Rawleigh Customers Notice

Since leaving the Island in Nov. last, I have notified all my customers, whose bills were unpaid, asking them to remit up to the present date. As I am in business here it is difficult for me to leave. This is a final request and opportunity to settle all outstanding bills. Remittances can be made to me, addressed to Smiths Cove Digby Co. N. S., or left with J. H. Gill, Charlottetown. As the cost of a trip to the Island is considerable and the almost impossible task of getting any one to look after my business, I trust you will all promptly attend to this. Shall leave this open until June 30. After which we will be compelled to collect in some other way. This notice also applies to those bills due H. J. Campbell. Yours Sincerely,
 N. T. ROCKWELL,

"SCOTLAND IN SONG AND STORY" was the title of a most interesting and instructive symposium of Scottish song and music given in St. Paul's Hall on Thursday evening to an audience which almost completely filled the hall. Says the Summerside Farmer, Mr. J. H. Malcom of Charlottetown, looked after the lecture part of the entertainment well, and the music had an able interpreter in Prof. Watkins, also of Charlottetown. The programme was all Scottish as was the instrumental music—the kind calculated to fire the enthusiasm and stir the blood of those who heard it. The attention paid the two performers during the evening indicated that Messrs Malcom and Watkins kept their end up well, and the unanimous vote of thanks tendered them when the lecture was over voiced the appreciation of all present. The entertainment was promoted by the Daughters of the Empire and Mayor Campbell made an excellent chairman.

SEED OATS—Just arrived. Write Banner Seed Oats. Order quickly as we have only a limited quantity for sale. A. Horne & Co.

A SURPRISE VISIT—On Tuesday evening last about thirty young people representing the Teachers Training Class and the Tuxis Square of Murray Harbour and White Sands with some others paid a surprise visit to the parsonage. Soon after their arrival Mr. and Mrs. Weeks were requested to come into the parlor when Mr. Cecil Brehaut read an address to them expressing very kindly feelings and high esteem for the way the pastor and his wife had labored among them during the past year. A warm welcome had always been given at the parsonage; the social side of life had not been forgotten and the Sunday School had come in for every possible assistance. Regret was expressed at the necessity of the parson's departure of the parsonage family as the four year term expires at the end of June. The address was accompanied by a purse of gold to each. Miss Edna McKay made the presentation to Mr. Weeks and Miss Ruth Bell to Mrs. Weeks. The evening was most heartily enjoyed up to a late hour.

RECRUITS WANTED 8 P. M.

Census organization is that of the rural districts. For agriculture, moreover, the ordinary population enumerator proves a satisfactory field agent, most of the processes of agriculture being familiar ones and such as an enumerator who lives in an agricultural district can well cover. Hence the decennial census of the Canadian people is a Census of Population and Agriculture, that is, a comprehensive survey of the Canadian people themselves and of their primary industry.

The Census Schedules.

The schedules used in the Census are five in number dealing respectively with (1) Population; (2) Agriculture; (3) Live Stock, fruit growing, etc., in towns; (4) Industrial and Trading concerns, and (5) Blindness and Deaf-Mutism. Merely to state the questions asked on these would be impossible here. The population schedule carries some thirty five columns recording for each person the name, family, kind of dwelling, age, sex, conjugal condition, birthplace, citizenship, racial origin, language, religion, education, occupation, etc., etc., in all necessary detail. The schedule relating to agriculture was drawn up in consultation with Dominion and Provincial Agricultural Departments and other authorities and will elicit a wealth of information on such features as farm acreages, land values, buildings, implements, crops, fertilizers, farm labour, orchards, small fruits, farm gardens, live stock, poultry, animal products, forest products, land tenure, irrigation, drainage, co-operative marketing etc., etc. The schedules on animals, etc. in towns is supplementary to the agricultural sche-derable number of horses, cattle, poultry, bees, etc., within urban limits, and their products, and those of market gardens, town orchards, etc., are in the aggregate important. The schedule on industrial and business concerns collects only the name, address and class of each; this is for the use of the detailed annual inquiry conducted through correspondence by the Bureau as previously described. The record of the blind and of deaf-mutes is to facilitate the work of educational and other institutions for these classes.

In connection with these somewhat elaborate and searching series of inquiries, the following points should be clearly understood: (1) that no question has been inserted merely for the gratification of curiosity or because the information would be interesting but only because it has a bearing on basic social or economic conditions; and (2) that the answers given by the individual are absolutely confidential, every employee of the Census being under oath and penalty against revealing any individual item and the Bureau of Statistics itself being forbidden to issue any statement that would lay bare any personal matter. Though the name of each person is taken down this is not for the purpose of associating the individual with any of the facts that are recorded but merely as a check on the accuracy of the enumeration. The Census is first and last for statistical purposes and cannot be made the basis of any direct administrative action. Let it also be noted that census enumerators are required to use courtesy and tact in collecting the information, though refusal to answer a census question is penalized by statute.

The Coming Census

to describe in detail here. Reference has been made above to industrial statistics (mines, factories, etc.); these are now collected annually by correspondence on a large number of different forms adapted to each particular industry and in co-operation with the different administrative departments, Dominion and Provincial, that are interested in particular sections of the field. Thus an annual census of dairy factories is taken in collaboration with the Provincial Dairy Commissioners, in fisheries the Bureau works with the Dominion and Provincial Fisheries Departments, and so on. Similarly the Bureau now collects the statistics of births, deaths and marriages in co-operation with the Registrars Generals of the several Provinces, and the old mortality schedule of the census of 1911, of the census has been dropped. Also, statistics of education have been largely eliminated from the Census and dependence will in future be placed on concerted action through Provincial Education Departments under a uniform scheme centreing in the Bureau of Statistics. This principle in short has been applied throughout the Census.

On one case, however, a partial exception to this rule is made, namely, the important industry of Agriculture. Approximately fifty per cent of the population of Canada is dependent upon agriculture and the most expensive part of the
