ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION — On the evening of May 8th the young people of Newport gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome MacDonald to honor their son, Gunner Michael J. MacDonald on his departure for Military Camp in Petawawa. A very fitting address was read by Mr. MacDonald and Gunner presented a beautiful case of religious articles by Mr. Joseph Sloane. The guests were then ushered to the dining room where a delicious supper awaited them. A centre-piece was a decorated birthday cake, it being Michael's birthday. After supper a social evening was spent in music and song and the guests departed showering Michael with good wishes for his future life.

COMES TO P. E. I. — Rev. W. E. Carpenter, Ludlow, N. B., spent the week-end in St. John's, guest of former friends, enroute to Murray River, Prince Edward Island, where he will be engaged as supply pastor for the Baptist Church, during the absence of the regular pastor. He was pastor at Murray River twenty-four years ago and his many friends will be pleased to welcome him in their midst again. Rev. Mr. Carpenter is the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Carpenter, of Upper Sackville, and was born in Gladeside, Kent County, N. B. Forty years in the ministry of the Baptist Church since he was ordained, Mr. Carpenter has been doing successful work during the past three years. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary next year. Mr. Carpenter has been a faithful worker in the Maritimes for the long and successful period of her husband's ministry, and with her husband is held in high regard throughout the Maritimes. Mr. Carpenter's mother had three brothers in the ministry, Rev. Joseph Blakeny, and Rev. Judson Blakeny. James Blakeny was Rev. Carpenter's second son. Rev. Harold Carpenter, is now stationed at Moccio, N. B. — Sackville Tribune.

PLEASANT FUNCTION — Mrs. H. M. Buntain, who will leave next week for Tyne Valley, P. E. I., to spend some time there with her son, Rev. Herbert Buntain, was most pleasantly surprised Thursday evening by several of her neighbors who presented her with a beautiful silk house coat. Mrs. Dan Ives at whose home on Maple Avenue the enjoyable affair was held, got Mrs. Buntain over on her while she keeping house for the time. Good neighbor that she is, she lost no time in getting there and walked right in to find the keen sense of humor and she joined heartily in the laugh on herself after being momentarily struck dumb by surprise. Music was a feature of the nice social time. Miss Jessie MacKay was at the piano and all took part in the singing. The event of the evening was the presentation of the gift. Mrs. Ives read the very nice address that accompanied it and her small daughter, Hilda, handed Mrs. Buntain the housecoat. It was with deep feeling that Mrs. Buntain voiced her appreciation and thanks. Mrs. Buntain was also the happy recipient of a box of nice handkerchiefs from individual friends. Later delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Terry McMullen presided over the cups. The table was prettily done with lovely lace cloth and beautiful silver and china. — New Glasgow News.

CHAPTER XVI MR. BECKER REAPPEARS Major Salter made his way slowly along the waterfront, staring at the sight of him and walking stiffly and self-consciously. Since midday, the little town had become crowded with labourers from the construction camp—men of all colours, from the black of the full-blooded negro to the sallow yellow of the native Cuban—and dressed in every imaginable variety of costume, with only their rope-soled alpargatas

Tryon And Vicinity

Many friends will be sorry to learn of the passing of Mr. Thomas Dawson at the P. E. Island Hospital on June 14th at the age of 83 years. Mr. Dawson, who was one of North Tryon's most highly esteemed citizens had been quite seriously ill in the Hospital for some time and finally succumbed to a malady suffering borne with Christian fortitude. Mr. Dawson was a veteran of the Great War and served overseas with the 106th Battalion. The funeral service which was held on June 16th was largely attended. A short service was held at the home, after which the funeral cortege wended its way to the Presbyterian Church, North Tryon, where the funeral service was held. Both services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Verwolf of Summerside. At the close of the service interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery adjoining. He was mourned by his loss a sorrowing widow, also four daughters and six sons: —Thelma, of Boston, Mass.; Rita (Mrs. Arthur Sherren of Crapaud); Della (Mrs. Edward Trowsdale); Muriel at home; Blaine, George; Alex. and Sydney of North Tryon, Tommy with the P. E. I. Highlanders in Aldershot; Freddy in Dartmouth; the community is extended in their great bereavement. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Crilly Lea, Russell Thompson, Erle Boulter, Augustus Wadell, Frank Dawson and Max Lefuray.

Miss Winnie Smith of Tryon has returned home from the United Church Conference held in Sackville, N. B., accompanied by Miss Elma Inman formerly of Augustin Cove who has been in Toronto for some time doing Mission work. Miss Inman will spend some time with her friend, Miss Smith before leaving for Trinidad, where she will serve in the Mission field there.

Rev. J. L. and Mrs. Lund of La Hare, N. B., are spending their holidays with their daughters, Mrs. Gerald Best of Tryon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lyman of Tryon have moved to Victoria for the summer months. We are glad to know that Mrs. Lyman who has been in poor health for some time past is improving, and we hope by the time falls rolls round she will have regained in full her usual good health.

Miss Ruth Robinson of Moncton, N. B., has been spending a few days at her home in Augustin Cove. Everyone is glad to welcome her back.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hennessey and son Raymond of Charlottetown were Sunday visitors to Tryon.

Miss Dorothy Knight of Boston, Mass., has arrived to spend the summer months with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos MacWilliams of North Tryon. Miss Knight who has many friends here is being warmly welcomed. — T.

He was passing the last few houses in the village, when the sound of a familiar voice fell upon his ears. "Good afternoon, Major," he heard, and glancing round, he saw the comfortably plump form of Mr. Julian Yale Becker bearing down upon him.

His face lit up with relief, and he returned the other's greeting with a cordiality which would have surprised himself in other circumstances. "Pon my soul, I'm very glad to see you here!" he exclaimed. "I had expected you to turn up so soon as this. I thought you were not coming till tomorrow."

"Yassuh, the man responded readily. 'Dar was anudder time de Cap'n go Antilla—befo' he take his vacation to de oil country—wen take de sailin' cay. All dese yer san' cays looks de same to me.' 'Oh, they do, do they?' Father Maloney said, and his disappointment was obvious. 'Then you don't think you could take the Major there again?' 'Sho' we could!' Gladstone asserted unexpectedly. 'Ah guess we take the Major anyhow. Ain't dat so Zach?' 'Yes, but wait a minute!' Father Maloney said quickly, as the Major gave vent to an exclamation. 'Could you go there by yourselves?' 'No, guh, the raiser of false hopes confessed. 'Ah guess we dunno whoa we's gwine to de dar ain't no gentleman to come long wid us. An' dey's a mighty lot of dese yer san' cays in dem parts.' 'That's what I thought,' Father Maloney said regretfully, turning round to the others. 'These fellows can handle the boat, but the's all. I'm afraid y'all get nothing in the way of real information out of 'em.' 'So it would seem?' the Major commented bitterly. 'But what about this other man? He hasn't even opened his mouth yet.' And he indicated the saturnine Zach, who had never ceased eyeing him all this while. 'No, Ah ain't—Ah don't aim to,' the object of his inquiry remarked unexpectedly. 'Wen Ah gits to shootin' off ma mouf, hit's gwine to rain dollars an' cents. And with that ambiguous statement he turned on his bare heel and began to shuffle towards the door.

His companion apparently took this as a sign that the interview was over, and with another wide grin all round and a further knocking of his forehead, followed in his wake. 'Well, that's Tobie remarkin' as the door closed behind them. 'We seem to have drawn a complete blank there. Now what's the next move?' 'There's no next move,' the Major told him sourly. 'We're not likely to get anywhere at all under present conditions. The only thing left to do at the moment, is to go and have a look at this wretched little sugar estate. At least, that's what I'm going to do.'
