The Hegelian philosophy, Premier Garson said, could be boiled down to the theory that the individual is nothing and that the State is all. That was the philosophy, he said, which influenced Bismarck and Bernhardi and was responsible for the two world wars, for the hundreds of thousands of burned Jews in the German gas chambers, and for the millions in the slave camps of Russia.

"Thought expressed in action is always desirable," Premier Garson said, "when that thought is based on truth and economic realities. But when our Canadian socialists say the social services of this country could provide amply for the social security of the Canadian people, they are uttering falsehoods. He did not mean to say that many of those advocates of a new heaven and a new earth were not honest or sincere in their belief.

Pay As We Go The tragedy was that so many of them were honest and could thereby more effectively delude those who were not accustomed to doing their own thinking. But no services were free. We have to pay for what we get and if the corporations of Canada were making profits large enough to pay for those services so greatly desired by the people of Canada, the solution was simple - take over the corporations.

Unfortunately, facts were stubborn things. For instance, in the year 1943, the last year for which complete returns are available, the total Dominion, Provincial, and municipal taxes paid by the people of Canada were 2.5 billion dollars. For the same year the profits of all Canadian corporations were 640 million. In that year the total farm income was 1.4 billion dollars and the total wage and salary income was 4.7 billion, making a total of 6.1 billion dollars. Therefore, Premier Garson said, if the total corporation profits were added to the incomes of the farmer and wage and salary worker they would only increase it by 10 per cent.

All Or Nothing But if a socialist Government took over all Canadian corporations, it would have to pay for them unless it saw fit to confiscate them outright, Premier Garson said. If purchased, these would then no longer be corporation shares but Government bonds on which interest would have to be paid and there would also have to be provision made for losses as well as for gains. For not all Government owned enterprises were profitable. Many of them were registering a balance on the wrong side of the ledger year by year.

Many countries, the Premier said, such as Sweden, Australia, and New Zealand were looked upon as socialistic countries but upon closer investigation many of them were found to be no more socialistic than Manitoba which was not socialistic at all. Manitoba paid mothers' allowances, old age pensions, operated the telephone and the hydro system and performed many other works of a social nature. He did not pretend that Canada had gone as far as New Zealand. Nor did he wish to detract from what that country had done. In fact, Premier Garson said, he believed it would be nice if Canada could emulate New Zealand in its social security program.

All that would be necessary in order to rival New Zealand in this respect would be for the people to express a desire for it and to be prepared to pay for it. But since the only known permanent source of revenue was taxation, it might be wise to produce a few figures so that people would know what they would have to pay. A single man in New Zealand earning $900 a year, paid $68.98 in income taxes; a single man in Manitoba paid $12. A married man in New Zealand with no children paid $132.98; in Manitoba, he paid $14.40.

special interest to note the many entrants in the competitions, which was evidence of their interest in music. He hoped that the many groups and individuals entered would continue on in their various fields of music.

In conclusion, His Honour spoke highly of the work and endeavour of the pupils, teachers and parents, in preparation for the competition, and wished all the contestants and the Association every success in their present and future activities.

Other Speakers

All the following speakers spoke glowingly of the past and present activities of the P. E. I. Musical Festival Association, and individually they pointed out the many aspects of music which has done so much towards the promoting of character and culture, and its great contribution to community life. One and all extended the contestants and the Association best wishes for their present and future success.

Competitions Begin

Although the official opening of the Musical Festival, which will continue on until Saturday, May 8, was held last evening, the actual competition began yesterday afternoon at two o'clock when the president, H. Barry Bugden, and the adjudicator, Mr. David Ouchterlony, made a few brief remarks before the first in a long list of competitors was called to the stage.

Mr. David Ouchterlony, who holds an important position with the Toronto Conservatory of Music and is organist and choir director with the Timothy East Memorial Church in that city, is the Adjudicator at this year's Festival.

At the conclusion of each competitive class, Mr. Ouchterlony, who has a winning personality and a captivating manner of speaking, reviews the performances of each individual competitor, pointing out the good points and mistakes of each contestant, and then classifying them according to their merit.

ation rather than enforcement. It was indicated the neutral authority might take the form of a commission composed of the United States, Britain and France.

Meanwhile, the U.N. heard hopeful words regarding the protection of Jerusalem. There has been a cease-fire agreement between Jews and Arabs for the walled section of the Holy City and there is the possibility of a truce supervised by the International Red Cross for all Jerusalem.

Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones of Britain told the political committee of this second special session on Palestine that "war is lurking... waiting to wreck the United States... setting the whole Middle East aflame."

He emphasized that the purpose of British reinforcements sent to Palestine was to enable Britain to end her mandate May 15. There was no change in Britain's announced policy to withdraw all her troops by Aug. 1.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's chief delegate, said that the U.N.'s discussions on the situation in Palestine showed that the committee must leave long-term problems and concentrate on matters to which an immediate answer is necessary.

The 12-member trusteeship council was informed in a secret meeting by J. Fletcher-Cook, Britain's Palestine expert here, that the International Red Cross is carrying on negotiations for a truce in Jerusalem.

figures is also explained by the taxing authorities at Ottawa. It is a comparatively simple thing, they say, to obtain a good approximation of what the Western grain-grower takes in for his crop and what he spends.

Wheat is a rigidly controlled crop and the amount the Prairie farmer receives for his wheat can be easily determined by tax-investigators who simply ask the "line elevators" in Western Canada to show them their books and duplicates of delivery slips. From a visit to the farm in question, the investigator can easily estimate the farmer's expenses for the year.

And what may be legitimately charged a farmer with? The Western farmer will be even simpler in 1948 than formerly, because coars grains which formerly were sold on the open market are now being brought under control of the Wheat Board and amounts paid each farmer for his oats and barley are easily obtainable. Even with expected tax reductions, it is expected that the big farms of Western Canada will yield rich returns to the Income Tax Department not only this year but next as well.

In view of the comparatively low level of farm prosperity in Central Canada and in the Maritimes, it is expected that National Revenue Minister Dr. McCann will give them a much less attention than agriculturists in the West. The Income Tax Department in general follows the slogan: "Look after the millions and the thousands will take care of themselves."

In that year a Board of Railway Commissioners was appointed to deal with all matters in relation to the railways, and particularly to take the question of freight rates out of politics. Under the Act at the present time, the application is to the Board, but there is an appeal allowed to the Courts on points of law, and on points of fact only to the Governor-in-Council.

C. MILTON FRAZEE INSURANCE Fire - Auto - Life Representative Manufacturers Life Insurance Company 179 Queen St. Phone 714 Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Board, plunges the whole question into politics again. "Extremely Difficult"

"It is that fact which makes it so extremely difficult for the seven Provinces of Canada to persuade the Government to interfere with the Board's judgment," Premier Garson continued. "Indeed the only basis on which we can do so is by showing that not merely is the judgment wrong in a debatable way, but that it is so wrong upon its face that it warrants the interference of the Governor-in-Council notwithstanding the fact that this involves some element of political interference with the judgment of the Board - political interference which, however, is contemplated by the Act under which the Board is set up."

"The judgment of the Board for a 21 per cent increase in freight rates is based entirely upon the financial needs of the C.P.R. for this reason: that the capital structure of the C.N.R. is so badly complicated that to base a finding on the services and investment of that railway would be quite unreasonable. Therefore all Boards, in considering freight rates, have always addressed themselves to the question of how much of an increase is authorized and investments of the C.P.R. if any deficit on C.N.R. operations, they will have to be borne by the taxpayers.

C.P.R. Requirements

"The Board in effect said that the C.P.R. needed $19,000,000 more to balance its budget and provide a reasonable sum to pay interest at the rate of 5 percent on its preferred and 4 percent on its common stock. This is an intricate and involved matter, into the details of which I cannot go in my limited time. All I can hope to do is give a general picture. Our contention is that the Board should have disallowed as revenue of the C.P.R. $25,000,000 which accrued to the corporation from non-railway investments, such as steamship services, hotels, express companies, etc.

"The Board took the attitude that if we take into account these non-railway investments at a time when the railway is making money on them, at some other time, when these other ventures are losing money, we would have to be charged extra freight rates in order to make up for the losses of these outside concerns. So they said 'Leave them out of the calculation altogether.' Some Provinces opposed that ruling, though we did not in Manitoba. "What we objected to was, that after having thrown out the non-railway revenue, when it came to the other side of the ledger - to ascertaining the amount of money the C.P.R. could get along with in the matter of freight rates - the whole of the bonded interest and the dividend requirements of the entire capital structure of the railway, including the non-railway ventures, were thrown in. We contended that at least 30 per cent more accurately about 40 per cent would be in respect of non-railway profits, and therefore there should have been cast out of their calculations the sum of $11,000,000 which would leave a balance of only $8,000,000.

Other Charges

"In 1939 the C.P.R. spent on maintenance $48,000,000. In 1947 they were spending roughly $118,000,000, an increase of 140 per cent. Of that difference there is a balance of some $30,000,000 which is not accounted for by increases in wages and materials. That increase, we maintain, is in connection with capital investments with which we are not concerned. We contended that at a modest estimate $15,000,000 of that $30,000,000 of excess maintenance should be disallowed. $15,000,000 plus the $11,000,000 on services and dividends and fixed charges of the non-railway projects would amount to $26,000,000."

"Our contention was that on a balance of these figures the Board's ruling was not only wrong, but was so wrong as to warrant the interference of the Federal Cabinet. The matter is now before them, and they have the not very pleasant job of dealing with the judgment. Under the terms of the statute, it has been thrown upon their laps to deal with."

Opening Remarks

In his opening remarks Premier Garson said that "having regard to the fact that the Premiers of all the Provinces except the two central ones have very spiritedly and very unitedly - made representation to the Dominion Government which now has the matter under consideration, it would be most lacking in tact on my part to deal with the issue in any controversial way." He wished therefore to confine himself to tracing some connections "between well-known facts."

"This is the first time I have had the honour and privilege of speaking to a Prince Edward Island audience," he said. "It is in fact my first visit to the Island. I have always had a great curiosity about the place where so many men who rule Western Canada came from, and now I only wonder why they came at all. A very delightful spot you have here, and one which I am afraid we cannot compete with so far as natural beauty is concerned."
