LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

Mrs. Jas. A. E. Bradley:—Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to call from our midst the only son of one of our most esteemed and energetic members in the person of Mrs. James Bradley, and whereas Mrs. Bradley was one of our Charter Members and a Vice President during the first two years of our society's existence in this Parish,—a faithful worker who ever had the interests of the society at heart; Therefore be it resolved that we, the members of the Catholic Women's League extend to our sister member our sincerest sympathy in her hour of sorrow.

CONFERENCE AND CONCILIATION

"I believe another great war is inevitable within the next ten years unless there is more active support for world agencies which are working for peace". These are the words of one of Europe's greatest statesmen and they most forcibly echo the point of view of thousands of international students in all parts of the world. Even in the United States, where there has been considerable antagonism to international action in maintaining peace, a change is taking place and people in all parts of the country are urging the fullest co-operation of the United States in the World Court and their unequalled adherence to the terms of the Kellogg Peace Pact. "If another dreadful catastrophe is to be avoided" said a prominent United States Senator the other day, "every nation in the world, our own included, must educate their people that conference and conciliation can easily find a way to prevent war if they are given time to operate." Canadians to whom the late war was an even more intensive and dreadful reality than to our neighbours to the South have been continuous supporters of all agencies working for peace. From its early beginning the League of Nations has had Canada's unqualified approval and Canadians have taken an outstanding place in its deliberations. The League's direct agent in this

Permanent Pasture Improvement

(By J. A. Clark, Superintendent Experimental Farm.)

There are many acres of "back fields" throughout Prince Edward Island that could profitably be laid down to permanent pasture. The soils of these fields are classed as "damp and cold" with a fair amount of natural grass on them. Wild aster, yar-row, golden rod and other plants unsuitable for pastures grow in abundance and crowd out the better pasture grasses.

Two methods can be adopted in improving these permanent pastures. The first is spoken of as "renovating" that is, without breaking the sod. It consists of fertilizing, reseeding and judicious grazing. Sulphate of ammonia is one of the most valuable of fertilizers for grass lands. It not only supplies nitrogen, essential for the grass, but if applied in solution with a potato spraying outfit at the rate of 200 pounds dissolved in 80 gallons of water, per acre, it is one of the best weed killers known, and should check or kill almost all of the broad leaved weeds. This should be applied in the spring just after the grass has started. Barnyard manure should be used as a top dressing at least on the poorer parts of the pasture. When re-seeding is necessary, the following mixture could be sown per acre in the spring, before applying the manure, and given a slight covering by harrowing with a lever spike-toothed harrow: Red top—4 pounds, Kentucky blue grass—4 pounds, alsike clover—3 pounds, white clover—1 pound.

The second method consists of breaking the sod, destroying as many weeds as possible by thorough tillage and cultivation, mowing, where possible, or fertilizing with the following mixture: Sulphate of ammonia 120 pounds, superphosphate 375 pounds, muriate of potash 60 pounds, and seeding out with grain as a nurse crop. The following mixture is recommended for cold or late soils:

- Timothy 4 pounds
- Orochard grass 4 pounds
- Kentucky grass 3 pounds
- Meadow fescue 4 pounds
- Red top 3 pounds
- Alsike 3 pounds
- White Dutch 1 pound

- for dry soils:
- Timothy 6 pounds
- Orochard grass 2 pounds
- Kentucky blue 3 pounds
- Canadian blue 2 pounds
- Red top 3 pounds
- White Dutch 2 pounds
- Common red clover 4 pounds

A dressing of ground limestone or slag is recommended for sour land. Stock should be kept off the pasture in the early spring until the land is firm and the plants that have been lifted by the frost have re-established themselves. Rolling the pasture as soon as it is firm enough to carry a horse will greatly assist in saving many of the pasture plants. Do not overgraze (at critical times): In the spring when the stock may pluck out or eat off the crowns of lifted plants, during a dry spell when the plants can do little more than maintain themselves, in the autumn when the grass should be allowed to grow for a few weeks for winter protection.

When a permanent pasture has been established for a few years a dressing of sulphate of ammonia occasionally as described above will help to keep the weeds in check and greatly increase the quantity of pasture so that it will carry more stock profitably per acre.

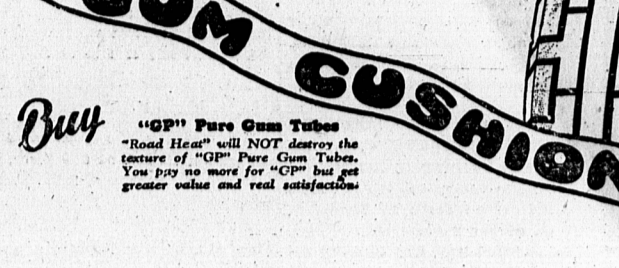

country, the League of Nations Society has now an impressive membership and special interest is being manifested in the big campaign for more recruits which is being launched on April 16.
