FLYING MACHINE PROPELLERS.

(New York Sun). Propellers for airships are built of laminated wood, that is to say of wood built up in layers. For the making of a propeller six or eight feet in length there would be required to begin with a stick of timber six inches or thereabouts square, and such a stick of solid wood, however perfectly seasoned, might check or crack. For this reason the propeller is built of laminated wood, of strips of selected and perfectly seasoned wood of the required width which are planed down to the requisite thickness and then glued together under pressure, making a practically solid stick of material less liable to check.

Some airship propellers of laminated wood have been made with the laminations all of spruce; one New York concern making propellers produces them also of a combination of ash and mahogany, three layers of ash and two of mahogany.

The shaving out of the blades from this stick, each of precisely the required taper, pitch and thickness, and the two exactly alike, is work that calls for the greatest patience, care and skill. The perfect propeller in its finished state is a beautiful example of good workmanship.

A six-foot propeller of laminated wood, its weight six and a half pounds, costs $50; a seven-foot propeller, weight nine pounds, $60, and an eight-foot propeller, weight twelve pounds, $70.

For model airships there are made, also of laminated wood, but these commonly all of mahogany, little propellers from ten to twelve inches in length, and accurate in pitch and finish they sell at from $4 to $7.

Among the full sized propellers the greatest demand is for those measuring seven feet. From the orders thus far filled and now in hand the propeller makers are looking for a greater activity than ever in flying machines in the coming season.

Everyone Thought She Was Going Into Consumption.

Gained Ten Pounds in Two Weeks by the Use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Fred Biggs, Kingston, Ont., writes—"I was completely run down, my blood was out of order, and I used to get so weak I would be compelled to stay in bed for weeks at a time. I could not eat, was pale and thin; every one thought I was going into consumption. I tried everything and different doctors until a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have one bottle used when my appetite began to improve. I used six bottles. I gained ten pounds in two weeks. When I began to take it I only weighed ninety-three pounds. I just seemed to pull it from the air as I never expected to be strong again. I will tell every sufferer of your wonderful medicine."

The blood reaches every portion of the body to distribute nutriment and remove effete matter and waste products. Clearly then, any influence, good or bad, affecting the blood, must necessarily affect the entire system for good or evil as the case may be.

Get pure blood and keep it pure by removing every trace of impure morbid matter from the system by using Burdock Blood Bitters. It exerts a curative influence unapproached by any other remedy.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited Toronto, Ont.

REDEEMED AND GLORIFIED. PART I.

Long years before the civil war— A war that rent this land in twain— A fratricidal war, so fierce That fathers fought against their sons.

And brothers faced their brothers Upon the gory battlefield; One to uphold a cursed law That gave a man the right and power To chain his fellow-man, and one To set him free—Before that time There did exist a blot upon The nation's fame—a man was judged.

Not by his merits or his acts, But by the color of his skin. If that were black, he thus became A vassal to the white man's greed And love of gold, no blacker shame Did ever stain the honored name Of an American.

PART II.

A wealthy gentleman one morn— A perfect stranger by the way— Was strolling through a thriving town And taking in the sights, when lo! He saw before him, on the square A motley crowd. Upon a block He saw a pretty quadroon girl. With rosy cheeks, and skin so clear That plainly told good health was there.

No common girl, for she was bright, Big tears came rolling down her cheeks As she did wring her hands. She plead That she be left at home to live With mother, who was old and weak. The bids went up, her price rose high.

And higher. The wealthy stranger Could no longer bear the sight, So raised his voice and shouted loud A sum that no one could outbid. The auctioneer then said, "She's yours; Take her away."

PART III.

The thankful girl Then grasped the stranger's hand and cried, "And I am yours; O treat me kind. And I a faithful slave shall be." "My poor, dear child," the man replied, "I purchased you to set you free, And not to enslave you more—to live And die wherever you may choose." She straightway clasped her hands and said, "Then God be praised, for I am free— Free to live with my old mother— To care for her till life's short day Shall end. Then I shall go with you, Kind sir, and spend my strength and life In your employ. But life's too short To pay you all I owe." "Nay, nay, That shall not be," the man replied, "I bid you welcome to my home, That being free a chance you'll have To 'hitch your chariot to a star' And stand before the world a slave." J. H. FLETCHER, St. John, Oregon.

Sir:

If the "nappy-go-lucky-slap-it-on-a press-and-let-er-go" kind of advertising you are using is doing you some good doesn't it seem reasonable to suppose that "something different"—bright, convincing, thought-out and mailed regularly "direct" to your list will prove of much greater value (This is intended only for the man who feels the bullet strike him).
