

BOSTON POLICE WORKING HARD

—First—A general denial of Richeson's alleged relations with Avis Linnell.

—Second—An alibi for the fatal Saturday, to be established by Miss Violet Edmonds, his fiancée, or other witnesses.

—Third—If William Hahn, the Newton Centre druggist, cannot be shaken under cross-examination in his story that Richeson purchased, Tuesday, Oct. 10, enough cyanide of potassium to kill ten men, on the plea he wanted the poison to kill a female dog who was whining around his room, because she was soon to have pups, the defence will admit this act and assert the minister desired the drug to kill a dog at his boarding house, which had been annoying him.

It is known that his rooms were searched before the police got there. A bottle will be produced that is similar to the container he sold, and in this bottle will be the exact amount of cyanide Hahn testifies he sold.

Fourth—Evidence that a former sweetheart, who was frequently in Miss Linnell's company at Hyannis early in the summer, was aware of her physical condition, that he had the motive and a better opportunity than Zachar Richeson to do the deed, because because of this lover's Hahn must identify as the same or attempt to identify himself as the person who sold the cyanide.

Headbroken and prostrated by grief and worry at her home on Devon street, Brookline, Miss Edmonds yesterday confided to a friend that she can prove an alibi for her imprisoned lover. Upon her mother and sister has fallen the sad duty of returning the wedding presents that are still arising from distant points, in readiness for the marriage ceremony that was to have been solemnized the last day of October.

Now on the very day he was to have had his bride, heiress to a fortune, to the altar, Richeson must appear in court for a final examination to determine whether he shall be held for the grand jury upon the gravest charges in the penal code.

"It is my theory," said "that Miss Linnell, having been in delicate health for months, became so uneasy Tuesday that she communicated her anxiety to Mr. Richeson. He knew that she was to meet her mother Friday to do some shopping, and was desperately afraid the poor girl would confide her condition to her mother.

"Probably he went to Newton after a conversation with her, but did not have an opportunity to give her the stuff safely until Saturday, a few hours before her death. Of course, when Miss Linnell was given this drug in the guise of medicine, she would take it as soon as possible to relieve her anxiety.

"We tried to obtain information regarding other illegal medicines Miss Linnell may have taken. It is fair to assume that she tried everything before Mr. Richeson became desperate and gave her cyanide of potassium.

"We have the story of Miss Zeigler, who states she has seen Miss Linnell taking a dark colored liquid from a plain, square bottle, in their room, and that she supposed it was for digestive troubles of her friend, but we are unable to get any positive evidence regarding just what Miss Linnell did take previously."

"The police place no credence in the story that it was at Spaulding's Restaurant, on Tremont street, that Miss Linnell and Richeson had their meeting on the fatal Saturday.

FARDY B. CLARK WILLING TO RETURN

(Continued from page 1) vicinity. Clarke had been speculating in cotton through brokers in this city. As this was directly against the rules of the bank, he used the names of other men in his transactions. This was how the first affair came to light when the men achieved bills and statements of speculative transactions of which they knew nothing.

An investigation and the placing of an auditor on his books revealed the shortage. He was at once relieved of his duties, but was not arrested at the time, as it was thought a settlement could be arrived at. In June last he disappeared, and it was given out that he was taking a rest and would return.

Later he eluded those who had him under surveillance and escaped across the line into the United States. The news of his arrest in New York to-night was the next

Another Comet

MONTREAL, Oct. 23—It was stated by several people who make it a hobby to study the heavens, and who keep in touch with matters astronomical, that a large comet was to be seen about five o'clock this morning.

The strange visitor, according to the Rev. Father Holland, was lying low in the southern sky, and it was also said that it looked to be one of the largest seen from this part of the world for a considerable time.

Inquiry at the McGill Observatory today revealed the fact that it is not a part of the duties of that branch of the McGill University to keep in touch with the aspect of the heavens, consequently nothing was known regarding the comet.

It would appear that Montreal is the only large city in the American continent where no record is kept by somebody regarding the movements of the heavenly bodies.

KEITHS WILL BUILD NEW PLAYHOUSE IN ST. JOHN.

ST. JOHN, Oct. 23—The Keiths, lessees of the Nickel Theatre in this city, have decided to proceed at once with the destruction of the buildings on their land, King square. Before this week is finished the corporation's architects will forward plans for the handsome new theatre specifications for which will be tendered upon by contracting builders.

The Nickel management confirms this statement and it is given out that the central management desires to proceed as far as possible with the work before the rigors of winter set in, thus facilitating completion in the early weeks of the spring. It had been thought wise to rent the stables, etc., for a few months during the winter, but this idea has been abandoned.

General Manager F. F. Albee, active chief of the Keith interests, writes to manager Golding here that the nature of the building to be erected here will make it necessary to proceed with the initial stages at once. It is proposed to build a modern fire-proof combination theatre to seat nearly 2,000 people. It will be one of a group being erected at present in the east and opening up much new territory.

ORVILLE WRIGHT HAD NARROW ESCAPE

KILLDEVIL HILL, N. C., Oct. 23—Orville Wright had a narrow escape from serious injury today when his Glider turned over in the air and dashed to the ground. The machine was disabled but no so badly that it cannot be repaired again for flights tomorrow or Wednesday. Today's accident was the second the machine has met with since the present experiments were begun.

Wright had made one short slide in the machine, and was working a second when the glider began to turn turtle slowly. The aviator scrambled nimbly over the machine and it turned with the result that he was on top of it when it dived to earth bottom side up. Wright's injuries consisted of severe laceration of his trousers and a slight shaking up.

To make travel in the air virtually as safe as it is on the earth is known to be the real purpose of the experiments which the Wright brothers are conducting. They are working upon their new mechanism designed to keep an aeroplane on an even keel.

This problem of stability has been the study of aviators the world over. The Wrights began their work on it before 1907. What they have accomplished, if anything, both Orville and Wilbur are keeping in characteristic secrecy.

HEARING IN HAVELOCK BOMB CASE SUSSEX, Oct. 23—The preliminary hearing of the five boys charged with discharging a bomb at the home of Magistrate Fred H. Alward, of Havelock, was continued this morning, after an adjournment of a week, before Police Magistrate, H. W. Folkins here.

The only evidence taken this morning was that of Frank Keith, who was one of the crowd of boys from whom the detective gathered his information with regard to the case. Other witnesses were unable to be present, and an adjournment was made until Tuesday, October 31, to hear their evidence.

ONTARIO WOMAN DENTIST MARRIED ON HER DEATH BED. TILSONBURG, Ont., Oct. 22—The funeral took place yesterday of Sadie O. Holmes, the bride of a few hours of John W. Mahon, barrister, of Cobalt. Her death, following an operation, caused a widespread feeling of sorrow and regret in the town where she had been a prominent and successful dentist.

Mrs. Mahon was born in Ireland and came to London, Ont., with her parents when a child. Mrs. Mahon, then Miss Sadie Holmes, was handsome and upright, and possessed much personal magnetism. Some time after her stepfather died, she grasped the idea of entering the dental profession herself without the long delay of matriculating and taking the regular course in the dental college. She knew definitely what she wanted, and went after it with unusual courage, and a woman, and a good deal of ability, and was successful. She interested a few prominent business men in the town in her case, who advised her, one being a well known lawyer. A petition, which testified to her experience and capabilities as a dentist, requesting the provincial legislature to grant her permission to practice, was signed by many persons and presented to the legislature.

She took the petition to the people she wished to sign it and stood by it closely at the parliament buildings in Toronto until the petition was granted. Some time afterwards she spent a term at the dental college and secured a diploma. After she had secured a permit she started practicing in a small, plainly finished office in the town. Business was good from the first, and it was only a few months until she was able to move into one of the best offices in the town. She furnished the new apartments luxuriously. Her practice kept increasing, and she built a beautiful residence, which was completed about a year ago, in which she and her mother resided. She was a great lover of horses, and a couple of years ago purchased a beautiful high spirited animal, which she used to drive, and which, being hard to manage, caused her injuries which made an operation necessary last May.

She met her husband, Mr. Mahon, in the early days of her fight for a standing in her profession, and they had been affianced some years. When Miss Holmes' health continued to fail, and a second operation was decided upon, Mr. Mahon came to Tilsonburg. The operation took place on Sunday, and on Tuesday it was seen that death was near. It was then the wish of both that the marriage, which had been deferred twice, should take place at once, and the ceremony was performed on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, with the two attending physicians, the mother of the dying girl, a sister, Mrs. Smith, of Detroit, and two nieces, Miss Kate and May Nicholson.

There was not a dry eye in the little group that gathered about the bedside. The words of the ceremony were made as brief as possible, and were pronounced by the Rev. J. J. Brown, B. A., pastor of Avondale Presbyterian church. The closing scene came a few hours later, when death took the wife of a few hours, and closed the career of an exceptionally capable woman, who will be remembered by many throughout the province as the only woman who directly asked for personal concessions at the hands of the Whitney Government and got them.

ADVICES FROM ROCKLAND (Me.), the former home of Mrs. McFarland, are to the effect that George M. Crockett and his wife, the parents of the dead woman, have written a long letter to McFarland outlining their view of the case.

TWO DEAD IN RACE RIOTS. COWETA, Okla., Oct. 22—Ed Suddeth, the negro who today shot and killed City Attorney J. B. Evans, was killed by a mob tonight as he was being lifted in an automobile which was to take him to the jail in Wagoner. He was riddled with bullets. Negroes are arriving from the surrounding country and an outbreak appears inevitable.

Beverly was killed, two other white men were wounded, probably fatally, and two negroes were shot in a battle here today between blacks and whites.

Suddeth, the negro who killed Beverly, was hanged to the railroad water tank, but was cut down before he was dead and lodged in the lock-up.

He was lynched later when an attempt was being made to remove him to safer quarters.

SNOW IN TEXAS. DALLAS, Tex., October 23—Snow, the earliest in the history of that section has fallen over the Penhandle of Texas and Northwestern New Mexico for the past 23 hours. At Amarillo where flowers were blooming and trees were still green, the sight was novel. The remainder of the State is blanketed by a heavy rain with the temperature at midnight registering 50 degrees.

FROM TEXAS. Some Tea and Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State.

From the beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meadows, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small delicate woman, to nurse a homeing, healthy baby 14 months.

"I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fond of it, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and suffering myself.

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee.

"In fact the entire family, from the latest arrival, a 2-year-old who always calls for his 'potie' first thing in the morning, up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum."
