LOCAL BRIEFS

Latest News of the City and Province.

By Reporters and Correspondents Everywhere.

TEA party at Seven Mile Bay on Thursday 23rd inst. Ad and full particulars later.

BOY WANTED.—A good steady boy, with a fair education, must be over 16 years old; to learn the printing. Apply at once to this office.

THE annual Sunday School picnic of the Bedouque circuit comprising Beque, Searletown, Cape Traverse, and Chelton, Schools was held at the premises of Mr. Nathaniel Pearson, Chelton, on Tuesday 24th inst, and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent by both young and old.

CHELTON NOTES.—Lobster packers report fairly good catches of late and they hope to make up to some degree at least for the slim catch in the first part of the season. Mackerel were plentiful in the Straits in the early part of the season but a week or so ago they took their departure for places unknown. The home of Miss Maud Wright was visited by many of her friends and neighbors on the evening of the 23rd, and 24th, inst. to witness the unfolding of a rare and beautiful flower of the night blooming series which well repaid anyone who has never seen the like before. Our school is progressing favorably under the able tuition of the teacher Miss Beatrice Ramsay.

EASTERN NOTES.—The rattle of the mower warns us that hay-making is here, and that our summer is getting along. It will be considerably below an average crop, the early months of summer and spring being cold and unfavorable to vegetable growth, and the snowless winter and frozen ground extremely injurious to all meadows and grass fields. The same peculiar and unprecedented climate conditions appear to have been prejudicial to the health and the very existence of the persevering and ubiquitous potato bug, and the farmers round here are nearly all rejoicing at his total absence. Mackerel are taking the hook slowly on both sides of the Point, on account of the water being full of shrimp and other minute animal matter, their favorite morsel, and more tempting than the bait of the fisherman. Hake are scarce but of good quality. Both hake and mackerel are likely to rule low in price.—Our summer visitors are still arriving from the heated cities of the south to enjoy the bracing air and verdant scenery of our Island home.—Three severe thunder storms within a week have visited this section and although not so bad as farther west, they were close enough to scare the timorous. John A. Fraser's barn, on Munn's Road, was struck by the electric fluid during the storm of the 1st inst., but not very materially damaged. Can some of the members of the School of Science explain to us what is the reason that thunder storms are more destructive of life and property than they were years ago. Hardly a storm now but leaves some marks in its path.—There died a few days ago, at the ripe age of 87, at Hay River, Donald McDonald, usually known as "Donald the member" as he had the honor of a seat in the House of Assembly for some 13 years beginning in 1838. Though nearly forgotten by this generation, he took an important part in the stirring and eventful times when the people of this section were laying the foundation of that movement which years after culminated in the overthrow of the retrogressive and unfortunate proprietary system. Contemporary with Cooper, the apostle of escheat, with McIntosh and LeLachur the inveterate enemies of proprietors, he took part in their struggles for the emancipation of his neighbors from that old world system, detestable to the citizens of this free country, and resistant to the better instincts of every patriotic citizen endowed with the finer feelings of our common humanity. He survived his co-laborers many years and lived to see the work accomplished he commenced in early life, and at a ripe old age calmly and patiently met the end.—Since writing the above I learn a barn at Cheapston occupied by James Nolan, containing ten tons of hay, binder, mower and wheel rake, was struck by lightning and totally consumed by the third and last thunder storm within one week. Bernard Creamer's barn was also struck but not consumed.

Mrs. Gladstone's Remains.

A painful controversy has arisen in connection with the disposal of the remains of old Mrs. Gladstone, a controversy which is a source of great distress to her family and friends. As everybody knows she was interred in Westminster Abbey, beside her illustrious husband. Now, there is a strict rule that in all cases of intramural interment the corpse shall be carefully embalmed, and a certificate to that effect is required by law to be furnished to the authorities in charge of the ecclesiastical edifice in which the interment takes place. Indeed, it is only on this condition that the government, which on sanitary grounds objects to intramural entombment, gives a grudging and rare consent to the burial of a corpse within the walls of a church still used for divine service.

It now appears that the body of Mrs. Gladstone was not embalmed, and that the customary certificate was not demanded. The spot where she lies interred is one which is crowded during divine service on Sundays, and her coffin, lying above that of her husband, is only about two feet from the surface of the floor of the church.

All this might have been quietly remedied. But unfortunately the Church of England Burial Reform Association has got hold of the matter and is making it the theme of a violent attack upon the practice of intramural interment in general.

It is declared by the expert authorities on the subject that it is too late now to think of embalming Mrs. Gladstone's remains. At the same time it is admitted that the presence of the coffin containing them, with only a few inches of earth between it and the stone flag constituting the floor of the Abbey, is objectionable on sanitary grounds. The family and friends are, therefore, now confronted by the painful alternative of having the coffin of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone disinterred and buried elsewhere, or else of having every vestige of the remains of the grand old couple destroyed where they are by means of quicklime.

ENGINEER GRAHAM.

Of Montreal, Cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—Proof positive and convincing has been already given in Montreal, that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only sure cure for that dread disease Diabetes. And day after day fresh evidence comes to light, to make the proof more emphatic and convincing.

Engineer James Graham, 50 Victoria Square, says:—"I suffered with Diabetes for six years. One of the best doctors told me I could not be cured.

"I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills and decided to try them. Three boxes made me well, and I have not suffered from Diabetes since."

Such cures as this prove the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills.
