in past years have been remarkably satisfactory, and if you are in need of Glasses you cannot do better than allow us to examine your eyes.
