Bobby Breen At Prince Edward

Qualifying as one of the most thoroughly entertaining musical pictures of the season, "Hawaii Calls," Bobby Breen's latest musical starring vehicle, opened an engagement at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday.

Bobby has never before been so happily cast. He appears as a former San Francisco bootblack who joins his little Hawaiian newsboy friend in a trip to Honolulu as a showaway. The young star is completely natural and boylike, and gives by far the finest performance of his career. An especially enjoyable feature of the picture is Bobby's singing of half a dozen songs and the younger fully justifies his reputation as the possessor of the screen's sweetest juvenile voice.

Comedian Ned Sparks, in the most important supporting role, is delightful as the ship's musician who stands by the captain's side. Irvin S. Cobb makes a little gem of his role as a gruff, kindly sea captain. Warren Hull and Gloria Holden are outstanding as a married couple, and six-year-old Juanita Quigley proves herself a clever little actress as their daughter. Mamie Clark makes an attractive native girl, while other Hawaiian players who do good work are Pua Lani and Birdie De Bolt.

Scientifically, "Hawaii Calls" is a noteworthy contribution to the screen as a married couple, and six-year-old Juanita Quigley proves herself a clever little actress as their daughter. Mamie Clark makes an attractive native girl, while other Hawaiian players who do good work are Pua Lani and Birdie De Bolt.

Jimmy Durante And Three Stooges At The Capitol

That wild-eyed clown of clowns, Jimmy Durante, caroms madly through Columbia's new musical comedy, "Start Cheering," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, and thus proves that this world isn't such a bad place after all. It can't be with "Start Cheering" around. And when such excellent actors as Walter Connolly, Joan Perry, Charles Starrett, Gertrude Nissen, Raymond Walburn, The Three Stooges and Broderick Crawford are discovered in the same picture and in a merry mood, the result can be nothing worse than wonderful. "Start Cheering" scores in every quarter to win the musical championship.

To those bright names already mentioned as being outstanding in the picture add Prof. Quiz, Hal LeRoy, Ernest Truex, Virginia Dale, Chaz, Chase, Jimmy Wallington, Louis Frima and his band, and Johnnie Green and his orchestra. A great many stars and a great deal of entertainment.

The story deals with Ted Crowley, reigning movie hero, who suddenly gets fed up with the screen and decides to go back to college. His managers are horror-stricken. In an effort to force him to return to Hollywood, they send him to a college. He immediately gives a berth on the capitalizing on Ted's drawing power. Although Ted has never played a role of football in his life, he is immediately given a berth on the varsity.

Such a situation turns the school topsy-turvy, and there is no end of laughs. The picture, besides being packed with comedy, boasts some exceptionally good tunes.

Inspector McLean of the S. P. C. A. reports during the last three weeks:

38 cats destroyed—old, sick and two ran over by a car.

Several lots of kittens humanely destroyed.

Four dogs destroyed—old and suffering from disease.

Homes found for four dogs—one of which was returned to its home in Nova Scotia.

Routine inspection carried on daily and innumerable telephone calls responded to.

A Mr. James Colin Muirhead, who visited Charlottetown during Fair Week, had a "Toy Pom" which she took with her to the picture show one quiet on its mistress' lap until a barking dog appeared in the picture. Immediately the miniature dog sat up and "woofed" fiercely, and during the rest of the show never relaxed its attention, evidently expecting the dog to re-appear.

ment in the interests of European peace." There was no official explanation of this phrase but it might include the Spanish conflict with the suspended Anglo-Italian agreement and definite understanding on German intentions in the Danubian basin.

Would Entail Guarantees

It is understood any plan to carve up Czechoslovakia would entail territorial guarantees by border countries and the major powers, including Great Britain. At present time British guarantees the territorial integrity of Belgium, Egypt, Iraq, and Portugal.

Mr. Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, tonight interviewed Clement Attlee, Greenwood, and Sir Archibald Sinclair to acquaint the opposition leaders of latest developments Winston Churchill also was received.

The date of Mr. Chamberlain's second trip to Germany is still indefinite and depends largely on the attitude of the Czech Government. It is still possible he will take off tomorrow but Wednesday is a likelier day.

It is possible that Viscount Runciman's job as unofficial British mediator at Prague is over. He is in London and may not return.

Realistic Attitude

To any observer it is becoming increasingly plain that the average Englishman does not want war with Czechoslovakia. There probably will be sporadic attacks on the Chamberlain Government for its "betrayal" of Czech democracy to Hitler but the country is undoubtedly behind him.

The average Londoner, possibly very selfish but at the same time very realistic, thinks of bombs shattering the roof of his house and killing and maiming his children. He thinks that British defence forces, which with the exception of the navy, were allowed to reach low levels of impotency during the disarmament era, are still far from being irresistible.

He thinks of the paralyzing effect of the last war—probably he is one of its victims—which left Britain gasping economically, socially, financially for a decade. He thinks of all that and agrees it is better to accept an "inconceivably repugnant" plan than plunge this country and Europe, possibly the world, into warfare of unknown ferocity.

Nature Of Plan?

An unofficial version of the Anglo-French plan was as follows:

1. The Sudeten districts of Czechoslovakia which in municipal elections last May and June voted 75 per cent or more for the Sudeten German party candidates shall be annexed to Germany.

2. A new frontier shall be drawn to include all such districts within Germany as far as it is practical to do so.

3. Districts which voted between 75 and 50 per cent for Sudeten candidates shall be grouped in autonomous areas inside Czechoslovakia.

4. Arrangements shall be made by the exchange of populations to safeguard the liberty of German minorities which do not wish to come under the rule of Germany; these shall be similar arrangements to those made in Poland and Hungary.

5. The new frontiers of Czechoslovakia shall be guaranteed by Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary and Rumania and she shall be released from all alliances with France and Soviet Russia.

A terse communique issued early today after the Anglo-French conference indicated Mr. Chamberlain had high hopes for broad European settlement if the Czechoslovak problem is settled.

It voiced the hope of Britain and France and that after the "peaceful solution" they devised for the Czechoslovak problem it "will be possible to consider a more general settlement in the interests of European peace."

The Sudeten German population in the north other 90-100 per cent German districts are: Rumburg, Friedland, Trautenau, Braunau and a large bloc in northern Bohemia and Moravia near where the German, Czech and Polish borders meet.

Along the southern boundary are three small pure German sections: Eisenstein, a section of southern Bohemia, and the districts of Zwettl and Nikolsburg.

The border lands linking these pure German sections have German population of from 60-90 per cent with predominantly Czech inhabited corridors of small area breaking through to the border in a few spots in the northeast and southeast.

Other important minority groups in Czechoslovakia are the Hungarians with a population of 718,860 settled mostly along the border adjacent to Hungary and 100,000 Poles on a section stretching south from where the Czech, German and Polish borders meet.

Monthly Meeting Of Children's Aid Society Yesterday

The monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Board Room at the City Hall. In the absence of the President, the Rev. Dr. Miller presided. Mr. Bradburn read his report which dealt with his many activities during the summer by the officials was confirmed.

It was stated that it is reported that the ruins of the old house on the corner of Weymouth and Richmond Streets, is frequented by young boys and girls, and that rum has been found stored in the cellar. The secretary was instructed to bring the matter to the attention of the City authorities, as it is a menace to the morals of the young, as well as a fire hazard.

The following resolution was adopted. Resolved, that the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society desires to place on record its appreciation of the services rendered by the late Mr. Leonard B. Miller, as a member and as Auditor over a long period of years, and wishes to convey to Mrs. Miller and family its sincere sympathy and its regret at his passing.

Mr. William Moran was appointed Auditor for the balance of the year. It was pointed out that both Mr. St. Clair Trainor and Mr. Bradburn, had since the last meeting taken a life partner. The best wishes of those present was extended to them.

Some discussion took place regarding the introduction of a Curfew Law for the City, but no definite action was taken.

licated the government probably would consider the London proposals, but only as a basis of further negotiation.

POLICY UNCERTAIN

Bewildered and harassed between the two desires—to maintain their republic intact in the face of the drive of totalitarian powers and to play the card of neutrality with their minorities which they are instructed to bring the matter to the attention of the City authorities, as it is a menace to the morals of the young, as well as a fire hazard.

TWO DEVELOPMENTS

These sources said as the cabinet meeting broke up that two new developments threw a little sunlight into the otherwise gloomy situation:

1. A majority of the cabinet stoutly against Hitler's purported suggestion that all cities which give the Sudeten German party more outlawed, a 70 per cent or more plurality in the last municipal election be handed over automatically to the Sudeten German party.

2. The French Cabinet was understood here to be exercising no pressure on Czechoslovakia to accept the Anglo-French program.

Semi-official information reaching here from Paris said the French were caught between these alternatives; either to agree at least to formulation of the French suggestions, or accept the fact that Great Britain would not be considered as potential fighters on the side of France and Czechoslovakia if war comes.

In the situation, it was said, Premier Daladier of France had been called by the partitioning of the Sudeten back to Paris for discussion, but what he did not do was to promise Britain he would attempt to force its acceptance upon Czechoslovakia. With this understanding, the Czechoslovak Cabinet maintained a strong stand against the proposal with all elements of the government united.

The Agrarian representatives were reported to be leading opposition to acceptance and were even urging strengthening of the already stringent measures to maintain peace in the country.

The sole official word, however, on behalf of the anxious cabinet deliberations was the declaration by Premier Milan Hodza to the interim parliamentary committee.

"With this additional order, the Czechoslovak Government is considering the problem with all the earnestness that the present situation demands."

This statement was contained in a cable which further quoted the Premier as saying:

"I declared before this committee, which represents our whole people, that the government will do all it

Outlines Scope Of Tourist Trade In P. E. Island

Rotarians heard an informative review of the conditions favorable to the development of the tourist business in the province by Mr. Julius Hone, President of the Julius Hone Travel Agency of Montreal who addressed them at their weekly luncheon in the Canadian National Hotel yesterday.

Rotarian R. H. Rogers was in the chair and the guests were Rotarian Frank Gardner, a member of the Town Council of Norris Sydney, Premier Campbell, Hon. W. H. Dennis, Hon. Mark R. McGuigan, J. Lester Douglas, M. P. and W. E. Bentley, M. C.

The speaker of the day was introduced by Mr. Justice Arsenault, honorary Rotarian.

"Tourism," said Mr. Hone, "is definitely a product of modern civilization. Education has stimulated the desire to travel; higher standards of living and the vast improvement in transportation facilities have made it accessible to countless thousands, nay millions, to whom it was an unattainable dream a century ago.

"A few generations back, the bulk of the people led a life of incessant toil with no hope of change year in and year out, apart from the weekly Sunday's rest, thus being deprived of the means of ever leaving their immediate neighborhood. Their minds beyond the limits of their local main street.

"To our ancestors, there was something wrong with the man who went abroad—unless he were a soldier or a sailor by profession. The stranger, the man from foreign parts, was something of a curiosity, and an object of preconceived resentment. Every one grew up to believe that one's own city, one's own town or village was the central point of the universe, and that people brought up anywhere else were unfortunate, and naturally of a lower moral, physical and intellectual standard.

A Century Ago

"Then, a century ago, travelling was dangerous and uncomfortable and inconvenient. A century ago if a good Christian had set out from Charlottetown to Montreal there is but little doubt that he would have asked for the prayers of the congregation on his return trip. Today, people hop off from New York to Europe without waiting to kiss the wife and children. Some even hop off for California without waiting to find out in which direction it lies.

"Tourism in fact, today, has become at once an art, a science and a great industry. It is also a delightful habit a tremendous source of revenue and a powerful force for world peace and world advancement.

"Undoubtedly it has its rise in the inherent desire of pretty nearly every human being to go away. Parading the French ports, he delects it, it is the urge to be anywhere at all, provided it's somewhere else.

"The first successful Travel Agent of recorded history was Satan, who succeeded in interesting our first earthly parents in a nice holiday trip to the tempting, unknown regions beyond the confines of the Garden of Eden.

"Since that time the Travel Agent business has progressed a lot. Your Travel Agent today never dreams of suggesting a voyage to his customer, unless he feels reasonably sure of being able to bring you back with an agam whenever you want to come!

Mapped Out Itineraries

"And he surely makes things easy for you. You don't have to think any more. You just say to him: 'Mr. Travelman, I've got $100 or more in my pocket and I want to go places for a month. Can you fix that up for me?' And how...! The next thing you know your itinerary is all mapped out for you, your airplane, railway, bus, and steamship tickets are furnished, your hotel rooms are reserved, your theaters, sight seeing trips, museums and art galleries are arranged for, the waiters and porters are tipped for you; the only reason your breakfast isn't ordered for you in advance is that you can't make up your mind whether you want cornflakes or rice crispies for cereal.

"The Travel Agent will also supply free of cost road maps, literature issued by governments, transportation companies, trade associations, etc. and also a lot of information to motorists, or train or steamship bound travelers. He is such a big man in his way that he should be closely contacted by those seeking tourist travel.

"For countries and provinces, like your own, for instance, that enjoy some outstanding attractions which people are willing to come a long distance to enjoy, tourism is a tremendous source of prosperity and happiness. It brings individual boom, putting money in their pockets; it makes the community prosperous. No government can administer without it.

PRAGUE SEEKS SUPPORT FROM SOVIET RUSSIA

GENEVA, Sept. 19—(AP)—Czechoslovakia was reported to have fallen back on Soviet Russia today in the hope that Moscow might back her up against French and British pressure to give her Sudetenland to Germany.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of Russia was said to have sent to Prague a Czechoslovak request for support delivered to his delegation earlier in the day by Edouard Heidrich, Czechoslovak Foreign Office expert.

Both Russian and Czechoslovak officials refused to give any details of a talk Heidrich had with Jacob Suritz, Soviet Ambassador to France, and they denied Heidrich talked with Litvinov.

They openly stated, however, that the last hope of Prague lay with Russia.

Holds Interest

Geneva's interest in the Czechoslovak crisis, meanwhile, eclipsed the action of the League of Nations Council today in unanimously agreeing to invite Japan to sit with it while discussing China's demand that the League Act against Tokyo.

This set the League's punitive machinery in motion for the first time since the Italo-Ethiopian war and it was the first time it had moved against Japan.

In both Soviet and Czechoslovak circles it was understood Czechoslovakia had proposed that Russia try to induce France and Britain to stiffen their stance against Germany in the event Prague should refuse to accept the terms of Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

Czechoslovakia was reported to have asked Russia what the chances were of getting Soviet military aid in the event of German invasion and French failure to help. Russian aid comes in the form of gives aid first.

DUCE KEEPS ITALY'S VIEW TO FOREFRONT

ROME, Sept. 19—(AP)—Keeping Italy's view to the front in the fast-moving European crisis, Premier Mussolini will address the world again tomorrow.

While Great Britain, France and Germany are engaged diplomatically in discussing the fate of Czechoslovakia, Mr. Duce will speak at Udine in northern Italy.

Facist newspapers forecast that tomorrow's speech would deal with developments since the Premier's address yesterday in Trieste, when he said that Italy's place in the world is already chosen.

Virginia Gayda, authoritative editor of Il Giornale D'Italia who often expresses Mr. Duce's views, wrote today that "Italy is ready to take up arms at Germany's side if a world conflagration should explode" over the Czechoslovak problem.

Urge Vaccination For Immunization Of Tuberculosis

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 19—(CP)—Vaccination for immunization against tuberculosis was supported tonight by Dr. E. H. Laporte, New Brunswick Minister of Health, at a convention of the New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Tuberculosis Associations.

The vaccine he advocated for children and people in contact with tuberculosis sufferers is known as B. C. G.—the initials of its discoverers, Bertrand Calmett and Guérin.

Newly born infants in a contaminated environment must be segregated from all contacts during the three or four months necessary for B. C. G. to produce its effects after oral vaccination during the first ten days of life, said Dr. Laporte. To receive immunity for life children should be vaccinated at the ages of one, three, seven and 15 years.

Poet Pens Ode To The Prime Minister

LONDON, Sept. 19—England's poet laureate, John Masefield, has written this quatrain to Prime Minister Chamberlain in tribute to his peace mission to Germany:
