Stevenson, who had slipped from a log into the water, was saved by the accidental and timely arrival of Mr. Leon Douce of North Rustico who jumped from his carriage, drew off his coat and plunged into the water just as she was going down for the last time. Much credit is due Mr. Douce for this noble act, while Hazel is back to school seemingly none the worse of her sudden cold plunge.

The Rt. Rev. E. Abo-Hatab, Archimandrite of the Orthodox Eastern Church, paid a visit to the Orthodox Syrians of Charlottetown, and held services for them in St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday. He celebrated the Holy Eucharist in the Memorial Chapel at 9 a.m., according to the beautiful and impressive ritual of the Greek Church, which includes the use of incense. In the afternoon the Archimandrite administered the sacrament of baptism to two infants. This took place in the church, the first part of the service being intoned at the chancel steps leading to the altar, after which the godparents and other attendants proceeded to the font near the entrance of the church. Here the Archimandrite blessed the water and baptized the infants by immersing them in the font, after which the godparents walked around the font three times while holding lighted candles in their hands. Returning to the altar the baptismal service was concluded. After this the Archimandrite administered the holy chrism (confirmation) to the newly baptized, and then gave them Holy Communion from a vessel in which the sacrament is reserved for that purpose. It is the custom of the Eastern Church to administer the sacraments of baptism, confirmation and first communion at the same time. Incense was used during these ceremonies which were rendered for the most part in the ancient Syrian language, but the scriptural lessons and some of the prayers were in English.

At the evening service in St. Peter's Cathedral, the Archimandrite occupied a seat in the chancel. He wore the robes of an Eastern prelate and the pastoral staff was borne before him by a Syrian acolyte. The Rev. E. M. Malone preached an appropriate sermon, after which the Archimandrite pronounced the blessing.

Mrs. Callaghan, who is still in fairly robust health, has seen many changes in living conditions on P. E. I. Those were the days of log cabins and corduroy roads, no railways, telephones or telegraphs, etc. "Times change and we are changed with them."

One of the saddest accidents in the history of the community occurred yesterday morning when Mr. Gordon Brown, aged 40, one of the most prominent and highly respected farmers of Hunter River, was almost instantly killed. Mr. Brown drives the milk route to North Wiltshire factory and was teaching the cans in Mr. Joseph McPherson's cart in Darlington, when his horse took fright and horses in an adjoining field and bolted, the sudden start throwing Mr. Brown to the ground, his head hitting sharply against a tree, fracturing it. Medical aid was summoned. Dr. Rogerson using every skill available, but the injured man passed away after about half an hour. Mr. Nelson Good was proceeding north in his car and pulled over to the left to pass a car which was itself passing a car parked on the right hand side of the street. The little one was struck on the curb and it seems that when she was struck by the approaching car, she jumped to her feet and at the same time further on to the street. Good pulled back to the right to avoid her but was struck by her. She was struck by both was shown by a car and a large audience that assembled, the Citadel was crowded to the doors. At eight o'clock the bridal party took their place on the platform. After singing, prayer and Scripture reading the Ensign called upon the contracting parties to read and then he read the impressive words of binding marriage articles and early evening. Congratulatory remarks by Major Sabine, Mr. Fred Chandler, Capt. Reynolds, and Ensign Davies were responded to by the bride and groom. Amid a shower of rice and confetti and carrying the hearty time felicitations of a host of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left the Citadel after the service was over.

She is accompanied by an artist friend from New York, Miss A. D. Morse, who is Art Director at Adelphi College, Brooklyn, N. Y. This is Miss Morse's first visit to Canada and needless to say she is delighted with our country climate and hospitality.

Elfreda Arsenault, aged fifteen, was drowned while bathing at Egmont Bay with two companions on Tuesday evening. According to reports, the three bathers had waded out to a sand bar while the tide was still low, and on setting out on the sand bar, they discovered that the water was too deep for wading. The sand bar was also becoming rapidly unsafe. None of the three was a strong swimmer but nevertheless they all started out, though only one, the other girl, who was able to make shore unassisted.

A small girl standing on the shore noticed that the other two were in difficulties and ran for help. A boat soon started to the rescue, but not before Miss Arsenault had disappeared beneath the surface. The body was recovered a short time after the boat.

The deceased is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Arsenault. Mr. Arsenault is a merchant at Abram's Village and some time ago was a resident of Charlottetown.

Mr. McKenna was formerly one of our Islanders. He is now in Detroit owing to the fact that it is sixteen years since Mr. McKenna visited his old home in Emerald Jet, his visit to Detroit where he met his relatives and brothers also several of our Islanders. On account of illness in Danny Brook, N. D., his visit was short but next year if possible he intends motoring to his old home in Emerald Jet.

The total register showed 1120 miles. Tourists must find here all the elements that enter into the joys of a holiday. The most delightful and hospitable and entertaining people, the most reliable security, the safest and most rapid means of transport, the most wholesome food that one could eat, and the choice of attendance at centres of worship of any of the Christian Denominations. We have all the attractions that other centres have and all that they lack.—Y.

THE TURKEY'S REVENGE. — Hank Fothergill's wife decided to take out his income from a mountain still by raising turkeys for Thanksgiving. All went wild until one night Hank carelessly scattered some mash from his still near their pen. The next morning six turkeys lay lifeless before Ma's eyes. The bodies were still warm. Hank had imbibed not wisely but too well. "Mought's well make the best of it," she mused and proceeded to pluck the feathers before they were cold. Just as she finished she was a wild yell from the gate. "The folks is shootin' up a passel 'o' revenoosers up to Catamount Forks."

Without waiting to draw or dress the fowls, Ma shoved them into the spring house and hurried off to see the fun. When she came back she passed Hank in a rather advanced stage of tangledfoot headed for the spring house. A moment later there was a wild scream of fear. "Holy Gee, Ma, the han't is arter me." Hank dashed by headed for the tall timber. Behind him was a

C. N. R. Makes Favorable Increase

(Special to the Guardian) TORONTO, Aug. 25.—Official figures issued here today on the arrival of Sir Henry Thornton show that the Canadian National Railway has made a notable advance in net revenues during the seven months period ending July 31st and that this improvement has been made in the face of decreasing gross receipts. HE NEEDED THE MONEY

A naval officer says that on one occasion during his destroyer's visit to the Philippine Islands the sailors were lounging along the rail, throwing pennies into the water for a crowd of dusky, naked youngsters in the harbor to dive for. It was a lively scene. No sooner was a penny thrown into the water than a native boy dived and brought it to the surface. Many times a penny did not reach the bottom before a boy native mayor, surrounded by his fellow townsmen in full regalia, was awaiting shocking sight. Out of the spring house door filed six totally naked turkeys, in all the injured dignity of Christian martyrs. The turkey had slept off their hooch but it took two hours to find Hank and get him to listen to reason.

THE "WELL FED FAMILY". Have your women's club ever staged a "Nutrition Exhibit"? This is one of the benefits you can confer upon your community, and in fact upon your whole county, for you can invite all the women of the county to attend. One was put on in Stanislaus County, California, recently, in a private home. In the living room, on a hot plate, the cooking of spinach a mild vegetable; and cabbage, a strong vegetable, were demonstrated. On another table was displayed a well packed school lunch, and at another several salads, and a lady made a cooked salad dressing. In the dining room, the day's food for a family of five was shown in the raw state, on the buffet, and served, prepared, on the three tables, one each for breakfast, dinner, and supper. The "Well Fed Family" brought a laugh. They were ingeniously made with pillows, masks and mother, two boys and a girl. Can you think of a more delightful way of insuring that the future citizens of the county shall be sound physically than by showing the housewives the secrets of nutrition?

WORKING GIRL EXPERIENCE. Read How She Found It in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Arnprior, Ontario. "I must admit and tell you my experience with medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so weak that I used to take weak spells and would be at home at least one day a week. I was treated by the doctors and when it didn't seem to do me any good, I was told to take a rest, but I was unable to, and kept on getting weaker. I was troubled mostly with my periods and when it came it would last about two weeks, and I would have such pain in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age, weigh 118 pounds now, and before I took the Vegetable Compound I weighed 100 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle it felt a change. My mother has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the Vegetable Compound to answer letters asking about it. Miss HAZEL BURNETT, Box 700, Arnprior, Ontario. A day out each week shows in the envelope. If you are troubled with weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

STRAIGHT OR FLARING. "It appears that the supremacy of the straightline frock has gradually been broken, and that the flaring lines have gained the day," said a New York importer and designer displaying some of the newest Paris versions of the mode. "but this does not mean that the straight line is not still featured." "The full skirt is excellent for the slender figure and the fluttering ends, floating panels, and all the suggestions of motion and vibration that are the last word, are very effective. But the larger figure needs a different treatment, so fall models must be chosen with discrimination." UNDER-ARM BAGS. The under-arm bag, though less of an envelope and more of a bag than formerly, still keeps the pouch bag from popular favor. There are, of course, a few minor alterations in style, and as a rule there is a handle.
