Compulsory Military Training

(British United Press) SYDNEY, New South Wales, Dec. 17.—Compulsory military training, which has been in force in Australia for many years, has been suspended by the new Labour Ministry. The Prime Minister, James Henry Scullin, said that this decision was in fulfillment of the Labour Party's pledge to the people. Ministers felt confident that a general review of the position, in consultation with Defence officials, would result in the adoption of a more effective and more economical system.

When steps were taken in Sydney to abandon the customary parades, many trainees refused to disband and continued their training despite the official proclamation. The 14th battery, Australian Garrison Artillery, had commenced drill when the commander informed the young men that the compulsory clause had been suspended, and that any trainee who desired to leave was at liberty to do so. There were 77 trainees present and every man stayed on parade. Trainees in many other units insisted in continuing their drill.

Sir William Glasgow, who was Minister for Defence in the Bruce Government, referring to the new Labour Government's decision, said that abolition of the system of training would mean that the present organization would have to be abandoned. It would not be possible to obtain the necessary men to provide the nucleus of the various units. No other system he said, would prove as efficient economical or democratic.

MRS ELIZA McDONALD

The community of Glencoe, Vernon River, was saddened on Monday, Oct. 28, by the passing from this world of Mrs. Eliza McDonald.

Although she had reached the advanced age of eighty-eight years, she was bright and active and retained the use of all her faculties. She enjoyed good health and was up and about her usual duties on Monday. Towards evening she complained of not feeling well and in less than an hour she passed peacefully away.

Although the call came suddenly, it did not find her unprepared, for her life was one of long service to her Master and devotion to her family and friends. She won the love and esteem of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance by her kindness and hospitality.

Her funeral was held on Wednesday at St. Joachim's Church, Vernon River, where Mass of Requiem was chanted by her pastor, Rev. P. D. McGuigan, who also performed the services at the church and grave, assisted by Rev. W. V. McDonald, Hope River, and Rev. J. C. McDonald, St. Georges.

The pall bearers were Mr. Shaw McMillan, ex-M. L. A.; Mr. B. J. McDonald, Orwell; Mr. James Wilson, Mr. William Grady, Mr. Frank Lee and Mr. Benedict McDonald.

The following Mass Cards were received:—

The Family, William McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. David McDonald, Mrs. Mary McDonald and Marie, Blooming Point; Miss Nellie McDonald, Blooming Point; Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Boston; Mr. Bernard McDonald, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McDonald, Boston; Mr. John R. Christmas morning What a joy to find a Waterman's

A small package, but what a big thrill it brings to young and old... a new Waterman's! And who wouldn't be glad... who wouldn't have a Merry Christmas with a gift so useful and convenient... a lifetime reminder of your thoughtfulness!

GIVE A NUMBER 7 WATERMAN'S

What is Waterman's Number 7? If we all wrote the same hand, there would be no difficulty in choosing a pen to fit. But we don't. All handwriting differs superficially; although, fundamentally, there are but 7 different styles, varying only according to the manner in which the pen is held in the hand.

Thus Waterman's Number 7 means the standardizing of 7 different pen points to suit 7 different fundamental styles of handwriting and distinguishing each style by a different colour band to facilitate choice.

In a word, Waterman's dealers are equipped with a Number 7 tray, consisting of 7 pens, with 7 different points at seven dollars. The Lucky One receiving your Christmas offering may visit the nearest Waterman dealer and exchange the nib for one best suited to their style of handwriting.
