The case against John Bell for theft came up yesterday for the City Police Court and he was further remanded for eight days. The case against Phillip Doyle, charged with being drunk and disorderly was dismissed, and Samuel and James Dovanov on the same charge were fined $5 or 20 days.

The Bonavista reached here this morning after spending one of the stormiest nights she has ever experienced. Mate McCarthy said this morning that it was the roughest night he had ever known, and that it had been marked by conditions the like of which were unique in his experience. Off Cape North the steamer's stern had been carried completely under, and she had been flooded continually from one end to the other by the sea. The Bonavista will not leave here until tomorrow.—Sydney Post.

In an interview with S. A. Macdonald, City, with regard to the contest now running in his store The Guardian was informed that great interest is being taken in it. Nominations are coming each day, votes are being piled up and every person is evincing great interest and curiosity. The rules governing this contest are fully set forth in the firm's ad on another page. All that is necessary to enter this contest is to purchase one dollar's worth of goods and fill out a blank presented by the clerks on such purchases. The contest is a legitimate one. Every purchase of one dollar entitles the buyer to 100 votes which can be placed to the credit of any party desired. Valuable prizes are offered and Mr. Macdonald is to be congratulated on the originality of his contest.
