PREDICTS U. S. WILL NEED ALL OF OWN 1950 WHEAT

TOPEKA, Kan., April 18.—Within two decades the United States will need its present volume of wheat production for domestic use, C. Moran predicts.

He bases the forecast in an article entitled "Tomorrow's Agriculture" on the growth of population, in which he sees no decline before 1950.

"Ten years from now," Moran says, "there will be 15,000,000 more people to be fed in the United States, and an additional domestic market for 75,000,000 bushels of wheat by reason of population growth.

"Demands for nearly 1,000,000, extra bales of cotton in addition to an increase in consumption resulting from new uses for cotton will develop. There will be corresponding increases in the total home consumption of meats, fruits, vegetables and other farm commodities."

The increasing demand for farm products will lead to greatly improved methods of production and harvesting, Moran believes.

The DOOM TRAIL by ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH

AUTHOR OF PORTO BELLO GOLD ETC. COPYRIGHT BY BRENTANOS

(Continued) "I am in an impass, gentleman. In London a corrupt ministry is more interested in the spoils of office than in intelligent rule. In New York a powerful coterie of merchants, who have discovered a way by which, they are persuaded, they can all grow rich in a few years, have permitted themselves to become the active tools of an ingenious mind which would purchase the return of the Stuarts at the price of hauling over to French rule the British domain in North America.

My sole reliance today is upon a few personal friends like yourselves—and the political keenness and military energy of the Iroquois.

"What I am about to say is of the utmost importance to Ta-wan-nears and his race. You have heard me admit my importance. You know that the rule of the English is in danger. Will you, Ta-wan-nears, go with my ambassadors, Master Ormerod and Peter Corlaer, to the Ho-yar-na-go-war, the council of the roy-an-ehs, and support them in asking for the intervention of the Long House to smash the Doom Trail and Murray's conspiracy to win control of that fur trade from our hands?"

Ta-wan-nears rose and his right arm went up in the Iroquois salute.

"Ta-wan-nears will do as Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga asks," his deep voice boomed.

Governor Burnet drew a deep breath of relief.

"I thank you, my brother," he said. "You have relieved the load of sorrows I have carried. I ask you, this you understand, not alone as a favor, an act of friendship, but because, as I think, your people will come to believe when they consider it, that the success of Murray's plot will mean the crushing of the Long House by the French. By the way, Couden, where is the Belt of the Covenant Chain?"

The surveyor general drew from a traveling trunk in a corner a band of wampum about three feet long and eight inches wide. Crudely woven into it in different colored beads were the figures of an Indian and a white man with hands joined. The governor examined it curiously.

"This belt was given me by To-do-da-ho," he said, turning to me. "He bade me at any time I required speech with him or desired friendship and assistance, to send it to him as a reminder of his pledge of alliance. I entrust it in your hands, Master Ormerod."

Several hours later when the lights of Albany were gleaming through the night, the governor said good-by to us at a sally-port. He offered no parting advice, indulged in no rounded homilies. That was not his way. He had laid all his cards before us on the table; he had taken us completely into his confidence; he had told us how much depended upon our effort. He was content with that.

We set our feet to the Great Trail and made camp toward morning in the woods beyond Schenectady, deeming it best not to show ourselves in the settlements.

Our journey was uneventful. We rapidly traversed the Mohawk and Oneida countries, and came presently to Ka-na-ta-go-ga, the seat of the council fire of the Great League, where To-do-da-ho dwelt. To-do-da-ho himself was a wrinkled wisp of a man who would have seemed a corpse as he crouched down, burdened with heavy robes, but for the warm brightness of his eyes that glowed from under beetling brows.

He made me welcome in a speech of high-sounding phrases, which Ta-wan-nears translated; and I replied as best I could through the same medium, confining my remarks to expressions of the honor I felt in being so received and the affection in which the roy-an-eh and his people were held by the governor. We smoked the ceremonial pipe as usual, and the council broke up.

The real business was transacted the next day when we three had speech privately with To-do-da-ho, and I gave him the Belt of the Covenant Chain and the message of the governor. He heard me out in silence, and sat for a while smoking, his eyes fixed on vacancy. This was his answer:

"What Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga says by your mouth is so. I have watched with uneasiness the efforts of the French to control the fur trade. So have many of our wise men, but most of our people are busy with their hunting and other affairs, and they do not consider such matters. In this they are much like the white people.

"Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga says that it is to the interest of the people of the Long House to break down the Doom Trail. I agree with him. But Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga is a ruler of men, and he knows it is always difficult to induce a people to take difficult course of action unless the suggestion comes from their midst. My counsel to you is that you continue on along the Great Trail to the country of the Senecas, and give the message of Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga to Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, the Guardian of the Western Door.

"The Frenchman De Veulle has taken away the daughter of Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, and you tell me that he has used her to set up a foul religion amongst the renegade Keepers of the Doom Trail. Murray is equally guilty with De Veulle in this matter. Do-ne-ho-ga-weh has a just cause for vengeance against them."

"Will you support Do-ne-ho-ga-weh in a demand for an expedition against the Doom Trail?" I asked. "I will," he replied.

There was no more to be said, and we resumed our journey that day. We sent messengers on ahead of us, and travelled leisurely, arriving at De-o-nun-ga-a on the sixth day after starting from Ka-na-ta-gowa.

The splendid old Guardian of the Western Door, attended by his counselors and retainers, met us at the village limits and escorted us to the council-house, where there was high feasting and a rendition of the dance which is used to open councils or welcome ambassadors.

Then Ta-wan-nears translated my message from the governor and the advice of To-do-da-ho. "Two things may be done, O roy-an-eh," I concluded. "Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga might take up the hatchet against the French on behalf of Go-weh-go-wa and destroy the new fort at Jagara, or the People of the Long House might descend upon the Keepers of the Trail and destroy La Vierge du Bois and its wickedness. For Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga to take up the hatchet would mean a long war, with much bloodshed, even if his people would obey him. For the People of the Long House to smash the Doom Trail would mean the use of one large war party and at most a few weeks on the warpath. If the Doom Trail is smashed you need not worry over the fort at Jagara, for with Murray gone Ga-en-gwa-ra-ga can soon control his own people, and we will dispose of Joncaire in due time. 'Tis for you to choose."

These positions will pay from $77.50 to $110 per month. "To date 212 temporary employees of the department have been retired and 150 permanent officers whose positions have been abolished. Could Only Walk with Cane

Now light on feet as 40 years ago. Almost immediate relief. Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (Tonic).

"Some years ago, when residing in Birmingham, England," writes Arthur B. Fenn, "I was suffering from a severe attack of sciatica, could only walk by the aid of a cane and every movement caused agonizing pain. A friend asked me 'Why don't you try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I purchased a box and, strictly adhering to the printed instruction, I was greatly benefited. Before long I was able to discard my stick. I became entirely well. Every symptom of sciatica disappeared—and to-day I am as light on my feet as 40 years ago."

Mr. Fenn's testimony is just one of hundreds we might give. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help to build up the blood—to correct the conditions which cause sciatica and rheumatism. The iron and other elements form a tonic which increases the amount of hemoglobin (life-giving element) in the blood. Another way of explaining it is that they "increase the blood count" or multiply the number of red corpuscles in the blood stream.

Measurement of the amount of hemoglobin (life-giving element) in the blood before and after one to two months' use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, shows how greatly this tonic helps in improving a condition of poor blood.

If you suffer from sciatica, rheumatism or anaemia, go today to your drug store for a trial box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario. 50 cents a box. Don't wait another day. This tonic has helped thousands of others, and you owe it to yourself to give it a trial.
