Stop Shivering!

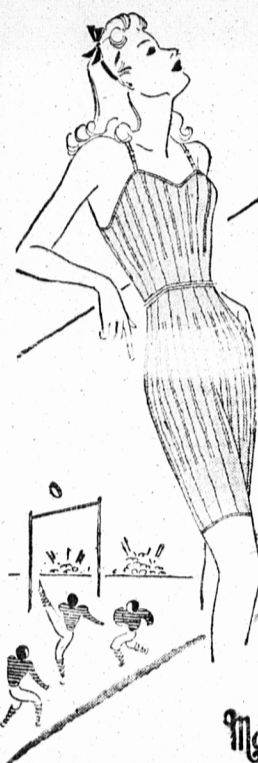

Wear "KAYSERETTES"

You can't be your own lovely self with blue lips and a cold nose. You can't be slimly smart in bulky undies—but you can be radiant and slender in Kayser's skilfully fashioned woolly undies.

"KAYSERETTES" are warm—they are fashioned of soft, cosy cotton with a 15% woollen content. In vests and a variety of styles in panties and knickers. White and roseblush. 50c

"LAMEES" are warmest because they are one hundred per cent wool. Snug smoothly fitting fits that come down over knees, sautey, bright colours of Terra Cotta, Araby Green, Brown, Blue, Camel and Red, an ideal extra garment for colder days.

A Morning Smile

MONTHS AGO

The rank outsider had just romped home at 50 to 1. Harry—Did yer do it? Erb—Do it? No, never 'eard of it. "Why, I told yer abahit months ago. You wrote it down on your shirt-cuff."

WHAT IF HE HAD

An old bachelor who was very bald fell in love with a pretty widow, whose late husband's name was Robin.

"I say, my dear," said Mr. Briggs, the morning after the reunion dinner. "I seem to have got an enormous blister on my tongue."

"What do you expect?" replied his wife. "You would insist on drinking my health out of your hot-water bottle last night."

BOUQUET FOR POSIES

FOLKESTONE, England.—(CP)—After a marriage here the bride sent her bouquet to a fete at the Bruce Forer Home, a branch of Dr. Barnardo's, to be divided into posies and sold to aid funds.

THE HOUSEWIFE — AND — HER ACTIVITIES

COURAGE

Quiet, my heart—defer not hope. Nor say life is not pleasant still. Souls shall not always blindly grope.

If Faith is firm, and strong the faith. Life's path may thorny be and rough; There are roses yet, for those who see.

To greet the sun it is enough! The present shall not always be. —Theodore Currie-Arnold, in Victoria Times.

STORING MATERIAL

"When you have bought material from the sales and are not going to make it up for some time, un-wrap it and roll it up, instead of leaving it in folds. However long you keep it you won't find any creases that will not wash out, also there will be no fold marks."

CHAMOIS GLOVES

After washing chamois leather gloves put a small round peg in the fingers and thumbs; it saves a lot of pulling and rubbing afterwards when dry.

CLEANING SILVER

After using metal polish for cleaning silver or brass, dust over a little powdered starch and give a final polish with a soft cloth. This will be pleased at the extra brightness of the articles.

A DRYING HINT

Cut cardboard mazarin shape for drying bulky woollen coats and frocks. Pegs can be clipped on to the cardboard at the neck, leaving no peg marks on the garment. The woolies will keep a better shape.

In stripes, rose is blended with violet, pink, dull medium blue, tapestry red with green and white. The spirit effect in a plaid is turquoise with shocking pink and navy, the crossings in the weave giving three soft-toned dull colors of purple and dull blue.

FLOWERS IN SAND

An attractive way to arrange small cut flowers is to fill a shallow bowl nearly full of sand, then add water almost to the top. Arrange flowers with their stems in the sand. The flowers will keep beautifully and the sand adds a manner touch that blends with any sort of bloom.

VENTILATORS

Nowadays when metal ventilators are so inexpensive there is no excuse for a house with bad air in it. One ventilator on each floor of the home during the winter months will change the atmosphere without affecting the heating of the room in the least.

READY FOR THE WINTER

It is wise to save all worn white materials, cut them up into 10-inch squares and have a clean pile of them in the linen closet, where any member of the family who has a cold may procure them instead of using their regular handkerchiefs. They can be burned when soiled and in this sanitary manner keep the cold from spreading throughout the family.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS

Shoes should not be kept in boxes after they have been worn, as they require air to preserve them. White lace that is strong and whole but an ugly color can be made to look like new by steeping in tea and ironing while still damp.

If you are interested in keeping your kitchen attractive and up to the minute your servant is more likely to be satisfied and take pride in her work.

DIP INTO SCRAP-BOOK FOR NEW FASHIONS

You wouldn't believe how "old fashioned" modern clothes are until you turn the pages of one of those scrap books beloved of our mothers during their young days. Fashion is dipping freely into these scrapbooks, and into the "Family Albums" to study them.

page wearing a dress that will be hailed as a "creation," a taffeta picture frock with a streamer of flowers arranged from one shoulder across the bust and caught at the waist.

And the moulded bodices, sweated waistlines, and draped sleeves fashionable in grandmother's day, are copied by her grand-daughter. Flowers, too, are featured at the corsage on the majority of evening dresses.

GLASS DRAWER FRONTS A new idea for the home which is increasing in favor is to install clear glass drawer fronts for your built-in closet chests. This means that you can easily locate your stored away objects, when and if you want them.

Try boiling inch-thick slices of salmon, seasoned with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. All the valuable mineral and vitamins are retained when fish is broiled or baked. Ten minutes on each side is the average time for fish steak broiling.

Fathers Should Exercise Extreme Caution When Attempting to Pick Out a Husband for Their Daughters, for Romance Rather than Practicality Rules Most Girls

Dear Miss Dix—My complaint is this: I can't make my daughter marry the man I have picked out for her. I think she would be better inclined to run around and stay out late, and I think she would be better off married. Now, Miss Dix, I have picked out a promising young business man as a suitable match for this wayward young daughter of mine. He is in the plumbing business, which is a legitimate and honest profession, and I can't see her objections to him, as he is old enough to be level-headed and can keep her in line. But she will not consent and I want your advice on how to make her see that marrying this man is the best thing to do.

MR. H. R. B.

Answer.

I am afraid I cannot help you in this matter, Mr. H. R. B., because I don't believe in parents as matchmakers. If your daughter was thinking of marrying a man whom you knew to be immoral or drunken or lazy and good for nothing, you would never be likely to run around and stay out late and save her from the wretchedness that would be her portion if she had for a husband a sot or a rouse or a man who wouldn't support her.

But making a match is an entirely different proposition, for while you can tell what matches the kind of husband that will make a woman miserable, nobody knows the sort of husband that will make her happy.

You see, Mr. H. R. B., the fact that a man is moral and upright, sober, industrious and a good provider doesn't necessarily make him a desirable husband in a woman's eyes. It doesn't make her love him or enjoy being with him. It doesn't fill her days with contentment and make her feel that just being his wife is the finest thing in the world. There has to be something in the man that appeals personally to a woman.

Perhaps she doesn't even know what it is herself, but it is there, and it is something that is stronger than life or death, poverty or riches that makes her willing to work for him, sacrifice for him and stick by him through thick and thin just because he is her man.

That is why no father, no matter how wise and clever he is or how good a judge of men he is can pick out a husband for his daughter. It is purely a matter of individual taste, and fathers' and daughters' tastes seldom run along the same line. The very qualities that would lead you to choose a particular candidate are the ones that would have no weight with her.

You have practically on your side. She has romance on hers. You want her to marry a settled, sober man who will boss her. She wants a playmate, somebody of her own age, who will dance with her and run around with her and who will perhaps fight with her, but who will not dream of trying to control her. To ask her to change her demands in a man for yours is as unreasonable as to offer mush and milk to one who craves caviar.

Undoubtedly, your man is the safer chance. But if the girl doesn't want him and doesn't like him, if he does not come up to her ideal nor fire her fancy, and if she has no taste for him, how could you expect her to be happy with him? And, after all, isn't it better for the girl to marry the man she wants and the man who pleases her than the one who pleases you? It seems to me that the one who has to live with a husband or a wife has the right to pick him or her out.

Dear Miss Dix—I am past 30, considered good-looking, have never been in love and have never had a real proposal. I am in the business world, but lead the kind of life so many girls of my type do, socially nameless. Dancing is the only thing we miss out on, as our parents amply supply us with all other amusements. My life is full of interests and really quite satisfactory. But I sometimes wonder if I have become old and cynical, and if I am making my independence a fetish. Is there a danger of that?

Answer: Yes, I think there is a very real danger of the woman who enjoys her independence making a god of it and sacrificing too much to it. We women are likely to run to extremes, you know, and we are a bit crazy now with the joy of having broken the fetters that have bound our sex so long with our first experience of freedom.

It seems so wonderful to us to know that we are standing on our own feet and are independent human beings, free to come and go as we please without asking any man's permission. With our own money that we have earned with our own hands and that we can spend as we like without giving an account to any one, we feel that independence is the greatest thing in the world; that it is better than love, better than husbands or children, better than anything.

I know more than one woman who has refused to marry the man she really cared for because she loved her liberty better and preferred to go a lonely way through life rather than submit to the shackles that family life would put upon her.

This, I think, is a mistake, for while the wife and mother is the most loved of all women, her bonds are silken fetters. It is true that the woman whose arms are full of babies cannot go where she will as can a single woman, but she finds at home interests and joys that more than compensate her for any pleasure she would find in society or globe-trotting. Sacrifice becomes sweet when made for those we love. The woman who gives her life to her family does not lose it, but finds it.

That is one side of the question. The other is that freedom is a compensation for many of the things that a woman who does not marry loses, and it is good to have it from one woman who has intelligently and philosophically enough to realize that no lot is without its drawbacks. The successful business woman has much to be thankful for and little to grouch over. She is one of the darlings of the gods and has drawn one of the prize packages in life.

How Can I ? ?

(By ANNE ASHLEY)

Q. How can I give fringed napkins a nicer appearance when ironing?

A. Slap the fringe against the ironing board before pressing. This will loosen the fringe and make it fluffy.

Q. How can I clean the fingers that are stained from preparing raw vegetables?

A. Dip the fingers into a solution of very strong tea for a short time; then wash with soap and water.

Q. What is a good substitute for mullage, when one finds that the only stamp available has no mullage on it?

A. All that is necessary is to moisten the mullage flap of another envelope, run the stamp quickly over the dampened part, then place on the letter to be mailed.

Q. What should a girl's mother wear at the daughter's coming-out party?

A. If the affair is an evening dance, she should wear an evening gown at a tea, an afternoon frock is suitable.

Q. Is it good taste to discuss intimate or personal affairs with acquaintances?

A. No; it is not only poor taste, but one often regrets doing so. One should be very cautious about discussing intimate or personal affairs even with close friends.

Q. Is it rude to whisper?

A. Yes; whispering and giggling have no place in good society. Anything that shows a lack of courtesy toward others is rude.

Drink Milk

A glass of sweet milk or buttermilk between meals often does much to banish that tired feeling milk just before one goes to bed has a soothing effect on the nerves and helps induce sleep.

Woolen Toys

The child's woolen toys can be cleaned by making a paste of white starch and cold water, and rubbing this well into the soiled toy. Then brush off the dry starch with a clean brush.

Pears in Salad

If you are going to use pears in the salad, place them in some water to which a little lemon juice has been added, and this will insure their retaining their freshness.

THE COOK'S CORNER

BRIDGE FUDGE CAKE.

- 1-2 cup butter
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups light brown sugar
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1-2 cup sour milk or buttermilk
- 1-2 cup cocoa or 3 ounces melted chocolate.

Cream shortening and add 1 cup of the sugar. Beat the eggs well and add the remaining cup of sugar and beat thoroughly. Combine the two mixtures and beat well again. Sift and measure the flour and sift again with flour mixture to the creamed mixture alternately with the sour milk, beating well after each addition. Combine the baking soda and chocolate or cocoa with the

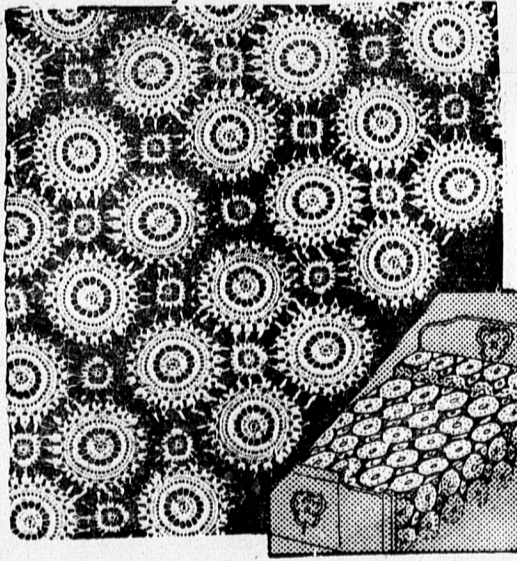

BANBURY PUFFS

Ingredients:—1-2 lb flanky pastry. For Filling:—1 tablespoonful butter, 1-2 tablespoonful flour; 1 tablespoonful sherry or lemon juice; 2 tablespoonfuls moist sugar; 1-4 lb. currants; 1-2oz. peel; a good pinch of mixed spice; 1 yolk of egg.

Make the filling by melting the butter in a pan, adding the flour and sherry, and then cooking till thick. Cool slightly, and stir in all the other ingredients, with the beaten yolk to bind it all together.

Roll the pastry out thinly, divide into two portions, and spread the filling over one half. Brush the other half over with slightly beaten white of egg, and lay it on top, egg-side down. Brush over with white of egg, dust with sugar, and lay on a wet tin. Mark into fingers, and bake in a hot oven 20-25 minutes. When crisp cut through the fingers, dust with sugar, and serve.

FRIENDSHIP CIRCLE CROCHET BEDSPREAD

DESIGN NO. 682 Miss Aimes receives at least 200 votes for each design before it is accepted for this column. Send us your votes. We print all the popular designs.

Dear Readers: Once more our designer has created something beautiful in response to your letters. This time it is a crocheted medallion which, when joined by smaller medallions makes an heirloom quilt that will bring joy to all who see it. While you would hardly have time to crochet the entire spread before Christmas you could join a few medallions for lovely gift runners and cushions.

The pattern includes all directions for making the medallions and for completing the spread, runner, cushion, curtain ends, towel ends and vanity sets; material requirements and diagrams of stitches.

Every Day Styles

For The Home Sewer

You'll look as slim as well as up to the minute in this youthful buttoned-front cotton dirndl home frock. The "chipped" shirred elastic waist, falls into an all-around gathered skirt. It has such a becoming scalloped neck and brief sleeves that repeat the scalloped edge.

It's such fun to sew! It's so simple! To make the elastic waistline, merely thread the machine bobbin with elastic thread, then stitch in the usual way. The pattern explains everything in detail. There's no reason, why you couldn't use the pattern again in wool jersey, rayon crepe, plaid woolen, etc., for a town dress.

Style No. 2716 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3-4 yards of 39-inch material with 1-2 yards of binding.
