MARITIME COLLEGE

Y. M. C. A's Second Day's Sessions.

P. E. ISLAND STUDENTS

Are Represented—Addresses Given—Meetings Held in Dalhousie College.

(Written for THE GUARDIAN.)

The Saturday morning session of the Maritime College Y. M. C. A. Convention was opened by a devotional service led by Rev. J. W. Armitage. The thought of the service was "Nearness to Christ."

The opening paper was read by A. S. Lewis of Acadia, the subject being Evangelistic Efforts. The paper dealt with the obligations resting upon the Y. M. C. A. of doing this work and the methods of doing it. The obligations were four in number.

1. The Christians are disciples of Christ and it is their supreme business to give Christ to all. 2. Outside agencies cannot reach unconverted men in College due to the closeness of College life. 3. Neglecting the work leads to the habit of procrastination. 4. The relation of Evangelistic work to Christian development. The methods were then dealt with and afterwards discussed by the delegates generally. Christ-like lives are essential to successful evangelistic effort. The paper was enjoyed by all present.

Another paper was read by Mr. A. D. Richards, Mount Allison, on the sub-

LINEMAN DUNN.

Of Dundas, Endorses Dodd's Kidney Pills for Rheumatism.

Dundas, Oct. 22.—"Gentlemen—I have been troubled with Rheumatism for a year past, and have used many so-called cures. None of them did me a particle of good, however, until I started on a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since then my sufferings have been brief—as my story is. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely, and you are welcome to make my statement public. William Dunn, Telephone Lineman."

Here is information, more precious than a gold mine to men who follow the same occupation as Mr. Dunn, and who are great sufferers from Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure them as they cured Mr. Dunn.

ject of Personal Work. He raised the question, who are to do this personal work for Christ? His answer was: those whose lives are fully consecrated to the Saviour, and do the work for the Saviour's sake. The second part of his paper dealt with the manner of doing the work. The personal worker must follow the methods of Jesus and depend on the Holy Spirit to fill us with courage to carry on these methods. Jesus has laid upon us the responsibility of doing his personal work. The need of a personal worker's band was laid before the meeting. The paper was spiritual and uplifting in every way. A discussion followed led by Mr. Hicks and the discussion was to establish personal worker's bands in all the Colleges. The afternoon session was opened by a devotional service led by Mr. Dawson Pres. of U. N. B. after which Mr. F. M. Gilbert B. A. spoke on Mission Committee work. The organization of the committee was first touched upon.

The best method is to get one man representing each interest in the College and to add men as new duties come to the committee.

The committee should study the present condition of the College. It should also study the past condition so as to get in line with the work. Each man should have a definite line of work. The leader of the Volunteer Band should be on the committee but not its chairman. The mission committee holds the responsibility of bringing the question of volunteering before each student. Monthly meetings should be held on missionary subjects and special study on mission and missionaries. Mission libraries should be started where none exist at present.

The subject of the student as a citizen, was very ably dealt with in the evening by Dr. D. M. Gordon of Pine Hill. He pointed out the value of breadth in citizenship. Our country possesses valuable resources but the all important factor is freedom. Therefore we are dependent upon our own education.

Good citizenship implies that we seek to unite the best elements of society for the common good. He will seek to advance the interests of the state for the common weal.

The Christian should be concerned about politics. If they are unclear the responsibility of cleaning them devolves upon the Christian. He should understand the constitution of his country and methods of government. The student can enlighten the unlearned and uneducated along these lines. There are two classes of citizens, those who lift and those who lean. Who shall you be? Answer in the light of these invincible arguments.

An excellent discourse was delivered by Mr. Gilbert on the subject of missions. The missionary life will not lead to ease, comfort or fame but the missionary places himself where his presence is most needed. The heathen is ignorant of his need. The individual need is great but the collective need is greater. The heathen have evils which we have. The evangelization of the world in this generation lies before us. See to it that you do your part.

The Rev. R. Opie, chairman of the Charlottetown District, will leave this morning, Wednesday, for St. John N. B. to attend a meeting of the Conference, Missionary Committee, also the Conference Special Committee.

It is feared that Alexander M. McInnis, a brother of the publisher of the Standard was numbered among the 5,000 victims of the Galveston flood. He had been on a visit to his aged parents at Brookfield, P. E. Island, and was returning to Monterey, Mexico where he did an extensive mercantile business. He was at Galveston about the time of the storm and nothing has since been heard of him.—Regina Standard.

The banquet to the returning members of the contingent is the theme of general conversation. The canvassers are busy at work and tickets are selling rapidly. The toast list is causing trepidation in that the ladies will be present to hear what the sponsors of the toast may have to say of them and the responders for them. Excellent songs are promised and it is whispered that the muse is being daily courted that original verses may be in order. Such a program; such a menu; such a scene; my rhapsodies were cut short by one who said "Sir, the best you can offer is all too meagre."

The entertainment ball was set merrily rolling last evening. St. Paul's and the Brick church school-rooms were filled with happy auditors and no less happy performers if one may judge from the applause. The Methodist social was under the auspices of the Coburg Mission Band, of which Miss Jean Moore, is President. Untiring in her efforts to secure a good program she at the same time secured a good house. The program was most enjoyable, the demand for candy outran the supply. "Our next merry meeting" with the Boys' Brigade in Kindergarten Hall, shortly and "Go Save the Queen" brought to a close a very pleasant musical and literary evening.

NEW YORK LETTER

Guardian Representative Listens to Bryan.

THE IMPRESSIONS MADE

The Return of Mark Twain, Who Says He Will Never Leave United States.

Madison Square Garden, the hailwick alike of slugging matches, of Bicycle Tournaments and of Cat Shows, saw a wondrous scene Tuesday night.

A great crowd which no man could number packed the vast amphitheatre to the last inch of footing to hear W. J. Bryan speak for thirty minutes and to discourage several other orators from trying to speak at all.

This is "the enemy's country." Poor Bryan coined that celebrated phrase after the disastrous reception he received in the same Garden four years ago. Thousands came to hear him then as they did Tuesday night, but they came to mock and not remain to pray. Not a bit of it. When it was half through, and had been jeered at and spitefully used, he was deserted by his audience, the Republica having with cunning device of the devil packed the meeting with their followers for a prearranged stampede. And no speaker can survive that experience.

But we grow wise through mortifications. Bryan "came again" last evening, into the same Garden and before the same people, before an audience such as could be gathered nowhere else in the world, forming a splendid scene such as could be grouped nowhere else than in this imperial city. But this time Croker was with him, and Croker had "fixed" the meeting. He was not troubled, therefore, neither afraid. Croker for weeks has anticipated every contingency, perfected every convenience. There was to be no Majuba Hill of '93. Croker "saw" every body and everything, and great is Tammany and Croker is his prophet!

Bryan was a disappointment in Madison Garden Monday night. The crowd which greeted him broke all records, even those of Dewey Day; the fireworks were gorgeous, the "tumult and the shouting" unparalleled; but he himself, the Man with the Message—he was a disappointment. He has changed a good deal in appearance since I heard him in Ottawa four years ago. His voice is more sonorous, his gestures less evangelical, his cheeks fuller and he has had his hair cut. He has more, too, of that indefinable quality of strength which comes of much mixing with men, and more of the ease and insouciance which comes of much speaking. But it is Bryan. His mannerisms have been modified and mellowed but not eradicated, and he seems to cling to his old phrases with a love which says, "until death do us part." His line of thought is just the same as four years ago, but his epigrams are, many of them, new. He turns Biblical parables and expressions to account with an almost Macaulaitan adroitness. But the prearranged impression you gather from him is that of charlatanism—there is lacking in his style and in his matter that mystic note which begets confidence and admiration, and makes converts in an audience. There is a suggestion of insincerity, and though a speaker have power to remove mountains and to raise the dead and have not sincerity he is nothing.

Bryan suffers from the irreparable misfortune of having nothing to talk about. Hence the insincerity. When a man has a grievance he is always sincere. Republican rule, with all its faults, has proved eminently advantageous to the American people, and the Democrats are really without a "cry" or a "platform" which will appeal to the sympathies of the country.

But Bryan's visit to New York will not prove entirely barren. It has proved an electrifying inspiration to the Democratic people here, renewing them in

GREAT WORK

$52,259 Taken by Rev. A. B. Simpson

HE SURPRISED THE

Audience when he Made the Announcement that $170,000 was Given.

A New York despatch of 18th says:—The sum of $52,250.25 was the amount of the annual "Missionary Offering" given through the persuasion of the Rev. A. B. Simpson at the meetings of the Christian and Missionary Alliance yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Simpson, head of the Alliance, pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle in this city, principal of a missionary school at Nyack, and native of P. E. Island, announced that during the summer more than $170,000 had been poured into the coffers of the alliance. Yesterday's collections were the largest that ever rewarded one day's efforts of this prince of money raisers.

"I had hoped for $40,000," said Mr. Simpson. "But the amount that has been contributed is a most extraordinary one."

This large sum was contributed from among the eight hundred persons who gathered at the morning and afternoon service of the alliance convention. These people appeared to be of moderate means, though all in great earnest.

The Rev. Mr. Simpson is required to render no account of what becomes of the money contributed. He disburses all the funds and there is no auditing. Yet all who come under his strange influence seem impelled to add something to his assets.

After the collection was taken there was great activity on the platform for a few moments to count the sum. Then it was announced that the morning's contribution was $32,165. The afternoon offering sent the total up to $52,250.25.

the faith and strengthening the doubtful and the sinning.

It was a funny thing—or rather it was the most natural thing in the world—that not one word did Bryan speak in Madison Square Garden on the great silver issue. Not a word. It is the issue that brought him fame yet he was as dumb as an oyster concerning it. He well knew the unpopularity of this eccentric doctrine, in this great commercial centre, where "free silver" is regarded with equal dislike equally by Democrats and Republicans. Bryan's personality is the only strong factor in the campaign. To come down to real truth, his popularity is due wholly to sentimental reasons. By the vast plebeian classes which swarm the great cities of the Union and who are blissfully ignorant of logic and casuistical theories, Bryan appears a Deliverer, a Savior of the poor and oppressed, the Economic Messiah who is to rescue the masses from grinding toil and insignificant wages.

He is the Prince Charlie, if not the Prince Charming, of contemporary politics, and his boyish personality, his engaging manners, his unaffected dress and his clear blue eye make him the hero of the oppressed poor, who have idealty but not discrimination.

He will come back to New York for a three days' stay in the last week of the campaign.

THE INNOCENT AT HOME.

Mark Twain, who has been an innocent abroad for four years, came back from London in the steamer the other day to his loving friends. He will live in New York during the winter, and then go to Hartford to stay. He told somebody "I am going to break both legs so I can never leave the United States again." He is the old Mark Twain, mellowed by European travel, and the quality of his humor is not strained. He has been flattered since he landed, and has said many witty things. At a brilliant function at the Waldorf last night he made a short address which bubbled over with his peculiar drolleries.

He has had many experiences since he left these shores. Once he was reported dead in London, and a friend in New York cabled in great alarm, asking if the dead news were true. Twain cabled back: "Reports of my death greatly exaggerate it."

He told the army of reporters who braced him when landing that everything he said was always taken as a joke; that when he happened to tell the truth it was taken as a falsehood, and when he told a deliberate falsehood everybody accepted it as truth. He said that on a careful consideration of the matter he did not see why it would not be better for everybody to use falsehood as the world would move
