

BIG STORM IN THE PHILIPPINES

MANILA, July 15.—Northern Luzon has been swept by a typhoon. All the wires at Manila are down and the observers believe that the storm was the worst in years. Details on account of the lack of communication have not yet been received. Vessels are unable to enter Manila harbor.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, July 16.—How to be happy though living in Boston or its suburbs is exemplified by a writer in the "Christian Register," a Unitarian weekly. The things one must have, must do and must be are listed below in part: "Eat beans Saturday night and fishballs Sunday morning."

FROM COAST TO COAST

WASHINGTON, July 14.—With nearly 15,000 miles of the transcontinental interstate and trunk line highways, contemplated in various sections of the country, if all the plans were carried out it soon will be possible to drive wagons or automobiles from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. From British Columbia to Mexico and from Canada to Florida. The United States officers of public roads has just prepared a part of the improved roads contemplated or actually under construction, showing a great network covering the whole country.

TO BE POPULAR BE A MAN OF MYSTERY NEW YORK, July 16.—The time of the Summer man is come, and, as usual, he is left quite unworried of the perils and pitfalls that surround him. Columns and pages of counsel are handed to the Summer girl, but her joyous companion—or prey—is left severely to his own devices. The bright, particular "stars" of the Summer man's heaven are the matinee idols. For long he has admired them at a distance, wishing that he might make his light so shine. Now they are doing their best to help him, and the first to speak is Raymond Hitchcock, who says: "The secret of a young man's power with the fair sex may be summed up in one word—mystery. Let him always preserve an air of mystery about him, naturally. Somewhat more strong when entering a new sphere of action, but never entirely put off, even in his most intimate set. The reason why an actor appeals to a girl's imagination is because she doesn't know too much about him and therefore has scope for imagining. A young man often errs by confiding too much." Thus Hitchcock, when asked to give a first aid to the Summer man, he continued eloquently. "If I were a young man on a visit to a new Summer resort I would not see anybody at all for the first day or two. It would even be a good plan to pass the first twenty-four hours in the privacy of one's own apartment. The curiosity of the women will be piqued and they will all be talking, old and young. "The mysterious young stranger will be set down variously as a bank robber, nobleman or popular author, travelling incognito. The young girls will all be sternly warned not to speak to him 'until we know something more about him, my dear.' That means that they will coyly seek the particular shady corner of the piazza he has selected for his own. "Woman is the huntress; man is the marked-down victim. But she isn't going to feel any great interest in too easy and obvious a prey. A little bit of aloofness, of reserve, is needed to rouse her to action. Of course, no man should sail under false colors and declare outright that he is the son of a lord when he's really the son of a lawyer. Then, when he's found out, great will be his fall. But if he simply remains silent about his station in life he will be credited with modesty, proper
