DR. A. W. CHASE SENDING FREE ADVICE TO THE SICK.

REV. J. N. VANATTER, OF ALBION, WIS., WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at liberty to Correspond with the Above Address and will Obtain Full Particulars Regarding the Great Cure.

HERE IS WHAT HE SAYS:

Gentlemen,—My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

Dr. Chase's large-size recipe book, cloth-bound, sent to any address on receipt of 50 cents, by addressing Dr. Chase's Company, Toronto or Buffalo, N. Y.

WILLIAMS' EXECUTION

His Life Taken Friday Morning.

HE MET HIS DEATH

Like a Man and Asserted His Innocence to the Last—Sent to the Gallows on Circumstantial Evidence Alone.

SALEM, Oct. 7.—Alfred C. Williams, the condemned murderer of John Gallo, expired his crime on the gallows in the county jail here this morning. The drop fell at 10.02, and the spark of life left the body just 12 minutes and 31 seconds later.

The cause of death was strangulation, the fall of 6 feet 1 inch failing to break the neck, as had been intended. The execution was all that it should be in every way. The condemned man was not cruelly detained on the gallows before the ordeal, for within two minutes following his appearance the body was in position for the springing of the trap. Williams stated to a reporter during a visit of the latter to the jail on Thursday, he would die like a man, and he kept his word.

Williams slept in spells during the night, and at 6.30 this morning he arose and donned the regulation gray suit of the prison, which, after he was shaved and had breakfasted, was exchanged for one of black.

It was just 10 o'clock when Sheriff Johnson visited Williams in his cell, finding him with arms pinned by the officer, standing upright, in earnest conversation with the Rev. Charles Puffer, the jail chaplain. As the sheriff entered, both the minister and the condemned man knelt by the couch in the cell and recited the "Lord's Prayer." "Amen" was the last word that Williams uttered in this world.

At 10.01 the heavy white curtain on the second tier of cells was lifted, admitting Sheriff Johnson, who was followed by the Rev. Mr. Puffer. Williams came next, his arms strapped securely at his sides, but walking slowly and firmly. He was obliged to lower his head several times in order not to strike the stinging pieces of the chapel floor above him, and, as the little procession, with Deputies Crowley, Bishop, Cobb and Stilings following in the rear, stepped out upon the gallows, the silence was intense. Williams, unassisted, took his place on the trap, and for the first time faced the forty upturned faces that looked pityingly upon him.

With arms strapped tightly at his sides, his face set and pale, he looked more like a frightened schoolboy getting up to speak a piece than a murderer in the eyes of the law. His eyes wandered restlessly about the room, he glanced up at the frightful noose dangling above him, then turned his gaze on his friend and adviser, the Rev. Mr. Puffer.

The resonant voice of the minister broke the stillness, as he recited the prayers for the dying. Then he prayed: "O, God! the creator and redeemer of all mankind, look upon thy child this day and grant him rest, we beseech thee. O, grave, where is thy victory! O, death, where is thy sting!" The rich voice of the minister ceased, yet his lips moved in silent prayer.

Williams took one long, last, lingering glance—like some poor hunted beast—his eyes looked into the depths of the sympathetic ones that, now tear dimmed, rested upon him, as the man of God prayed devoutly.

All the while the deputies had been busy securing the limbs of the condemned man with straps, and as one of the strong bands was being placed about his thighs, Williams for an instant glanced down and noted the manner in which it was done. Then once again his gaze rested on the face of the minister, the large, lustrous eyes saying plainer than words: "Thou art my last friend and true. Farewell."

As he looked, the black cap was drawn over his face, and for an instant he stood silently upright on the trap, the tightened straps and head covering taking away all resemblance to a human being.

The next instant the sheriff's hand sprung the trap, and the body shot down with lightning rapidity. The body hung for forty-eight minutes.

Our Pears Sold Well.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—Prof. Robertson yesterday received a cablegram stating that the last shipment of Canadian pears in cold storage had been sold at five shillings and sixpence per case of about twenty-six pounds. The steamships sailing from Montreal are being fitted up with special ventilation devices designed under Prof. Robertson's direction, with a view to the transportation of Canadian apples in prime condition. The device consists of a ventilator from the main deck, which carries pure dry air into the compartment from which the vitiated air is carried off by means of an electric fan. All the steamship people approve of this plan, and will have their vessels equipped in time for the fall export of apples.

A New Airship.

VIENNA, Oct. 8.—The Wiener Journal says that a company has been formed with a capital of 500,000 florins to exploit Count Zeppelin's airship in one of its first undertakings—to cross the Atlantic. Count Zeppelin is confident that he will be able to make the trip across the Atlantic in four days.

The apparatus consists of a long cylinder, containing a number of balloons, arranged upon the principle of the water-tight compartments of ships. The aerial vessel is steered by paddle-wheels, driven by electricity. It is asserted by the inventor that the experiments of the airship have been perfectly successful and that it is easily capable of travelling eight days without landing.
