"Smell anything, grandmother?" asked the youngster, who was lying on the floor drawing. Grandmother assured him she did not. The young artist gave a few finishing touches, and repeated his question.
Grandmother sniffed the air and again declared she smelled nothing. "Well," said the boy, "you ought to. I have just drawn a skunk."

STRAWBERRY MARKET—As all householders are interested in the strawberry market, the Guardian has taken pains to try and ascertain the market position at the present time. On account of the warm weather berries came into the city in large quantities during last week and dropped in price to two for twenty cents. It is understood that some of the larger retail dealers sustained quite heavy losses. From present indications it looks as though the crop this year will be very short. It was expected that it would be much larger than usual but the absence of rain has had a detrimental effect and unless a few bright days occur and the usual supply of this delicious fruit this year. It rain should come quickly it will relieve the situation otherwise the market will be absolutely short. The quality now offering is much better than later on in the season.

'THY NAME IS WOMAN'
The Most Dramatic-ly, Exciting Picture of the Year Now Showing at the Prince Edward.

"Thy Name is Woman" is the dramatic comet of the year. This new Fred Niblo production for Metro opened last night at the Prince Edward Theatre and had the audience almost gasping for breath at the fire of its love scenes and the power of its climaxes. The acting and atmosphere were so vivid that every spectator must have felt as if he were being brushed by the comet's blazing trail.
The credit for this accomplishment appears to rest solely on the shoulders of Mr. Niblo and his cast of players. The latter includes such favorites as Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, William V. Mong, Edith Roberts, Robert Egan, Wallace MacDonald and Claude Rains. That cast is one of the strongest of the season. Certainly it is that no other combination has succeeded in getting over any better the illusion of reality.
The story, of course, has a lot to do with it. It concerns the eternal conflict of men over a beautiful woman. An old smuggler in the Spanish Pyrenees has a young wife who is sought by several other men. A young soldier is sent from the garrison to make love to her and thus learn enough about the smuggler to effect his capture. The soldier and wife fall in love and the smuggler is shot. With this as a starting point, the picture works up to great dramatic climaxes, with the final solution coming only after a tragedy.
The usual chance for rich, war-time atmosphere with the background of life in the Pyrenees has been fully taken advantage of by Mr. Niblo. His exterior "shots" are of rare beauty, and the interior sets, especially that of the smuggler's cabin, are vivid and filled with interesting detail. In this he had the help of Victor Milner, the cameraman; Ben Carre, the art director; and Pablo Aguilar, a native of Spain, who advised in matters of research.
"Thy Name is Woman" is a Fred Niblo production, presented by Louis B. Mayer through Metro. The credit for the unusually high adaptation and continuity goes to Bess Meredith, who did the same duty for Niblo "Strangers of the Night". The film is a picturization of Karl Schoenher's play, which translated by Benjamin Glazer was played successfully on Broadway last season by Mary Nash and Jose Rubens. This masterly drama will be shown again today for the last time.

C. N. R. trains. Conductors freely inform ticket-holders when and where they must change trains to reach their destination. Trainers voluntarily assist women in the removal of their baggage.
The passenger on the C. N. R. has no longer to question for information or beg for assistance. Courtesy and helpfulness prevail "all along the line." It is stated that greater promptitude and satisfaction are equally noticeable in respect to the carriage of freight. It is pointed out that although auto traffic tends to lessen both passenger and freight receipts—the C. N. R. trains generally are long and well filled and that the railway statistics published show results that are reassuring, even though the times are trying.

The betterment of the cars on the Cape Tormentine Sackville branch is a pleasing result of the efforts of the Board of Trade, and of the fact that the officials of the railway in Montreal and Moncton are at last awake to the value of the traffic afforded by the Island Province. It is now seen and known that the Island branch is a much more profitable feeder of the main line than the returns have indicated. A few days ago the Minister of Railways admitted that the railway traffic of the Maritime Provinces as a whole, is much more advanced to the C. N. R., than the returns show.
Hansard reports him to have said, in the House of Commons, that "if the traffic on the system which the Maritime Provinces feed and from which they are fed were all credited to the Atlantic region, the ratio would be much better than 123. Therefore, in order to be fair, we would have to go beyond that, and it is not fair to say that the traffic which goes through eastern Quebec and the Maritime Provinces costs $123 to earn $100, because that is not true. The traffic that comes from Halifax, St. John and Sydney to Montreal helps to better the Central region, and a better showing and so does the traffic that the Atlantic region takes to those places. That, if credited to the point where it originates, say Montreal, if the Atlantic region were extended to that point, would make a much better showing for the Atlantic region than exists today."
A like unfair showing is made in respect to the railway traffic. As the accounts are kept, traffic to and from this Province helps to make the showing better for the Government. As in points on the mainland while Prince Edward Island receives small private companies, so in this publically owned railway company there is now an expert and efficient railway man who is general manager and under him there are trained managers and superintendents who are responsible for the conduct of the Company's business and affairs. It is, incidentally, it was remarked a short time ago, by one who knows, that "about 60,000 persons were carried across the Strait last year," and there can be doubt that provinces and goods in like proportion were carried to and from the railway and Car Ferry. Nor can there be any doubt that instead of being held up in the House of Commons as a heavy loser in respect to the way, Prince Edward Island is a source of profit to the C. N. R. It is to be hoped, therefore, there will be greater readiness on the part of railway officials to make the improvements and apply the accommodation required by the Central region in order to contribute still more to the company's traffic and its. It is to be hoped that the gauge of the railway, on the whole, will, as soon as possible, be extended throughout and that road-bed will be so repaired and maintained, that accidents, the spread of rails, etc., will again occur. To be economical "all right"; but to leave any of the railway to be operated on narrow gauge, necessitating transfer of freight at heavy cost of let sleepers lie in the ground they are rotten and wrecks and life is endangered and property destroyed, and expensive repairs have to be made. It is all wrong. While true economy should be practiced in every part of our railway system, it is not fair to say that the railway service should be so operated that the confidence and respect of the public will be secured while the railway managers should have a free hand, the province of the government, should teach all such projects as the part of the public will be seen to be of the utmost railway concern throughout the whole country.

Our Railways Their Importance
(W. L. COTTON)
It is a fact to be noted and remembered that one of the very big and most important interests of Canada lies in its railways. For the C. P. R. the people of Canada paid a large amount of money and gave much territory. For the C.N.R. the people of Canada incurred a heavy debt as the result of operations by financial and political manipulators. Both these railways are great enterprises, valuable to the nation; for next to enterprise and industry, means of cheap and rapid inter-communication are essential to the development of the country.
