The Proud Tragedy.

Investigation Concluded Before Stipendiary Haszard.

MORE WITNESSES EXAMINED.

Prisoners Remanded for Trial at the Supreme Court.

Samuel Morrison (sworn).—I saw the fight last Monday. It was taking place on the street, in front of Geo. Thorne's house. When I came along first I saw Wm. Proud, Peter Proud, Gorge Rodd and James Carr driving in a wagon. They stopped opposite Thorne's, and Wm. Proud and Carr got out and went as if to Carr's house. I saw Rodd and Peter Proud sparring in the wagon just off the sidewalk. John Trainor and John Hughes came out of Thorne's house, and were going for a drive. They were going to take Proud's horse. They got into the carriage and Proud said, "Hold on and I'll go with you." They then drove about 50 yards down the road and then turned back again. Proud was driving coming back. They stopped in front of Thorne's again. They got out of the carriage without any words. George Rodd had a whip in his hand and was standing by the waggon. Then Geo. Thorne took it out of Rodd's hand and put it in its socket. He told the boys to go away from the waggon and told Peter Proud to drive on. Proud and Trainor had some words when Trainor was getting out of the waggon. Trainor then stood back from the waggon. Peter Proud saw his brother William coming along and he jumped out to fight Trainor. They began to fight. Thorne and Hughes were standing around but took no part until Wm. Proud went to run in at Trainor to help his brother. Then Geo. Thorne hit Wm. about the neck or the jaw. The blow seemed to have no effect, for Wm. Proud turned around and ran away. Peter Proud then get into his waggon. Some fellow was hitting William in the gutter. It was Geo. Thorne. He hit him twice in the neck and made two kicks at him. Then Wm. got into his waggon. Before he got into the waggon the carriage went over him. George Rodd got in too. They drove down towards Carr's. They came back again. When they came back George Thorne was standing at his own house. Wm Proud got out of the waggon and went towards Thorne. He drew to hit Thorne and wanted to know who hit him. John Trainor and Peter Proud at this time were into a fight in the gangway and while they were fighting Wm Proud was out in front of the house with his back against the house. He was pretty drunk. Four or five were around him all trying to get a crack at him. Two of them were Thorne and Edward Hughes. He walked over towards the waggon and when half way in he fell on the seat. His eye was swollen up and his mouth all bleeding. He never uttered a word and his head soon dropped. No one struck him from the time he left the house and got into the waggon

John Proud (sworn.) I am a first cousin of the deceased. I was in town the day my cousin was killed. I saw the last of the fight. When going home I saw a crowd assembled right opposite Thorne's. When I got there the deceased was laid in the waggon to all appearances dead. I did not see any of the striking. At this time John Trainor and Peter Proud were fighting on the street. Peter was going to assist his brother who was in the waggon when Trainor went up and hit him on the mouth. I then went up and interfered. Then George Thorne, Edward Hughes, and John Hughes came along and took Trainor away.

Dr. Harry Johnston (sworn.) I made an examination of the body and found that the face was somewhat bruised and there was a cut on the nose which had been bleeding. On his lower lip there was a cut. There was a small bruise on the right side of his neck. The front of his neck was very prominent. It was either swollen or displaced forward. There were no marks or bruises on his arms or body. On performing the post mortem we found that the different organs of the body were in a normal condition. We found a fracture of the larynx or windpipe in the second ring. The right heart was full of blood and the left side was empty. The lungs were somewhat collapsed. The brain was rather more full of blood than one would expect. Taking the fracture of the windpipe and the condition of the other organs, it would conclusively prove that the cause of death was a blow dealt in the vicinity of the windpipe. The simple fracture of the windpipe in the condition in which we found it might cause death. That, taken together with the severity of a blow that would cause that fracture might cause death without the fracture, as there are very important nerves coming from the brain leading to the heart, and passing in close proximity to the windpipe, which if injured would cause death by arresting the action of the heart. The two together, in my opinion, caused the death. The only sign of any trouble in his lungs was a small pleuritic adhesion on the right side of his lung, which indicated that he had pleurisy at some time. There was no appearance of his having died from hemorrhage of the lungs.

The Atty.-General then addressed His Honor and said that he thought there was sufficient evidence to send the prisoners up to Supreme court upon the charge for which they were arrested. The four prisoners were then addressed by His Honor, and asked if they wished to have the depositions read over to them again, to which they each answered "No." The charge was then read against the prisoners, and each was asked to testify on behalf of himself, each one made the same reply "Not Guilty."

The prisoners, namely, Geo. Thorne, John Trainor, Edward Hughes and John Hughes, were remanded for trial at the Supreme Court.

Is Held on Charge of Fraud.

Lubec, Me., Aug 6.—The first arrest in connection with the Jernegan case was made yesterday, when William Arrington, the chemist of the Electrolytic Mining Salts company, was taken into custody, charged with being implicated in fraud. He was arraigned before a trial justice and held in $25,000 for his appearance in the Supreme Court in October.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The police have thus far received no instructions relative to the arrest of the Rev. P. F. Jernegan of the Electroytic Marine Salts company of Boston, Mass., who is wanted in that city on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. The Rev. Mr Jernegan arrived at Havre on Monday on board the French line steamer Navarre and mysteriously disappeared from the train on which he started for this city.

MAGNITE

WEATHERPROOF COLD WATER PAINT

For Exterior and Interior Painting.

A powder that mixes readily with cold water.

Can be applied by any one to any kind of surface, whether the material be wood, brick, or stone.

It does not rub on second coating and is FIRE and WATER resisting.

Will stand rain and weather exposure.

Has nearly all the advantages of oil paint at a fraction of the cost.

Will last for years and is unaffected by gases and is an excellent disinfectant

It is particularly valuable for use as the first coat on exterior of buildings and then regular oil paint applied for the second coat, the result is equal to two coats of oil paint, while a large saving in cost is effected.

The white is the whitest paint made, is extremely reflective and consequently will greatly increase the light where ever used, and is therefore recommended for mill and mercantile interiors, light shafts and courtyards large buildings, rear walls of brick blocks, railroad and steamship sheds buildings

It is the best fireproof paint made and the Boston Board of Underwriters make an allowance on insurance rates where it is used. The Boston Manufacturers Mutual Fire Insurance Co. also highly recommend it.

Will not rub, scale, or discolor, nor soften with age or moisture. One coat covers nearly as much as two coats of oil paint.

Is it economical to use so called Water Paints which are really only Kalsomine, or, Whitewash, when MAGNITE can be put on at the same cost for labor and only a trifling added cost for the paint itself.
