FUNERAL TOMORROW—The funeral of the late Mrs. John Allen will take place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Fred W. Godfrey, Suffolk, Service at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment at People's Cemetery.

PASSED AWAY—An old and esteemed resident of Charlottetown passed away on Saturday night after an illness of about two weeks in the person of Mr. James B. Hegan, Kent Street. The late Mr. Hegan, who was in his eighty-sixth year, was born in St. John, N. B., a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hegan, and was educated in the New Brunswick schools. He was employed as civil engineer during the building of the Intercolonial Railway and in 1897 was appointed provincial engineer for Prince Edward Island, a position which he held until his retirement from active service, some years ago. Mr. Hegan was a charter member of the Natural History Society of Saint John, to which he made some valuable and interesting contributions, being an enthusiastic student of the subject. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of the late Hon. William Hamilton, of Dalhousie, one son William of Saint John surviving. His second wife was Miss Bertie Hunt, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunt, of Summerside. Of this marriage three sons and two daughters survive, namely Richard, banker, New York, John, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Ottawa; Allan, of the Saskatchewan Grain Elevator Company, Port Arthur; and the Misses Janet and Margaret at home, to all of whom and to the sorrowing widow the Guardian extends sympathy. The sons of the deceased are expected home tonight.

of Mr. Crossman's claim. On one of his trips Mr. Crossman, who had considerable mining experience, noticed unmistakable indications of copper on the side of a cliff. Since that time Mr. Crossman has, on several occasions, attempted to interest capitalists in the project, but was unsuccessful until the Lake George Mining Co. decided to investigate the matter. Since Mr. Crossman's discovery of numerous prospectors from Canada, Newfoundland, United States, France and Germany have tried to locate the deposits but without success, owing to the fact that a land slide had completely covered the section of the cliff where Mr. Crossman had noted the metal.

For many years Mr. Crossman has been earning a livelihood as a sign-painter in this city, residing in Southport; but he has always cherished the idea of returning to the island to establish the existence of the metal deposits which he felt certain awaited the prospector in Port Dupont Bay. The realization of his dream began on July 29, last, when, with Mr. John W. Newgent, mining engineer from St. John, he left Prince Edward Island for Port aux Basques where he remained for a week securing mining licenses and familiarizing himself with maps and mining laws.

The passage between Port aux Basques and Port Dupont Bay proved a very difficult one, the place being almost isolated, mail being delivered to the few inhabitants only once a week. Arriving on the scene of his search Mr. Crossman found that many changes had taken place in the topography of that section of the country. Fox Island River, by which he was to calculate the location of the deposit, now entered the bay by a different mouth and a landslide had completely covered the cliff. In spite of these difficulties however, he located what he thought was the old site. Four or five days' digging in the mass of earth proved fruitless. Not a trace of metal was to be found and both the engineer and the few men employed began to grow skeptical. But an accident proved that their fears were groundless. One day during a very low tide Mr. Crossman noticed glistening specks of copper and gold in the bed rock. Blasting operations were begun on the bank directly above this point with the result that all doubt was dispelled as to the location of the long-sought for lead. Claims were staked between Fox Island River and the site of the old lobster factory. Great difficulty was experienced in cutting down the underbrush around the claims as is required by law.

The claims have not yet been filed as forty days are allowed between the time of staking and the filing. The discovery claim is owned by Mr. Crossman himself and he also is Shows $2,000,000 Profits in 6 Months NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Entries in a small black account book showing $2,000,000 profits in six months, huge sums paid for bribery, ships and liquor, revealed today the proportions of the syndicate which federal officials charge monopolized liquor smuggling along the Atlantic coast. The account book was seized with other records at the "Mansion" in Highlands, N. J., headquarters of the ring, when federal and state officers made 32 raids along a 200 mile front in a preconcerted drive against the syndicate.

William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, said the book contained in addition to notations showing the profits which were divided into rales of seven to twenty-three percent among the members, closely written memoranda of large sums paid to local officers for protection.

Notations showed he said, that last March the syndicate spent $70,000 in Montreal Que., "for ships, the purchase of liquor and operating expenses."

Calhoun said that seven banks in New Jersey, Manhattan and Brooklyn would be called upon to produce their records of the transactions.

James E. Wilkinson, assistant United States attorney, declared that the three banks in New Jersey where smugglers had accounts were obviously aware of the nature of their clients business. He also denounced lawyers who he charged gave legal advice to the syndicate.

"This is not a question of prohibition enforcement. It is a matter of financing all kinds of crimes by banks who are thus misusing their depositors money. It is no secret that this mob of smugglers is more or less hooked up with the gang of Scarface Al Capone."

he visited the Cabinet Council Chamber and enjoyed another intimate chat with Premier King; he took tea with Hon. William Phillips, the U. S. Minister, and tonight he and his party dined as guests of Their Excellencies the Governor and Viscountess Willington at Government House.

The rumor of his impending resignation arose from a reference in his speech in the Parliament House last night, when he said a statesman should not go straight from the workshop to the grave, but that he looked forward to some years of leisure when he would have laid aside his responsibilities and handed them over to younger and fresher minds. No one was more amused than the British Premier, when he learned this had been interpreted by one London paper to mean that he contemplated early retirement. The inference that he planned to quit public life in the near future was officially characterized as grotesque and unworthy of attention, were it not that it might seriously mislead people in the Motherland. Mr. MacDonald, the Globe was officially informed, has not the slightest notion of resigning, but is going back to London to begin negotiations with France, Japan and Italy with a view to the arrangement of a disarmament scheme, which will represent the greatest advance toward world peace that history has yet known.

SCOUT IDEALS EMPHASIZED AT ZION SERVICE

Interesting Feature of Evening Service At Zion Church Yesterday.

The pulpit of Zion Church was occupied yesterday morning by Dr. F. S. V. Bruce Williams of Montague who preached a very thoughtful and inspiring sermon. Mr. Fulton, accompanied by the Misses Flora and E. J. Campbell and Mr. Harry Craswell, representative of Zion choir, conducted the Thanksgiving service in Montague.

A very fine Bible class was present in the afternoon. Mr. John Baker, as President and Miss Lillian Livingstone as Secretary entered upon their new duties. Mr. Fulton addressed the class. A banquet will be held on Friday evening, November 1st. The evening service was of peculiar interest. "The Place and Purpose of the Boy Scout Movement" was the minister's general theme. Mr. R. E. Parent, in very fitting terms, introduced the young men who were chosen to represent the Boy Scouts at Coming of Age Jamboree held in England last August.

"The Chief Scout's Thanksgiving," was given by W. R. Burnett; "Scout Law," by R. M. Owen; "King's Message," by G. R. Filler; "Prince of Wales Address," by R. M. Beer. Mr. John A. Lawson brought very appropriate words of thanks to the Scouts for their messages and all others who had part in bringing the aims and efforts of Scouting so prominently before the public. Mr. Lawson is assistant commissioner. Some 350 attended the song service and enjoyed the picture of Jungle Life in Africa.

At the morning service the choir rendered the anthem, "The Year of the Lord," by Simper and Mrs. Frank Lafferty and Mrs. Walter Brown sang the duet in this number. In the evening a large choir was present and sang the anthem "Soldiers of Christ Arise," by Edward Miller. The well known song "Open the Gates of the Temple," was well sung by Mr. Harry Craswell.

Six coastguard cutters which worked during the raids in pairs off Sandy Hook, City Island and Montauk Point, were dispatched out of the New London, Conn., base under sealed orders that had come from Washington.

The sealed orders assigned the destroyers to assist ten customs bureau speed boats, carrying 100 agents, in intercepting any small craft en route to shore with liquor from the larger ships outside the harbour.

The customs boats were stationed also of Coney Island Creek, Atlantic Highlands, and Rockaway Beach. The destroyers and customs boats got nothing however.

Mr. Tuttle said that prosecution of more than a dozen prisoners arrested in connection with last night's raids would be carried forward at once.

Inquiry today at the local offices of the coastguard and the customs bureau revealed that neither office had been told in advance what the program of last night's raids was to be.

Chief Scout's Address

The address of the Chief Scout, Baron Baden-Powell, delivered at the great thanksgiving service at the Jamboree, was given last night by Scout William Burnett, as follows:

"We are assembled here as a great family of brothers, all sons of one Father—God—to thank Him for our happy brotherhood on its birthday, on arriving at the stage it has reached, and to pray also for strength to go to greater heights and increase our brotherhood in love for one another and for our neighbors. It is an occasion which will never happen again, and therefore a very solemn one to all of us. I want to remind you for one moment of the promise you made on becoming Scouts, and urge you very deeply to try from now to carry out that promise more fully, if possible, than ever before. Lower your flag, bow your heads, and think for a moment of that promise. 'On my honour I promise that I will do my best.' You may not be able to do much, but remember each one of you can always do his best. You promise to do your duty to God, Love God and love your neighbor as yourself. You promise to do your duty to the King and to help others at all times. Love your neighbor as you do yourself, and do what you can at any time for anyone you come across. Finally, obey the Scout law. If you can carry that out in your daily life you will be doing your best to be good Scouts. In this way every one of you, no matter how small, or young, or weak, can help to bring about the greatest thing in this world—the bringing about of God's Kingdom and the bringing about of peace and good-will among men. You have that power. When you go forth, be determined to carry out your Scout's promise more faithfully than ever before. Scouts, I ask you, will you do it?"

Prince of Wales' Address

Read by Scout Robert Beer:

(After reading the King's message) "For myself, I am very glad to have been able to come up to the Jamboree to spend twenty-four hours in the camp and to have seen so many contingents from abroad and from British countries overseas. I have travelled a good deal, and I have seen Boy Scouts in practically every corner of the globe. It is not surprising that they should flourish in the British Empire—but it is all the more striking that Scouting should have caught on, as it has done, in foreign countries as well. I remember, for example, seeing a fine parade of Scouts as far away as in Chile—and this Jamboree proves that the idea which lies behind the Scout movement is a really big one. It is one that appeals to all sorts of people, irrespective of their nationality.

"The British way of expressing the idea is to say that 'Scouting breeds true sportsmanship.' But sportsmanship isn't an easy word to define. It means straight dealing and playing the game. It means self-reliance and, at the same time, team-work—playing for your side, and not for yourself, winning without 'swank,' losing without bad temper. And it also means thoughtfulness and making allowances for others. It is an idea of loyalty and of service. The one thing it hates like poison is selfishness. British people have always believed in playing games, because they hold their games foster true

The King's Message
Read by King's Scout, Dick Filler:

"I heartily welcome the Boy Scouts who have travelled from their homes, far distant in the British Empire and in many foreign lands, to the coming of age of the Boy Scout Movement. This is an unique assemblage, representative of the youth of all the great nations of the world, and I ask them to remember that it is chiefly upon the coming generations that the future peace of the world depends.

"I warmly thank all those taking part in the Jamboree for their kind message and trust they will thoroughly enjoy their stay in this country and carry away with them happy and beneficial experiences. I am keenly disappointed that it is impossible for me to be present on this memorable occasion, but I am glad that my eldest son is with you all as my representative.

"It has given me great pleasure to mark this signal event in your history by conferring a peerage on the Chief Scout. Ever since its inception he has been the mainspring of this Great Adventure, from its small and almost humble beginning until today, when you number nearly two million in your ranks. The recognition of his valuable services to the cause will be welcomed by all who realize the importance of training the world's youth both in mind and body. At the same time I am aware that the splendid achievements of this ennobling organization would not be possible without the zealous and wholehearted support given to the Chief Scout by his principal officers.

"I wish God speed to you all. May the Boy Scout Movement go from strength to strength in development and prosperity."
(Signed) GEORGE R. I.

"Every day, Scouting is growing and extending, and bringing into closer touch the youth of all nations. And as you work and play together at the many different forms of Scouting, you are sure to understand and appreciate the other fellow's point of view, even when it differs from your own. So, like you, I think the Scout movement is a wonderful thing for individual Scouts, for the manhood of individual countries, and, more than all, for the welfare of different nations and for the development between different nations of understanding and goodwill in the place of suspicion and selfish antagonism. So to the Scouters I would say that the time and energy that they are devoting to their work will not throw away. They are doing most valuable service to their country and for the peace of the world.

"Let me take this opportunity of congratulating you, the Chief Scout on the honour that has been conferred upon you by His Majesty the King.

"To you, Scouts, I say: 'Go ahead; stick to your Scouting; make yourselves as efficient as you can; be good friends with your brother Scouts of other countries, and when you are older don't forget the comradeship of your Scouting days.'"
