Hale And Hearty At 99: A P. E. I. Woman's Story

The following article from the Windsor Star will be read with much local interest and appreciation: BY W.L.C.

The other day we had lunch at a table next to a woman who will be 100 years old next February. Being that anyone who had lived 99 years and could still walk unaided into the dining-room must have the secret of proper eating, we decided we could get a few tips on what to eat and how to eat it.

Everybody in Prince Edward Island knows Granny, who comes from an illustrious family and who has a nice family of sons, who have become famous in Canada. We know Granny meant business when she looked at the menu with a critical eye. The way she picked and chose made us realize that she was being careful to get exactly what she wanted. We waited anxiously to see what sort of food came up. After all, if we are going to live to be 100 ourselves, there was nothing so simple as what to eat and what to leave alone.

Food Arrives Finally the food started to arrive. Granny began with a glass of grape juice. That happens to be the appetizer for the day and she was all for it. It did not take long to down the grape juice and Granny waited patiently for the next course. The way of the grape juice and Granny was just rounding into form. She was waiting stridently away for the real meat course.

While waiting, Granny munched calmly at a radish. Finished that, she took an olive and followed with some celery just to make her feel comfortable.

Meatless Day Unfortunately it was a meatless day that we were there, so Granny had to be content with fish. However, fish it was and very nice, too, with a generous helping all around. Potatoes and vegetable marrow went with the fish. Granny ate them all with good appetite and it was apparent she was still in the running.

Between the fish and dessert there was a salad which Granny consumed with all the gusto of anyone who is 99 years young and going on 100.

When the salad out of the way, the meal was set for the dessert course. There was rice pudding on the menu, but Granny passed that over and chose the cheese and crackers as a finisher. She also had a pot of tea to wash it down.

As we watched this 99-year-old eat with such appetite, we marvelled at the relish she showed for her food. She appreciated the meal and enjoyed it so apparently we decided we would make a few inquiries.

Second Helping We discovered that until a couple of months ago, Granny frequently took a second helping of some of the dishes. The master of the ship, S.S. Rupert, Park Captain, told us that Partridge, charged that between June 16 and 19 the seamen 'did combine to impede the progress of the voyage of the ship by refusing to carry out their duties and assist in taking the ship to sea when commanded.'

The seaman will appear in police court here tomorrow.

Borden Mrs. Willard Leard of Borden was a recent visitor to Moncton.

Misses Leah Jay and Edith Sharpe of Borden were visitors to Moncton on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacIvor of Borden were visitors to Moncton on Thursday.

Miss Nita Lord of Cape Traverse spent Sunday with her friends, Miss Leah Jay of Borden.

Mr. Clarence Melniss of the Merchant Marines is spending the month with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melniss.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Jay of Royal Junction and Mr. and Mrs. O'Sullivan of Truro spent Sunday with relatives in Borden.

Mr. and Mrs. Athol Ellis and family returned to Borden on Thursday from a very pleasant visit to Truro and Moncton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacLaughlin and little daughter spent last week end as the guests of Con. John R. and Mrs. MacLaughlin of Borden.

Messrs. Gordon MacKenzie and Raymond MacTavish, P. W. H. F. students at Charlottetown, spent the week end at their homes in Borden.

Mrs. Jessie Urquhart of Toronto spent some weeks on the Island visiting her sister Mrs. W. H. F. Irving and relatives at Carleton Place and Borden.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Caroll of New Glasgow, N. S., spent a week recently with Mr. and Mrs. William Millington of Borden.

MAJESTY'S COURT - Before Magistrate George J. Tweedy, E.O. yesterday, two men charged with possession of a still were remanded until Monday Sept. 17th.

ROSES FROM HOLLAND - Mrs. W. E. Thomson, Central Royal, has received two dozen beautiful roses from her son, Gen. E. W. Thomson, who is stationed in England. She was six years ago September 2nd since Gen. Thomson joined His Majesty's forces and since that time has been serving in different parts of the British Empire.

GYRO CLUB - The Charlottetown Gyro Club resumed its regular meetings at the Charlottetown yesterday evening with the president, Mr. H. W. Pichon, presiding. The guest speaker was Dr. S. R. Laycock, professor of education at the University of Saskatchewan, and president of the Canadian Home and School. Dr. Laycock gave an interesting address on many phases of education both in the home and school.

K. O. F. MEETING - The regular monthly meeting of the Knights of Columbus, St. Michael's, was held last evening with a good attendance. The meeting opened with prayer by the Chaplain, Most Rev. Father E. J. O'Connell, R.C.A. MacDonald presided. After disposing of routine business, the meeting was thrown open for discussion on re-habilitation of Messrs. M. A. Farmer D. E. Noonan, Leonard MacDonald, Rev. Louis Dougan, R.E. Bradley, Connie Leclair, Louis Butler and the Chaplain taking part. Many good ideas were brought to light. It was finally decided that the executive and the re-habilitation committee be organized and to meet on ways and means. On the question of the "good of the order" the Chaplain gave a very interesting address which was greatly enjoyed by the members. The meeting closed with prayer by the Chaplain.

INVENTS NEW PAINT - Many Island friends of Rev. Dr. M. E. Genge will be interested to learn that he has started a new industry at Chatham, N.B., in the manufacture of Kalania paint, a product of his own invention. Associated with him is another clergyman well known here, Rev. Neil Herman. They are at present in Saint John, arranging to support the Progressive Conservative party's non-confidence motion which accused the Government of mismanagement and of a demobilization act for financing war expenditures during the rest of the fiscal year would be introduced. The announcement as the House passed an interim supply bill authorizing the Government to spend a total of $1,356,000,000 to vote. The House also passed an interim supply bill for more than $29,000,000 to cover the deficit.

Demobilization was to have been on a first-in first-out basis, but under the Canada Shipping Act, men were being let out to take jobs which the men overseas could not attempt to obtain.

Men In Canada Get Jobs "I realize that shipping is a difficult industry and they cannot come back all at once," he said. "But why let our men go to other countries where they are serving in Canada, now able to go out and take the jobs which are available and which are growing fewer and fewer as the weeks and months go by?"

The Government had announced that the active army was being reduced to 100,000 men. He stated that the active army was being reduced to 100,000 men. He stated that the active army was being reduced to 100,000 men.

Must Think Of Canada Mr. Lalonde, tall, dark-haired barrister who was re-elected in the general election of June 11, said the mandate given the new Parliament "compels us to forget our political differences in order to think only of Canada's interests."

Speaking at times in French, Mr. Lalonde said he was surprised at the way Quebec had remained Liberal in the election.

He believed that the preliminary Dominion-Provincial conference last month had indicated there was agreement on the need for changes in the constitution. He was opposed to centralization but he believed that constitutions should be kept abreast of the times.

Mr. Zappalino, Leo making his maiden speech, said he believed everyone would agree that now "we will have to accept a greater degree of public enterprise than ever before."

Reconversion was a gigantic problem and he believed it should be tackled in the spirit of production for use rather than production for profit.

If the Government capitulated to the pressure of private enterprise...

Paris Fashion Show Stresses Silhouette

PARIS, Sept. 11 - (AP) - The first showing of two more autumn and winter fashion collections today stressed the workmanship, design and silhouette in the creations of Bruyere and Robert Piguet.

Bruyere uses a lot of cording and trimming both in street and evening clothes. Cording emphasizes the slender waists of dresses, the full skirts of which are accented with quilted designs.

Bruyere is going in strongly for full skirts and full sleeves of all types. It is interesting to note that while both houses show many gowns with low front and back décolletage, neither gives strong underscoring to bustlings which was evident in so many collections which opened earlier.

Bruyere showed numbers of short coats, many fur-lined and many as parts of ensembles. Piguet's most interesting contribution to fashion this season is his repeated and varied use of yokes, sometimes long enough to give a bolero effect of jacket.

He also exhibited several cocktail suits of careful, flattering cut and of marvelous workmanship, adding to the impression that suits of this type have returned to importance in the French fashion world.

Piguet showed two jet-spangled cocktail dresses which are converted into dinner dresses by tying on, like an apron, a floor-length overdress of the same material.

Card of Thanks

I wish to extend my personal thanks and the thanks of my mother to all the good people of Rosebank, Southport, and Plover, who so kindly and with great sacrifice assisted in saving my personal property in a fire which destroyed our home at Rosebank on Sept. 2.

J. CHARLES TRIBE, Plover, N. S.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father and mother, William and Annie Morrison, who passed away Sept. 12, 1941 and October 23, 1936.

Deep in our hearts there's a picture. More precious than silver and gold. A picture of our dad and mother. Whose memory will never grow old. Though the tears in our eyes do not glisten. And our faces don't always look sad. There is never a night or a morn'g. That we think of dear mother and dad. Inserted by Mary, Lillian and Ada. 9-12-11.
