POSTPONED.—Out of respect to the memory of the late Mrs DeBlois the entertainment to have been given to-night in St Peter's Hall has been postponed until Tuesday evening, the 8th inst.

POULTRY MEETING.—Mr. T. A. Benson, Dominion Poultry Representative, will address a meeting of the Millville Egg Raisers Association, June 1st, in the Barrack Hall, commencing at 8 p.m. All are welcome, but Egg Circle members and those interested are asked to make a special effort to attend. FOR SUSSEX.—Another lot of young men leave the Island this morning for Sussex, where they will train for overseas service. Four of them leave Charlottetown and will join the main company at Summerside. The following are those who leave Charlottetown:—John Woods, Charlottetown; J. Max Currie, Charlottetown; Wm. L. McLean, Brookfield; Urias Macdonald, Kelly's Cross.

INSPECTION.—The cadet corps of Queen Square School was inspected yesterday by Lieut. Duquet, Halifax, who expressed himself as very pleased with the boys. Lieut. Duquet has inspected nearly all the cadet corps on the Island during the past week, and finds that with very little training the boys have a military spirit and good corps have resulted. Lieut. Duquet leaves on return to Halifax this morning.

REMEMBERED.—Mr. J. Maxwell Currie, who leaves this morning for Sussex to train for overseas service, was presented by his workmates, employees of The Guardian Staff yesterday afternoon with a kindly worded address and a wrist watch suitably engraved. His fellow guests at the Russ also presented him with a handsome fountain pen. Last night at a dance, held by the Glee Club to bid him farewell, he was presented with a gold-plated safety razor.

A PEN PORTRAIT OF THE BELGIAN QUEEN

A life portrait of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium is given in a translation from a French writer, Roland De Mares. "She is not a warlike Princess riding beside a victorious husband, entering conquered villages to the sound of trumpets and clarions, gliding from hospital to hospital, from ambulance to ambulance, the most noble women the most simple of them all. She has come from village to village, from camp to camp, from trench to trench. She consoles the dreading, she smiles, she dresses the wounds, she is all the sweetness and all the pity in this Flemish country where the darkness surrounds the sad landscape. Shrouds of gray over some many shrouds of linen." It seems that ten years ago, on her entry as bride into Brussels, the daughter of the Bavarian "Duchess of Brabant," Charles, she understood her at once and they are a people this French authority says, "by nature critical, who know exactly what they want, and are not imposed upon by titles, pomp and decoration; there was a strong feeling that this Princess was different from other princesses; that she was nearer to them and more understanding of what moves the souls of the people. They know that she was not rich and that the living conditions of the people were reasons of state; they knew finally that she had a mind of her own, the mind of a woman and an artist, which would upset court prejudice; and that her crowned head was accompanied by a firm will that would overcome obstacles."

From that day on she has been affectionately called the "Little Queen." And it is true that she has made the renaissance of letters and art in Belgium characteristic of the reign by giving to her court poets and artists and intermingling them with intelligence, bounty and loyalty. Even the alert and aggressive Socialism of Belgium, without abandoning its principles, acknowledged itself disarmed before the grace and simplicity of the Queen. When the war came the Queen was whether she knew finally refuge with her children in France or England. Neither. She would remain in the midst of her people, and she lived in Brussels till the Germans entered there, and then at Antwerp, first under the bombs of Zeppelins, and then under the monstrous Krupp shells of the short and sharp siege. And from thence to the trenches with the King—and always "along the tumultuous route, with a calm face smiling at the unfortunates on the road, and the soldiers, giving such an impression of serenity that confidence would spring in the most despairing heart." As this French artist in words put it she offers in this time of doubt the sublime spectacle of a fragile woman whose strength of heart can face the most implacable destiny ever known to a wandering Queen—the symbol of life.

THE EXPRESS.—The Express train arrived in Charlottetown last night at 10.50.

THE PICTOU BOAT.—The s. s. Northumberland docked at Charlottetown last evening at 8.05 o'clock.

PURCHASES BOAT.—Mr. Lloyd Wellner, Charlottetown, has purchased from Mr. Edward Flynn, a splendid motor boat. She is 23 feet long and 4 1/2 feet beam, with a 5 h. p. engine. The boat is nicely finished and an ideal pleasure boat.

BIG SHIPMENT.—Mr. Everett Wedlock, of Hunter River, was in the city yesterday with a car of cattle, twenty-two head, which he was shipping to Halifax from Hunter River. This is a total of eight cars shipped by Mr. Wedlock to Halifax since April 5th, making 150 head of the choicest stock to this one point, besides regular shipments to others. Who says the farmers of P. E. Island are not making good?

WORLD'S CROPS.—The crops for New Zealand have been harvested and the Government has compiled an estimate for this year compared with last year. In wheat the figures are, for 1913-14, 166,774 as against 159,567 in 1914-15; oats 361,741 and 287,561; barley, 32,002 and 18,347; potatoes, 29,164 and 21,887. From these figures it will be seen that New Zealand has paid particular attention to the wheat crop at the expense of coarse grains and potatoes. This will be found to be true in many other countries, and it would be well for the farmers here to govern themselves accordingly. The wheat crop of the Island is likely to show a smaller increase this year than the oat crop. The farmers of this province will make no mistake in growing as much oats as possible.

CANADIANS DASH THROUGH FUMES

LONDON, May 28.—Further successes have been recorded by the Canadian Division and Territorials who are supporting them in the Festubert-Richbourg section. Last night, backed up by gas, which they pumped from tanks on wheels and by bombs filled with some kind of liquid which blazed furiously as soon as they burst, the Germans attempted the greatest counter-attack since we gained the new position. Fresh troops from Ghent and Bruges were employed, according to prisoners taken and they were in considerable numbers. Our men, well supplied with respirators, dashed into the fumes and caught the enemy by surprise just as they were preparing to charge. At almost the same time the Indian troops charged at right angles and caught the Germans on the flank.

One Canadian Captain tells me that the German losses in this evening's engagement alone must have been over 3,000. The Canadians only took sixty prisoners, but they also have as trophies of this latest fighting, four machine guns.

The German batteries again shelled their own wounded. From reliable resources I gather that although the fighting has been heavy as at Ypres, the Canadians have not lost heavily. The British and Canadian artillery were always mastered by the German guns, and our advancing units were well protected. The element of surprise also gave us the advantage. A Canadian corporal tells me that in one advanced trench he came across a gramophone with the disk still revolving.

Every battalion in the old division has been engaged, but well as remembered that some of the new contingents have been used to fill in gaps made at Ypres.

The wounded men that are coming down are cheerfully optimistic. They say now, that now the Indians have weathered, they are magnificent fighters and the Germans fear them.

ROLAND HILL THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, May 27.—Wheat dropped again another five cents. Absent of buyers brought about the decline. It went down to $1.42 a bushel, or 25c. under the highest price of the war on February 5th. The predictions at that time were that the $2.00 a bushel. The price of corn and oats however, advanced, but the market was very small.

WINNIPEG, May 27.—There was very little change in the wheat market to-day; it, however, dropped somewhat. The market closed at $1.52 1/2. Oats closed 1/4c. lower.

TORONTO, May 27.—Cash wheat prices dropped nearly 2c. to-day on all grades. Corn advanced somewhat higher. Oats fell a little.

MONTREAL, May 27.—Wheat fell off about 1 1/2c. a bushel to-day on account of the small demand. The demand for oats and barley was quiet and business was dull. There was, however, no change in prices.

Hay: The hay market is showing more firmness. Farmers are looking for higher prices, but as yet no change has come.

Hogs: There were no further developments in the hog situation to-day. The market is firm with a good demand from packers for all the supplies coming forward.

Eggs: The receipts of eggs to-day were 2,897 cases, as compared with 2,067 for the corresponding date a year ago. Prices are being firmly maintained.

Dairy Produce: The market to-day was quiet owing to the buyers having ample supplies on hand. Advice state that 5,000 packages of butter on the way from New Zealand for Vancouver. Fine creamery is bringing from 27 1/2 to 27 3/4c. The first auction sale of the Quebec Agricultural Co-operative Society was made to-day and the prices realized for white cheese were 17 1/2c. and for coloured 17 1/2c. At Kingston all the offerings were disposed of at 18 1/2c.

THE PEOPLE'S

An unusual offering of pictures was offered the patrons of the People's Theatre last evening, and enjoyed by large and appreciative audiences. The interest centered around "Runaway June," the tenth episode of which was shown last evening. This particular instalment is of more than ordinary interest. June who has been discovered by Ned on the liner is forced to see him roughly treated by Blye and his gang, and imprisoned for the rest of the journey. However, with the aid of his detective he makes good his escape, and when the liner is nearing the harbor, he jumps overboard and is rescued by some fisherman in a launch, but lands in time to see June with Blye and his party aboard a yacht in which they tour the Island.

A Keystone offering, "When Reuben Fooled the Bandits," was laughable and mirth producing. "Rivalry," a two-part Thanhouser, in which James Crane, Harry Benham and Mignon Anderson are featured, was up to the usual standard of these great makers, and provided many thrills for the audience.

The first of "The Beloved Adventurer" series, Lord Cecil Intervenes," was shown for the first time, and judging from the many remarks passed and heard on all sides, is a worthy successor to Dolly of the Dalles. This series features Arthur V. Johnson, and Lottie Brice, of the Lubin studios, and is complete in fifteen reels, one of which will be shown every Monday and Tuesday at the People's Theatre, and should prove of great interest to the theatre-goers of this city. If each instalment is as interesting as the opening episode.

THE DREADFUL HOUSECLEANING.

They were both young. They both had their pretty brown hair scraped up under their tiny hats which were peched jauntily over one ear. They both had very, very short skirts. They were very up-to-date and exactly alike. Nothing so absolutely obliterating as individuality as a too strict adherence to fashion. "I don't like the Spring," said one little fashion-plate. "Mother loves to house clean. She turns the whole household upside down and everyone from Father to Billy goes across as two sticks for ten days or so. That dreadful house-cleaning! How I hate it! When I marry I shall never house-clean."

That was all I heard, but it furnished food for thought. One small person so detested house-cleaning, how many hundreds of others there must be. And if one creature in skirts so hated the annual cyclone of cleaning how many thousands of men-folk must hate it!

Is there any excuse for a woman making her family intensely uncomfortable for a fortnight each spring? I put this question to several women and their answers were not without value. "Why, of course," said one woman with a large house and several children. "I never have a spring look decent if we did not house-clean. During the winter everything gets simply black from the coal dust and smoke of the furnace. So I have all the carpets up and sent away to be beaten; and I have all the ceilings and floors cleaned; and I never have a spring cleaning done laundered; and I get painting done where it is needed. And when it is all over, it just smells beautiful and looks like a new place."

THE OTHER SIDE.

Another woman jeered at the old-fashioned spring cleaning. "There is simply no excuse for it," she said emphatically. "If a woman keeps her house decently there is no need to turn it all upside down every spring. I never have a spring cleaning done, and my house always looks as nice as I was true her house always looked nice, but I do not think that it possessed the perfect freshness of the other woman's house which had a regular spring-cleaning."

After all it is perfectly possible to spring-clean with the minimum discomfort. The trouble with too many women is that they upset the whole house at once. If one room at a time is done it presents no insuperable difficulties. The day the living room is turned out, the family can use the dining room and the bedrooms can be done while the occupants are away for the day.

An excellent thing when doing house cleaning is to put away superfluous ornaments. There is scarcely a home which would not be better for a strict process of elimination. There is scarcely a mantle-shelf which would not be both more artistic and less trouble with half the gim-cracks disposed of. One woman I know puts her ornaments away and then after some months changes them. The

THE MISTRESS AND THE PAINT-POT.

A wonderful useful thing at spring-cleaning season is an assortment of small paint pots. There can be the brown stain for the floor; the white enamel for the bathroom; the cream paint for the kitchen. Then the mist-reck can put on a big apron, a pair of gloves, and, armed with pot and brush, drive away the enemies of dirt and dullness. There is no one thing in the world which is more conducive to freshness as paint. Now, Clean-Up week is coming along let the fresh paint outside and in. If the landlords will not paint the stels—and landlords simply hate wasting good rent money on paint—let the world do it himself. One gets a greater return on a dollar's worth of paint than on almost any other investment.

Another attractive feature of a house besides shining woodwork, is spotless curtains. The shops are showing wonderful pretty muslins at extremely low prices. Gone are the most part are elaborate and expensive lace curtains. Maras or scrim by the yard, neatly hemmed, are considered much smarter and are certainly very much cheaper and easier to launder. If there is a little money to spend this spring-time on furnishings, consider first the curtains.—Amy Chester in Evening News, Montreal.

PHENOMENAL TYPEWRITING

The world's record for speed on the typewriter was broken by Miss Margaret E. Owen, of Passaic, N. J., at the eastern championship. Her typewriting contests held in Mechanics' building here.

Miss Owen, a girl 21 years of age, who was the world's champion in 1913, wrote 132 words per minute for 60 consecutive minutes, shattering the previous record, held by the world's champion Emil H. Trefzger of New York. Trefzger's record of 129 words per minute was made at the International Typewriter contests last October.

Miss Owen said after she had been awarded the gold medal in the professional class, that while she exceeded the world's record, Mr. Trefzger still holds the title of world's champion, as the championship title must be won at an international contest. Trefzger did not compete in last night's affair.
