Roosevelt Is Cautious Over Political Talk

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(CP)—The principal United States army plans for "M-Day"—the hypothetical mobilization day in a national defence emergency—being put into effect in this country today in the greatest peacetime military drive in the nation's history.

A War Department spokesman told the Canadian Press that the department has been given the word to go ahead with many of the long-considered M Day plans as a preparatory measure, and the immediate objective is creation of an army of 1,200,000 men, considered by the army general staff to be the minimum protective force in the present situation.

Such a force on this side of the international border would provide vital support to the Canada-United States defence understanding now being worked out, it is felt here.

The scheme for vastly increasing the strength of the army and training it for modern war is called the protective mobilization force plan. Closely allied to this is the industrial mobilization plan in the general M-Day program by which war materials would be produced.

In connection with increasing the army, equipment is being planned to guarantee that the contemplated force will have the arms it needs.

The American army consists of the regular army, which is similar to the old Canadian permanent force now incorporated into

The western offensive began on May 10. Four days later the Netherlands capitulated. The Germans crossed the Meuse and drove a sharp salient into the French lines.

As the Allied position grew more serious, Gen. Maxime Weygand was called from the Near East to replace Gen. Marie-Gustave Gamelin in supreme command. Fourteen days after the start of the drive the Germans were on the English Channel.

The surrender of the Belgian army by King Leopold opened the British forces to the possibility of destruction but, while fighting gallant rearguard actions, a withdrawal was made to Dunkerque and, in one of the great episodes of all warfare, 335,000 British soldiers were removed safely to Britain.

Commanded "Skeena"
Captain Grant has been commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Skeena since 1938. He also held the position of director of operations with the commanding officer, Atlantic Coast. He was in command of the Skeena during the visit of the Queen Elizabeth and had the honor of embarking on the Royal party for passage to and from Prince Edward Island.

As director of personnel, he will have charge of recruiting activities and the assignment of preliminary training, where necessary, of officers and men, the appointment and promotion of executive officers below the rank of commander, the advancement of ratings except engine-room and accounting branches, and all personnel questions.

Capt. Grant was born in Halifax, N.S., in March, 1899, son of MacCallum Grant, former Lieut.-Governor of the province.

War Anniversary

(Canadian Press)
The war is a year old this week-end. It was on Friday, Sept. 1, 1939, that Hitler announced the German army was crossing the frontier into Poland and delivered a fevered speech to the Reichstag.

Two days later, on Sunday, Sept. 3 at 11 a. m., a British ultimatum to Germany expired, and a few minutes later Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, informed the British nation that a state of war existed between Britain and Nazi Germany. France implemented her obligation to Poland later in the day.

Today the Empire fights on, Britain the last citadel of freedom in Europe against the Nazis and Fascists. United as never before, Britain is ready to fight Hitler to the finish with the full support of the Dominions.

After all that has happened in the 12 months since the war started, there can be no surprise that Poland should have been overrun by German armored divisions for only a month. But the full power of the Nazi striking force on land did not become known to the world at large until France, nine months later, was struck down in a matter of weeks.

First Months Mild
The first two thirds of the first year of the war were mild in comparison with the events of the summer. After the Polish campaign was speedily concluded, following Russia's stab in the back, there followed the long winter of sea warfare, occasional air forays, and preparations for the campaign that all knew would come with the spring.

The French army, which had begun a cautious offensive on the western front, withdrew to the Maginot Line. The British Expeditionary Force assembled on the Belgian frontier. A "little war" developed in the far north between Finland and Soviet Russia. The German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee was sunk by British cruisers off South America.

World-Wide Surprise
There was general surprise when on April 9, the world awoke to find that Denmark had been occupied and Norway was being attacked. An Allied force was landed in Norway, by the Germans, aided by Norwegian traitors, quickly

Greatest Peacetime Military Drive In U.S. History Begins

(By Ross Munro, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(CP)—The regular United States army plans for "M-Day"—the hypothetical mobilization day in a national defence emergency—being put into effect in this country today in the greatest peacetime military drive in the nation's history.

A War Department spokesman told the Canadian Press that the department has been given the word to go ahead with many of the long-considered M Day plans as a preparatory measure, and the immediate objective is creation of an army of 1,200,000 men, considered by the army general staff to be the minimum protective force in the present situation.

Second Phase of Offensive
On June 5 the second phase of the offensive began, the Germans driving on Paris. In the midst of this battle Italy entered the war on Germany's side, and the final disintegration of French resistance followed rapidly. Paris fell June 14, and three days later the new French premier, Marshal Philippe Petain, sued for an armistice.

On Aug. 8 the battle of Britain began, with 60 German planes shot down. On each successive day the Royal Air Force demonstrated its superiority over the enemy, one day destroying as many as 180 enemy aircraft. While the fighter squadrons roved at home, R.A.F. bombers daily attacked German war establishments on the continent, bringing the first year of the war to a close with a series of raids on Berlin itself.

SPECIAL POTATO AREAS
The Province of Nova Scotia has passed an "Act Respecting the Potato Industry" similar to the one passed by New Brunswick in 1939 under which the Governor in Council is authorized to establish any areas in the Province as certified foundation seed areas or certified seed areas, and to make regulations governing the planting, digging, storing, and conveying potatoes in any area so established.

the Canadian Active Service Force and the National Guard, and reserves, equivalent to the Canadian non-permanent active military units. Total strength of the regular army under the guards is about 550,000 (officers and men).

The regular army has 290,000 enlisted men, 14,000 officers and 5,000 reserve officers serving on extended active duty. Enlistment in the past few months has been brisk, 8,000 men a week have been recruited in recent weeks.

There are about 228,000 men in the National Guard and 15,000 officers. Like the N.P.A.M. this is a part-time military organization with the guardsmen retaining their civil positions and drilling several nights a week at their unit headquarters all over the United States.

The National Guards will be incorporated into the regular army for one year shortly, however, under legislation passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt.

The first units likely to be called up in mid-September and the entire National Guard membership considered fit for active service will be under arms by next Jan. 1.

In addition to the regular army and to Guards, 140,000 officers are on the reserve and are available in an acute crisis.

In raising the army membership from 550,000 to the objective, the war department contemplates assigning conscripted men to army units for their one year of military training.

Candlelight Nuptials

(FRAMINGHAM, N.E.W., Aug. 26)

At a candlelight ceremony in St. Andrew's church, Miss Florence D. MacPhee daughter of Mr. George D. MacPhee of Oleary, P.E.I. became the bride of Wallace Rendell, Saturday night, with Rev. Guy Miner or Franklin officiating. Lloyd Palmer of Framingham Centre played the wedding marches, and Joseph Ryan of Framingham Centre sang "O Promise Me." White gladioli decorated the altar.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Harry MacPhee of Lynn, wore white satin with acorn-embroidered sleeves, trimmed with inserts, and a very long train. Her very long tulle veil was fastened to a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a gladioli and bouquet with an orchid corsage in the center.

Miss Jean Avery, the maid of honor, wore pink taffeta and carried a summer flowers; and the bridesmaids, the Misses Floris Mercer of Framingham and Misses MacPhee of Quincy, nieces of the bride, wore blue net over taffeta, and carried old fashioned bouquets. Roy Rendell of Philadelphia officiated.

The groom, was best man; and ushers were Alden MacPhee of Milton, a brother of the bride; and Bertram Rendell.

There were about 100 guests at the reception held in lower Denison Memorial hall, where the receiving line stood. A setting of gladioli and other flowers in the garden flowers. Receiving with the bride party were Mrs. George Mercer of Framingham, the bride's sister, who wore royal blue. There was dancing to music by Keady's orchestra, and Mrs. Leveine Butler on Worcester road. She is secretary of St. Elizabeth's league of St. Andrew's church.

Mr. Rendell, who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rendell, was graduated from Framingham High school in 1929 and is a graduate of the New England Welding Laboratories in Boston. He is a member of the Eagles and the Denison Associates.

The couple are to make their home at 41 Beulah Street, where they will be at home after 8 p.m. Gifts to the bride's attendants were compact and cigarette cases; and the bride has had three showers, one of which was given by her friends at the Denison.

BRITAIN WANTS ALL CHEESE IT CAN GET
Since it is definitely known that the British Ministry of Food wants to get some of the inducements to encourage cheese production were outlined to the Dominion Provincial Agricultural Conference held in Ottawa, July 18 to 20, by Joseph Burgess, Dairy Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture. There could be a general increase in milk production to help the cut-out of cheese in Canada, he said, by supplementary feeding of rough feed when pastures are short through the use of cures grain now fed to other farm animals; prohibiting the export of cattle and cheese factories remaining open later in the season.

The present agreement with the British Ministry of Food in respect to cheese is for the export of 78,000,000 lb. of Canadian cheddar cheese manufactured up to the end of November, 1940, but more than this will be gladly accepted, according to indications from the Ministry received by the Dairy Products Division, which arranges for the export of the cheese.

No intimation has been received from Great Britain that Canadian butter is wanted. Indications are that the production of creamy butter will be ample for Canadian requirements.
