Joseph Read & Co.

This firm had its origin away back in the early shipbuilding days when Joseph Read and John Lefurgey were partners in shipbuilding and produce exporters.

Gradually as the shipbuilding failed they developed the produce end of the business and this grew to very large proportions. The late Captain Joseph Read was a deep sea captain and travelled all over the globe. This contact with foreign countries helped to develop his oversea trade.

He was the son of Ephraim Read of Read's Corner. He was a Liberal in politics and was attending to his parliamentary duties at Ottawa when he took suddenly ill and died.

His son, Captain John L. Read, Captain of the Car Ferry, was associated with his father in the business some years ago. He still retains an interest in the firm.

In 1909 it was made into an incorporated Company. The firm are large exporters of farm produce. The present manager, Mr. M. L. Bradshaw, who has been with the firm since about 1911, is one of the heads of the Associated Shippers, who do a large export business.

Joseph Read and Co. are importors of coal from Canada, United States and Great Britain.

Commission Merchants To Wholesale Grocers

In the year 1916 Mr. A. C. Rogers and Mr. J. F. Arnett opened an office in the old James A. McNeill building, Water Street, Summerside, and operated as Commission Merchants, representing a number of manufacturing firms in Montreal and Toronto.

Being burned out the time of the fire the office was moved further East on Water Street and later to the building now occupied by Mr. T. L. Compton where the partnership of Rogers & Arnett was formed and carried on as Commission Merchants and Jobbers. Here the business was carried on successfully till the year 1924 when they purchased the large warehouse and showrooms of the late Mr. Thomas Andrew on Summer Street where by co-operation of partners and trade and attention to business the firm developed into a Wholesale Grocery concern.

In the year 1930 on account of ill health Mr. Rogers was obliged to retire from active business and sold out his interest in the firm to Mr. E. W. Manson of Summerside.

In 1932 the partnership was dissolved and a joint Stock Company formed under the firm name of Rogers & Arnett Limited with the following officers:

President: Mr. J. F. Arnett who has been a member of the firm since its inception.

Vice President: Mr. E. W. Manson who for the past five years has been the firm's congenial representative to the trade.

Secretary-Treasurer: Miss Zilpha MacQuarrie who has seen the firm grow almost from its infancy to its present capacity.

These at the present time constitute the firm carrying on the large wholesale grocery business in their commodious and well equipped building on Summer Street, Summerside.

The Legal Profession

Summerside has always had its fair share of lawyers. Judge Kelly was the first resident-lawyer in Summerside, coming to the town shortly after he was called to the Island Bar in 1865. William Howe and his son James W. Howe came shortly after. Henry Wright and MacLeod, and Morson and MacQuarrie were among the earlier barristers; a little later Peter, Ings and Saunders and James E. Wyatt came on the scene. Many of these names are not familiar to the present generation but their business is still being carried on by younger members of the profession; in some instances under the name of the original firms and in other cases older names have dropped out.

The legal fraternity at Summerside can boast many prominent statesmen in days gone by and als at the present time. And many have been given positions of honour on the Bench and in Parliament.

MacFarlane Produce Co.

Quite a young member of the business fraternity of Summerside this firm enjoys the confidence of the farming community. The head of the firm is Lorne MacFarlane, a native of Bedeque, and although quite young has wonderful business ability.

His place of business is in the old Gun and Langlois building, a firm which had been shipping farm produce for many years in Summerside.

The MacFarlane Produce Co. are exporters of farm produce and importors of coal.

The Guardian wishes this new member to the shipping business o Summerside much success.

Users on Increase Proof of It's Worth

Since HOLMAN'S HOME PLAN was originated some years ago, hundreds of customers have recognized how convenient and practical a buying plan it really is. The most of us have to stretch our dollars pretty well—and if there were any large article needed for our home, it used to mean careful saving for some time before we could afford to purchase. Now, however, by using the HOLMAN HOME PLAN we can buy right away. The down payment is small, and the balance, when stretched over ten months, seems remarkably little.

Plans Complete for the Jubilee Celebration

Plans complete for the celebration of the diamond jubilee, Summerside is looking forward to a gala day Monday, Dominion Day, which will mark its 60th year as an incorporated town. Horse racing and baseball will be the major attractions during the day and will culminate in the evening with a meeting of the citizenry at Dominion Park where His Worship Mayor Lidstone along with former mayors on the platform, will deliver an address. President W. E. MacDonald of the Board of Trade will also be a speaker.

Band and pipe music will be provided and street dancing engaged at. Fireworks will add to the general celebration of the Holy-bedecked town.

SUMMERSIDE NEWSPAPERS

It would not do to have a history of Summerside without making some reference to the newspapers, as they have a very important place in the life of any town.

There are four newspapers published at the present time. Two, the Island Farmer and the Pioneer are published by the Pioneer Publishing Company and the other two, the Agriculturist and Journal by the Journal Publishing Company.

These two concerns have grown up with the town and have had many ups and downs but are now well established.

The Journal was the first paper published in Summerside and was started by Joseph Bertram in 1865. Mr. C. W. Strong was associated with him on the paper.

It grew in circulation and influence until 1872.

On the death of Mr. Bertram it was sold to Messrs Graves and MacMurtery, this firm continued until 1875, On the death of Mr. MacMurtery, the late W. A. Brennan then came into partnership with Mr. Graves and in 1880 obtained the sole control of the paper. In 1882 Mr. Brennan established the Agriculturist.

His son, Mr. Arthur Brennan now has charge of the publication of the papers with the very capable assistance of his associated editor J. J. Enman, a former Charlottetown newspaperman. This paper supports the Conservative party.

The Journal has had more than one fire but has never missed a publication. Mr. S. M. Bent was for many years editor of the paper and died at his post in 1904.

The Journal Publishing Co. occupies a very handsome brick building on the corner of Water and Queen streets.

The Pioneer has quite a history and really has its origin in the Progress established in 1866 by Thowas Kirwin. In 1869 it passed into the hands of R. T. Holman and Mr. Henry Lawson and Thomas Gorman were editors.

The Progress was succeeded by the Pioneer. This paper was first published in Alberton on July 4th, 1876 the year of the Centennial Exhibition. John L. MacKinnon was the editor and proprietor.

After publishing the paper for a short time in Montague, Mr. MacKinnon came to Summerside and took up the ground covered by the Progress. This was in 1880. He later sold out to a company known as the Pioneer Publishing Co. This paper supports the Liberal party, and is still carrying on.

Mr. Louis Taylor has been with the paper from his boyhood and some years ago became the manager.

It has had many editors, among the most prominent were B. D. Higgs ,later managing editor of the Guardian, Mr. John Mollison, a resident of Summerside, who is the author of a widely discussed book "What is Man?" D. K. Currie now associate editor of the Guardian and the late John Pond, a native of Surrey, England, who came out from London, on three separate occasions to edit the paper.

The present editor is W. D. MacNeill, for many years associated with the Halifax papers. The Island Farmer was published some time after the Pioneer as an agricultural issue for the farmers of Prince County.

Note—In preparing this Jubilee issue the Guardian correspondent at Summerside has tried to get the facts of Summerside's early history of the town as correctly as possible but as there are not many records it has been a difficult task. We wish to thank the many friends who have assisted in giving valuable information and loaning histories for the same purpose—A. T. Pond.

Pope's Dry Cleaning Plant

Mr. Reginald Pope, one of the leading young men of the town, besides taking care of one of the largest service stations in Summerside operates an up-to-date cleaning plant. This extension to Summerside business was started some six years ago by Reginald Saunders. Last year he sold out to Mr. Pope who has been having marked success since he took over the business. Mr. Pope is very energetic and has an inventive turn of mind. Some years ago he made an aeroplane in his own work shop, every bit of the construction being undertaken by himself. He has flown in this machine a good many miles, crossing to the mainland quite often. Mr. Pope is a full fledged registered pilot.

The Professions

Summerside has always been well represented by the different professions. The Medical profession at Summerside has had men of prominence in her ranks. Many representing their Province in the Council of the Dominion Medical Association.

Among earlier medical men at Summerside were Dr. McKelvie and Dr. Beairsto, Dr. Hedley J. Secord who practiced the medical profession on the Island was educated at Summerside High School.

In more recent years the late Dr. Angus A. MacLellan, the late Dr. M. J. MacLellan and the late Dr. Alexander MacNeill were among some of the outstanding medical men of Summerside. They also took an active part in civic affairs. Dr. Angus A. MacLellan served on the Council Board, was president of the School Board and president of the Board of Trade. Dr. Jardine, who is now in Western Canada, also practiced in Summerside and was Mayor of the town in 1916.

The doctors practicing in Summerside today all take an active interest in the affairs of the community. Dr. C. T. Tanton is chairman of the School Board and President of the Summerside Driving Park. Dr. J. A. MacPhee is President of the Children's Aid Society; Dr. John F. MacNeill represented the 5th District of Prince County for a number of years but this year retired from political life to devote his time entirely to his medical practice.

Dentists practicing in the early days were A. A. MacIntyre of Grand River, who was a farmer and having lost a leg in operating a thrashing machine took up dentistry. He was practicing up to 1887. Dr. Heckbert, St. Eleanors, and Dr. Strickland of Charlottetown had special days in Summerside in very early history.

Dr. Henry Blake, Dr. F. A. Lefurgey and Dr. John E. MacDonald all practiced in Summerside but moved to Western Canada.

Dr. A. W. Leard, the oldest practicing dentist in the town today opened his office in 1899. Dr. J. A. MacMurdo joined him shortly after; but they are now practicing seperately. There are five dentists in Summerside at the present time. They all take an interest in community life. Dr. Allen is considered one of the best shots in the province as is also Dr. Leard, Dr. MacMurdo is chairman of the Badminton Club, and Dr. Clark is also on the Executive. Dr. Noonan is interested in golf and baseball, and many other activities.

Cobb & MacKay

These young business men, whose advertisement appeared yesterday, recently took over the old Waugh business.

Both young men have wide experience as they learned their trade with Brace and MacKay. They enjoy the goodwill of the public and the Guardian wishes them the continued success which has marked their efforts from the start.
