"That's a swell umbrella you carry."

"Isn't it?"

"Did you come by it honestly?"

"I haven't quite figured it out. It started to rain the other day and I stepped into a doorway to wait till it stopped. When I saw a young fellow coming along with a nice large umbrella, and I thought if he was going as far as my house I would beg the shelter of his bumberhoot. So I stepped out and asked, 'Where are you going with that umbrella, young fellow?' and he dropped the

TRIBUTE TO A MOTHER.

Children, look in those eyes, listen to that dear voice, notice the feeling if even a single touch is bestowed upon you by that gentle hand! Make much of it while you yet have the most precious of all good gifts, a loving mother. Read the unfathomable love of those eyes, the kind, anxiety of that tone and look, however slight your pain.

In after life you may have friends, fond, dear, kind, but never will you have again the inexpressible love and gentleness lavished upon you which none but a mother bestows.

Often sdo a sigh in my struggles with the hard, uncaring world, for the sweet deep security I felt when of an evening, nestling in her bosom, I listened to some quiet tale suitable to my age, read in her tender and untiring voice.

Never can I forget her sweet glances cast upon me when I appeared asleep; never her kiss of peace at night. Years have passed away since we laid her beside my father in the old churchyard; yet still her voice whispers from the grave, and her eye watches over me as I visit spots long since hallowed to the memory of my mother.—Lord Macaulay.

HUMOR.

Old Lady—"Did I hear 'em say the young man had broken something?" Excited Sportsman—"I should think you did! Why, he's broken his record, and it was only set up last week." Old Lady—"Poor thing! They'll never be able to mend that twice!"

First Crackman—"Bill, yer never hear no one who has a good word for a burglar. They never takes into consideration that we're obliged to be out in all kinds of weather, and that most o' our work 'as to be done while lazy folks is sound asleep in their beds."

"Oh, doctor," exclaimed the nervous young wife as the eminent surgeon entered the sick room, "if an operation is necessary, we want you to operate immediately. Expense is no object at all." "We will operate at once," replied the eminent surgeon, without even glancing at the patient.

She (who has offered to hear little Jones's part in the coming theatricals)—"Now, what's your cue, Mr. Jones?" Jones (puzzled)—"My cue?" She—"Yes; what they say just before you come on, you know?" Jones—"Oh, I see! They always say, 'Come on, you silly goat, can't you?'"

Mother—"Well, did you get that situation as office boy?" Son—"No." "What was the matter?" "Don't know. The gent. is a lawyer, and he asked me if I was a good whistler, and I told him I was the best whistler in our street, and he said I wouldn't do. He must want a regular professional."

Irate Parent—"There's no use talking, young man; my daughter can never be yours." Young Man—"Of course she can't be my daughter; but she's going to be my wife, just the same, and the sooner you get the idea out of your head that she isn't, the sooner you'll have room under your lid for some other idea. Now, then, sparkle up!"

A young Englishman at a party mostly composed of Scotmen made several attempts to crack a joke, and, failing to evoke a smile from his companions, he became angry, and exclaimed:—"Why, it would take a gimlet to put a joke into the heads of you Scotsmen!" One of them replied—"Aye, but the gimlet would need 'ae be mair pointed than thae jokes."

"Yes," said the visitor from Pumplinville, "you have some pretty tall

Biliousness—is certainly one of the most disagreeable ailments which flesh is heir to. Coated tongue—bitter taste in the mouth—nausea—dizziness—these combine to make life a burden. The cause is a disordered liver—the cure Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. They go straight to the root of the trouble, put the liver right, cleanse the stomach and bowels, clear the tongue and take away the bitter taste from the mouth. structures here, but our town erected a building with more than a thousand stories last summer, and—"A building of more than a thousand stories!" echoed his friend, "what brand do you smoke?" "It's a fact," rejoined the Pumplinville native. "I was referring to our new library."

"Pa," said little Willie, "What is a pessimist?" "A pessimist, my son," said Mr. Knowall, "is a man who, because he cannot make both ends meet thinks that the whole world is going to the dogs." "And what is an optimist, pa?" queried the lad. "Why, he's the chap," said Mr. Knowall, "who thinks that, because he has a comfortable income, everything in life is for the best."

TAKEN UNAWARES.

Jones and Smith met in the street the other day and got talking. "I was on top of a tram yesterday," said Jones, "puffing quietly at my cigar, when suddenly a lady sitting near me snatched it from my mouth and threw it away."

"Well, what did you do?" inquired Smith. "I was rather taken aback, but in a minute I grasped the poodle she was carrying in her lap and dropped it overboard."

"You've no right to have eggs on a tramcar," I said; "it's not allowed."

"She glared, and then we both looked over into the road, and there was the poodle running along by the side of the tram; and what do you think it had in its mouth?"

A PASSING EVENT.

In rural New England the passing of a railway train is still a matter of public interest, quite astonishing to visitors from the city. Last summer three ladies from Boston hired an abandoned farmhouse in northern New England, in a region devoted to dairying. On warm August day they walked through the rocky pastures to a farmhouse three miles distant, in quest of a two weeks' supply of butter.

On learning that they had come through the fields, the farmer's wife explained, "Why, you can't go back that way alone! Our bull's out there in the back lot, and only day 'fore yis'day he treed my son-in-law for two hours. I'll have him go home with you."

With some misgivings on the part of the women, the little procession started back under the guidance of the young man, the ladies carrying the butter. All went well till they had gone about a quarter of a mile, when the escort suddenly called, excitedly, "Come on!" and started on a run toward higher ground.

Thinking that they understood the occasion of his activity, they needed no urging to follow him. On and on they sped, throwing away their butter as an impediment to their speed. Finally, bathed in perspiration and gasping for breath, they sank exhausted on a rock ledge whither their guide had led them. Standing just above, he waved his arm in a dramatic gesture toward the valley below, where a freight train could be seen crawling slowly out from between a cleft in the hills, and shouted, "There she goes—the milk-train!"

NO RISK.

The tramp sat, serene and dirty, on the back door step eating the breakfast for which he had asked, and the servant stood looking at him curiously.

Presently the knight of the road observed the attention she was paying him. "Wooter yer lookin' at me for?" he asked in idle curiosity. "Think I'm a long-lost cousin?"

"No," replied the maid, coolly, "but I must say you remind me of a man I used to know." "Sweetheart?" asked the man coyly. "None of your business!" was the maid's retort. "But something happened to him which will never happen to you."

"What's that? Died a millionaire, did he?"

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

NO LONGER ANY NEED TO BE PALE WEAK OR ANAEMIC

By following the advice of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes but doesn't sleep soundly. Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Halliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awakened in the morning feeling quite refreshed."

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head. 'Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them.'"

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00 by mail from The Catarrhoxone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.
