THE BACHELOR AND THE BOBBY-SOXER AT CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

With Cary Grant, Myrna Loy and Shirley Temple in the stellar roles, Dore Schary's production for RKO Radio, "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer," is offered as a delightful romantic comedy of an artist who becomes involved in romantic complications with a woman jurist and her bobby-sox sister.

The younger girl becomes infatuated with the artist in a big way when he delivers a lecture at her high school, and decides to bring herself to his attention by going to his apartment, where she finds out she is not the only one there at two a.m., and is just about to take her home when the judge business in on the trail of her kid sister, and completely misunderstands the situation.

She is all for sending the artist to the penitentiary, but the court psychiatrist points out that the infatuation can be easily cured. So the artist, to avoid prosecution, is forced to take the

The United States is woeing them—in the matter of Western European defence—more than they are woeing the United States.

But all of them is balanced by concern that a Democratic victory might be taken as an endorsement of an even tougher policy toward Russia. Europe is supporting the present firm policy with some misgivings. They are willing to take a lot of pushing around before adopting a stand they think might lead to war. They consider the firm policy the outstanding thing about the present administration, and go along at least in part because it involves the economic help which they cannot do without.

But whatever the result, Europe will be hoping that the winner will place no extreme interpretations upon it.

Complex U. S. Electoral College Setup Explained

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(CP)—Keep your eye on the electoral votes when the United States election returns start rolling in tomorrow night.

There are 531 electoral votes divided among the 48 states. The candidate who gets a majority of them—266—wins.

Why 531 electoral votes? Because that is the total number of members of Congress—96 senators and 435 in the House of Representatives.

Each state is entitled to a number of electoral votes equal to the number of persons it has in Congress. For example:

There are 47 New York State members in Congress. Two senators and 45 House members, and in New York the Republicans have a slate of 47 electors. So have the Democrats.

Sen. Republican Thomas E. Dewey gets 3,000,000 votes in New York, and President Truman, the Democratic candidate, gets 2,999,999. Only Dewey, although receiving only one more popular vote than Truman, gets all of New York's 47 electoral votes. Truman gets none. Does that mean the 2,999,999 popular votes for Truman wouldn't be included in the total national popular vote to elect him? That's right.

Suppose that in Illinois Truman gets 3,000,000 popular votes and Dewey gets only 1,000,000. Then Truman gets Illinois' 28 electoral votes and Dewey's 1,000,000 popular votes don't count.

But in those two seats, Truman would receive 5,999,999 popular votes to only 4,000,000 for Dewey, but Truman would wind up with only 28 electoral votes while Dewey because of his New York victory, has 47.

A candidate could get more popular votes and yet lose the election because his opponent carried states with the most electoral votes. That has happened.

In 1868 Democrat Grover Cleveland got a bigger popular vote than Republican Benjamin Harrison. But Harrison had the bigger electoral vote and won.

This year Truman or Dewey could make a sweep of 36 states and yet lose if his opponent carried only these 12 states: California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

Those 12 states have 269 electoral votes, or three more than the 266 majority needed to win.

But suppose it happened that no single candidate got a majority of the electoral votes.

The newly-elected House of Representatives then would choose the president from the three candidates receiving the greatest number of electoral votes. In that case the total House vote would be 48, with each state—no matter how many members it has in the House—entitled to only one vote.

Mr. Robert H. Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cairns of Freeport, graduate of Electrical Engineering from Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, Mr. Cairns who took three years in Prince of Wales College before going to Queens, has accepted a position with the Dominion Government in Ottawa.

Kinsmen Party For Children At Summerside

The fourth annual Kinsmen Halloween party for the youngsters of the Town was held last evening in the Summerside High School auditorium with the largest attendance of children that has attended one of these parties. Approximately 750 youngsters in an amazing variety of costume crowded the auditorium.

Mr. Charles Hogan, Club president welcomed the young guests, and said it was a privilege and a pleasure to entertain them again. He hoped that they would enjoy themselves and that when the party was over they would go straight home.

Mr. Maurice Mill acted as master of ceremonies and Mr. Norman Hogg was chairman of the committee in charge of the party.

A number of amusing films were shown and this was followed by an entertaining exhibit of tricks by "General", a black cockatoo spaniel owned by Mr. Fred E. Ireland. The four endmen of the Trinity Minstrels, Herb S. Shuman, Jerry Sheen, Roland Sheen and Alan Wedlock did a song and dance act that was much appreciated.

They, assisted by Mrs. Harry Dickie also acted as judges of a costume contest which resulted as follows: Boys, first prize, Alan Holman, head's man, second prize, Donald H. Pkins, a prize, third prize, Ipa Arsenault, Indian; girls, first prize, Pat Hawthorn, Negro child; second prize, Marie E. Eberhart, Spanish girl; third prize, Elizabeth Nicholson Chinese girl.

As each child left the hall they were presented with a bag containing candy, gum, an orange and an apple.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

The "200 Club" of the Summerside Community Bowling League: President, A. Harris; Curran & Briggs, 235; Vice-president, Wanda Clow, MacQuarries, 231; Secy-treas, A. Brooks, Curran & Briggs, 224. Other members, E. Arsenault, Doughboys, 213; Bev Gay, Hot Leads, 212; E. Smith, City Slickers, 210; E. MacQuarrie, MacQuarries, 209; E. Gaudet, City Slickers, 208; E. Arsenault, Dodgers, 208; B. Arsenault, MacQuarries, 208; L. Gaudet, Doughboys, 204; C. Cormier, Dodgers, 200. As the league is very young no doubt some of these members will be unable to hold their membership in this aristocratic club of bowling bluebloods, while others may gain admission to the select circle. Some of the officers may lose their positions, but we think it will be fairly difficult to force Alie Harris to "abdicate" the president's chair.

During a little get-together in celebration of the All-Stars' winning the intermediate baseball championship of the Maritimes, in an unguarded moment we offered to compose a parody to commemorate the victory and asked the players to name the tune. "Take Me Out To The Ball Game" was the unanimous choice, so below you will see the result of our rash promise, which with a little persuading should "go" to the tune mentioned above. Just the chorus, boys. We don't know how the verse of that old baseball classic goes. Let's all drink to the All-Stars. Here's a toast to their fame. They defeated to win the crown. Woodside, Chatham, and old Charlottetown. So the boys are Maritime champs now. Last year 'twas only a dream: Here are one, two, three cheers for you, Summerside's ball team.

It's grand to be living in a free country where a citizen can come to camp out for a concentration camp. Isn't it? Kind of tough on the rest of the citizens, we admit, but still, it's a free country.

Summerside boxers didn't win any championships last Friday night at the Charlottetown Armories, but when everything is taken into consideration, the boys didn't do so badly after all. Dave Bernard and Harrison Ferguson both won their first bouts, but due to lack of condition were unable to come out for the semi-finals. There isn't any place for boxers to train in Summerside so the boys didn't have enough work. Both are capable fighters and would be hard to beat in the winter division if they were able to train properly. Young DesRoches did not fare so well in the 120 pound class. Matched with an experienced scrapper who knew far too much for the youngster, DesRoches refused to quit, and took rather a mauling before the referee stepped in and stopped the bout. He's none the worse for the experience, however.

Keith Champion, our representative in the heavy division, was knocked out by Willie Pendergast of Kensington with a few seconds to go in the final round. Up to that time the go was a very even one. Keith admits that Pendergast, who is a son of "Big Jim", a boxer of considerable fame in his heyday, can really hit. Champion has quite a lethal wallop himself, as he knocked out Big Boy Peterson a few years ago in a bout at Summerside. Then there was a 90-pound youngster named Will White who went to Charlottetown with the Summerside group. White had never fought in a ring before in his life, and he was unlucky enough to be pitted against a class little ring brawler who eventually won the paperweight title. The other kid's rep didn't faze Will a bit, however. "If he hits me, there'll be trouble," young White announced to his friends before the fight. Well, the title-holder did hit Will, and by Gum, there was trouble. Young White didn't know a feint from a filibuster. To Will a second was just the sixth part of a minute. But he stayed in there for the full three rounds taking everything his opponent threw at him, and continually throwing haymakers on his own account, which started right from the floor. Very many of these wasted their sweetness on the desert air, but Will did tag the champ once, raising a mouse beside his eye which was very conspicuous during the rest of the evening. Somebody should take this kid in hand and teach him the rudiments of the game. With his courage and ability to take punishment he should go places.

Keith Champion suffered a broken nose in his three-round mill with Pendergast, and we'd like to acknowledge here the kindness shown us in reference to this injury. Ronnie and Jimmie Kennedy came into our dressing room and took Keith up to their uncle's, Dr. Kennedy, and the injury was attended to free of charge. Thanks a lot, Dr. Roy and boys. Jumpers abound everywhere as perfect mates for quaint and classic blouses. Newest jumpers shown are high-waisted with horsehoe-scooped necklines.
