MISSION OPENS AT ST. PETERS.—Owing to the late arrival of the first mail train last evening the opening service of the Mission at St. Peters Cathedral was almost over when the mission preacher, Rev. Cyril Bickersteth of the Community of the Resurrection, England reached the church. Rev. Mr. Malone had conducted the service and preached and after Father Bickersteth arrived he spoke a very few words in preparation for the following services. Beginning today there will be in connection with the mission celebration of the Holy Communion each morning at 7.45, the evening preaching service each evening at 8.00. Beginning on Wednesday afternoon there will be a special childrens' service every afternoon at 5.00. On Wednesday Friday and Monday afternoons there will be special service for women at 3 o'clock. There will be a special service for men on Wednesday night at 9.00 immediately after the general service.

Dust Proof Room For Auto Varnishing

A new innovation in the auto painting dept. of Bruce Stewart & Co, Ltd is the new "all steel" dust proof varnishing room recently built for that organization. It is a very effective lust proof steel box built to hold a car.

The air and humidity of the compartment is regulated and kept clean by steam.

After the car is colored and ready for varnishing it is taken from the paint shop proper and placed in the hot and moist varnishing room where its final coat of varnish is applied.

When, after a certain period, it leaves this steel box, it is covered with a perfectly dust free glaze like a car just from the factory.

It is understood that the varnish room is open for inspection by the public Wednesday and Saturday of this week.

sizes of window glass; drawers for special purpose nails and paint materials. All the counters, which are topped with cherry wood and faced with ash are fitted with handy bins and drawers. Show cases and silent salesmen of unique design for displaying cutlery, etc., occupy both sides of the store.

Indirect lighting fixtures illuminate the interior and four powerful shaded globes make the windows especially attractive at night.

At the rear a stairway leads to the fine and spacious office, walled on three sides with ground glass windows specially adapted for ventilation. A large plate glass window provides plenty of light.

Behind the main store are the large general wares room and wholesale shipping room. Another prominent feature is the large five ton electric elevator providing transportation for heavy articles to the upper floors. These are used for storing stoves and all kinds of ironmongery.

Heavy trusses in the front part of the second story have permitted the removal of a pillar at the forward end of the store.

That the whole building is unusually commodious is easily seen rom the fact that it was originally intended to contain four stories and afterwards modelled into three

The dimensions of the store proper are 65 by 30 feet, and of the upper floors and concrete basement 90 ft. by 45.

A stairway connects all three floors; the doors communicating with the various departments are unusually large and well adapted to the purposes of the store.

The lighting system was installed by the Palmer-Watson Electric Co, the heating by Mr. Jas. McEachern and the painting throughout is the work of Messrs Prowse.

from H. R. McMillan, lumber manufacturer of Vancouver, who relates a conversation with Colonel W. B Greeley, Chief Forester of the United States. When in Vancouver with President Harding's party in 1923, asked if there was any reason why the export o logs from Alaska to British Columbia was prohibited, is quoted as saying that they wanted to keep the timber in Alaska in the same manner as Canada proposed keeping her lumber at home in Eastern Canada, with the object of forcing Canadian mills to move to Alaska and to assist in developing the resources there.

The correspondence includes a reply, dated January, 1924, to a communication received from Lieut Governor Nicol, of British Columbia, containing a resolution of the British Columbia Legislature asking that the Commission also inquire into the export of unmanufactured timber. The reply states that the Government is not disposed to extend the scope of the Commission.

"The Law of the Lawless" Scores Decisive Hit

AT THE PRINCE EDWARD

Affording Dorothy Dalton the star, one of the strongest roles in which she has been seen here in many months, and introducing Charles de Roche, a famous French screen star, in his first American made picture, "The Law of the Lawless" scored a decisive hit at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday.

Miss Dalton is seen as a young Tartar girl who is sold at auction to pay the debt her father owes Ali, a usurer. Sahande (Dorothy Dalton) sacrifices herself to save her father from a like fate—for this is the law of the land. Ali seeks to buy her, but is outbidden by Costa, a gypsy chief, who later forces her to become his wife. Sender, the cowardly lover of Sahande, with his Tartar followers attacks the gypsy village and captures Costa. Sahande sets out to rescue Costa, for she now has fallen in love with her husband. She finds him Ali's captive in the minaret room of the Mosque. A fight follows; a lantern is overturned, and soon the minaret is in flames.

The gypsies force an entrance into the Tartar village and a battle ensues. The ensuing scenes bring to a close one of the most interesting and dramatic pictures ever seen in Charlottetown.

Theodore Kosloff artistically portrays the role of Sender while Charles de Roche presents a virile Costa. The adaptation was made by E. Lloyd Sheldon from the story by Konrad Bercovici. Victor Fleming directed.

Canada Makes

the Dominion Government understood legislation before Congress would confer on the sanitary district of Chicago the legal right to divert for sewage dilution and navigation purposes, 10,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan.

Would Affect Navigation

"In this connection" the letter said "the Dominion Government observes that no provision is made for the restoration of the levels of the St. Lawrence River from its head to the tidewater. In other words the restoration to be provided in the legislation above named is to be in the waters where United States navigation predominates but no such restoration is provided for waters so extensively used by Canadian shipping.

"Reports to the Canadian Government during recent months" the letter said, "refer not only to the loss of levels that affect navigation, but also to the diversion of water for power purposes both in the international stretches where compensation may be determined and in the international stretches below Cornwall in the province of Quebec. In that regard, Lord Byng, of Vimy, desires me to point out that the limit of 10,000 cubic feet of water per second, as contemplated by the proposed legislation, is about 1,500 cubic feet more than is being diverted at present, and His Excellency considers it possible that the proposed legislation may mean that 10,000 cubic feet per second is allowed for diversion and power at Lockport, which additional water, power will doubtless be required for lockages.

Canada Opposes Diversion.

"In view of the above, I have the honor to inform you that the Government of Canada are unalterably opposed to the proposed diversion of water form the Great Lakes watershed to that of the Mississippi, to the great detriment of navigation from Sault Ste Marie to Tidewater.'

The letter sets forth that diversion at Chicago had lowered the waters of the Great Lakes, affecting harbors on which millions have been expended, locksills of various Canals, and had proved injurious to the ocean shipping channel from Montreal to the sea.

"The waters of the Great Lakes," the letter said, "are the heritage of both the people of the United Staes and Canada" adding the hope that the United States would not permit any further diversion, but would insist, if necessary, upon the sanitary district of Chicago adopting some more scientific method of sewage disposal.

The views of the United States Government were requested, and Secretary Hughes said those would be forwarded when the replies of the appropriate departments of the government were received.

Russia Asked to Give Up Fifty Years An Organist

ment's de jure recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia a few months ago has had almost no direct influence upon actual trade between the two countries. The present Anglo-Russian conference in London seeks to establish Russian loans and credits here, where with British goods may be purchased.

Because other rehearsals are under way in other parts of London, too—and the Russians know that and they are on their guard—all who come to the modest little hotel must prove themselves. Some of the other rehearsals take place down in the "City"—which is to London as Wall Street, and more, is to New York. Some take place in the political rallying-places of the Conservative and other political leaders. Some take place in the editorial councils of powerful publishing groups. They all seek the same objective—the failure of the conference, save upon one condition—that the Soviet Government of Russia de-sovietize itself, abandon most or all of its fundamental principles.

Chances About Even

The Russians have no idea of ditching sovietism in order to secure an agreement with Britain or anyone else. At least they say that and certainly they seem to have proved it. But they believe there's just about a 50-50 chance of reaching an agreement with England, and yet retaining the fundamentals of sovietism. If that 50-50 chance fails, there will be no agreement.

So there is tenseness among the hardworking men in the modest little hotel—tenseness and hard work and suspicion—for the stakes are big and the game is stiff and the opponents are foemen to be reckoned with. Bearded men in baggy suits are buzzing about. There is a woman secretary with a blouse and hair shingled like a boy and eyes like a mystic or a policeman, depending upon whether she approves of you or not—and she can pound a Russian typewriter so fast its carburetur boils. There's a Soviet chief from Turkestan who wears a double deck fur cap and stumps about on a peg-leg because of some real fighting he did during the war. There is Russian tea and Russian cigarettes, and it is quite possible to get a shot of vodka.

But all in all you just find a bunch of man whose clothes need pressing and who are working very earnestly, very intently, very seriously, in cluttered, over-crowded rooms, whose improvised desks are jumbled with dossiers and documents—the cards they'll play successfully or unsuccessfully—in a great game wherein the stakes are trade and political advantages over half the earth.

PRESTON, May 5.—Mr. R. W. Coward, aged eighty-four, who has retired after fifty years' continuous service as choirmaster and organist, was presented with an illuminated address and a wallet of Treasury notes by the parishioners of St. Jude's Preston.

In connection with the above clipping from the "Montreal Standard" it is interesting to note that our highly esteemed citizen, Prof. S. N. Earle, holds the unique reputation of having occupied the position of Organist and Choir Master of St. Paul's Church, Charlottetown, since 1866—fifty-eight years ago, and is still on the job; young in years and going strong.

aroused by noticing strange footmarks around the fence, and some of the foxes' fastening locks were unhooked. The loss is a very large one, and is not borne entirely by Mr. Jenkins, some of the loss being borne by parties who are ranching there. The party who did the stealing showed considerable familiarity with the surroundings, and also seemed to be able to hit on the best pens.

Mr. Jenkins got in communication yesterday with the Attorney-General, and Detective Weeks is now working on the case. The news spread consternation among the fox men of the city and Royalty and all of them are talking of taking preparations against similar occurences. It is understood several are placing armed night watchmen on guard, and it is likely an effort will be made to try to secure a thorough-bred blood hound so that any future depredation can be traced to the source.

ANOTHER RANCH ROBBED

The fox ranch of Mr. J. C. McKendrick was raided on Friday night and two litters of foxes were stolen. The pups were about a month old. This matter also has been reported to the Attorney-General and it is understood steps are being taken to locate the stolen animals.

Says Germany Swindles World

(Canadian Press)

QUEBEC, May 5.—F. C. L. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Federal Government, returning on board the steamer Empress of Scotland this morning from a three month four of Europe, stated that while in Paris everybody he had met were loud in their belief that there should be no further sentiment in the matter of the French occupation of the Ruhr and that the French policy was correct.

Germany had swindled the whole world with its marks, he said, and the sooner they were brought to understand that they lost the war the better.

"Nerves in Bad State Could Not Sleep"

Mrs. H. N. Tardell, Harrowsmith, Ont., writes:

"My nerves were in a very bad state, and for nearly six months I did not know what it was to have a good night's rest. I could not eat, and never felt well. I heard about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and thought I would try it. After taking it for a few days I began to feel better, and soon was able to sleep well at night. My appetite also returned, and I felt stronger and better, and after taking three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was quite well. I have also given the Nerve Food to my little girl, with good results."
