PRINCE OF AGE.

MASS IN ORANGE LODGE.

MONTREAL, June 21—For a Roman Catholic mass to be celebrated in an Orange lodge in the heart of the province of Quebec is a pretty rare thing, and one which would be calculated to make the average Orangeman of Ontario wonder. But that was exactly what happened some time ago at Waterville, close to Compton. And not only was mass celebrated in the Orange Lodge there once, but for a considerable period, owing to the burning of the Catholic place of worship. It is not recorded that the parish priest ever became a member of the lodge but it is certain that ever since that incident he has had a much more friendly feeling to the Orangemen than he ever before believed possible.

This incident cropped up yesterday, when ex-Mayor William Galbraith, of Westmount, who is also Past Provincial Grand Master of the Orange Order, was walking down St. James street in cordial conversation with Rev. Father Croquette, now parish priest at Megantic. The unusual combination of the Orange official and the soutaned priest attracted a good deal of traction.

The Minister of Railways will, on arrival at the Bay, meet the steamer August, returning to this port during the early days of September. On the second of July Mr. Hazen and some twenty-five men from the same department will leave here for the Bay and by the time their chief arrives these engineers will have already secured data of great value, which will enable them and the Department to decide the proper solution of this much debatable question, viz., the proper terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway.

The Bell of New Orleans, a romance of the early South, was one of the leaders in the motion pictures at the people's Theatre, Charlottetown, last evening. It was entertaining to a high degree. The men and the law was a splendid western story with the usual western settings and of great interest, while The Engagement Ring and A Spanish Dilemma as laugh producers were great, and full of good humor. Miss Bobby Sommers was very good in illustrated song and her renditions were thoroughly appreciated.

Negotiations are said to be in progress looking towards an arrangement by which the present pastors of Fairville, Methodist and Centenary churches, Rev. Dr. Flanders and Rev. G. A. Ross, can obtain their congregational work as before they were transferred by the conference. A member of the official board of Centenary Church said that they had a meeting today, but that matters were just where they stood. They will accept the decision of the Conference, which has acted, according to church law in the matter. It may be that while each pastor will continue the nominal head of the church to which he has been appointed, he will really do the ministerial work in the church of which he is at present laboring.—St. John Globe. (Revs. Flanders and Ross are well known in Charlottetown.)

Her many friends in Charlottetown will be deeply pained to learn of the death of Mrs. John McDonald, formerly of this city, which occurred at her home in Stanley Bridge on June 19th. The deceased who has been ill of pneumonia for only four days, was a good woman possessed to a marked degree with those kind motherly qualities which characterize the true woman and the model wife. She was a faithful member of the Roman Catholic Church and passed a way in full possession of the Sacred Rites of her faith. Besides her sorrowing husband, and one daughter, Eolia, Mrs. G. A. McAulay, Stanley Bridge, formerly of the teaching staff of Queen Square School, she leaves to mourn three sisters and a large circle of friends. The funeral took place on Friday, June 21, to the Indian River church and cemetery, the services at the church being conducted by the Parish Priest, Rev. Mr. Gillis. A large number of friends of the deceased and her family attended the obsequies.

DOCTOR'S SHIFT
Now gets Along Without it.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to eat meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach. Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all the nourishment necessary from the Grape-Nuts and since then I have not had any indigestion and am feeling better and have increased in weight. "Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for all my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach. "I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find. In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into dextrose or grape-sugar, in which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood.

The parts in the wheat and barley which Nature can make use of for rebuilding brain and nerve centres are retained in this remarkable food, and thus the human body is supplied with the powerful strength producers, so easily noticed after one has eaten Grape-Nuts each day for a week or ten days. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

LOBSTER TEST.

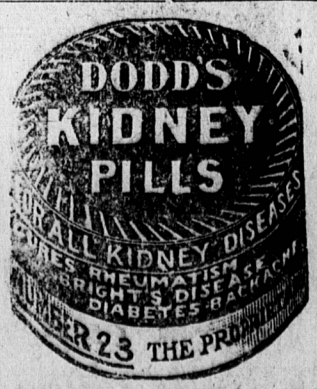

SYDNEY, June 22—Dr. Alexander chief inspector of foodstuffs for Boston, recently gave an exhibition of how to tell whether a lobster was dead or alive before it was boiled, before Judge Bolster in the first session of the Municipal Court. Two lobsters used as evidence were the examples. Dr. Burr picked up the larger of the two lobsters, and said: "That one was boiled alive, and the other one is a doubtful lobster. I am of the opinion, however, that it was dead before being placed in the kettle." Dr. Burr was then asked to explain how he could tell which was which. He picked up the larger one and pulled the tail out straight and let go of it. The tail quickly curled up again. "That one has the right spring in its tail," said Dr. Burr, "and it shows that it has boiled alive."

Taking the second lobster up, he let go, barely curled up and then very slowly. "This lobster has lost the spring in its tail," said Dr. Burr, "and it shows that it was boiled when dead."

The question Chief Justice Bolster will have to decide is whether live lobsters caught in Nova Scotia waters, packed in crates and shipped to Boston by a steamer arriving on Sunday morning, are fit for food if kept in the hold of the vessel or in the shed attached to the wharf until Monday morning.

The police contend that live lobsters caught in Nova Scotia waters and shipped to Boston, if properly packed, can be kept in the hold or on the wharf. The contention of the defence is that unless the lobsters are placed in salt water soon after their arrival, they are unfit for food. Dr. Burr, when called, stated that it was better for the lobster and better for the consumer that the live lobster should be placed in his native elements as soon after the arrival of the vessel as possible. He declared that in his opinion if lobsters were held in the vessel or on the wharf many would be unfit for food in 12 hours.
