CIVIC AFFAIRS

Mayor Kennedy and City Councilors are to be commended on the comprehensive nature of the reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Council on Monday night. The financial position has been clearly set forth by Councillor Holman, chairman of the Finance Committee, who reported a deficit reduction of $16,823.41 over the preceding year and expressed the belief that if the 1935 tax assessments are paid and a reasonable amount of arrears collected, we should be close to a balanced statement at the end of the current year.

Two years ago the ordinary period available for his training. There are many features in connection with Borsal institutions not found in ordinary prisons: games, physical exercises, courses in reading, etc. Each institution has its own governor, deputy-governor, chaplain, house-masters, house-assistants, matron, and staff of officers. Many of these are public school and university men.

OTTAWA WAS RIGHT

The absurdity of the ridiculously ballyhooed Canadian-Russian cattle-oil proposal, which some months ago filled so many columns in Liberal newspapers, is emphasized by the fiasco which has overtaken the Washington Government in its efforts to open up trade relations with the Soviet Republics.

THE BORSTAL SYSTEM

Since the reference in the Throne Speech in Parliament to adopting the "Borstal" system of handling youthful criminal law offenders, many Canadians have been curious to know what this system is.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Board of Public Utilities, in the opinion of the Mayor and City Council, is a Board of Civic Inefficiency. Good news for those who wish to take in the Able-Wolverine game or do business—cheap coach fares from all over the Province to Charlottetown, Friday till Monday.

Notes By The Way

How Large Is A Piece Of Pie?

(Ottawa Journal)

The fact that a social system works is no proof whatever of its excellence, for everything from the ancient Turkish system of government by murder down to the modern form of government by bank credits has worked, and, at times, all of them have worked satisfactorily. But a faulty system of collective human relations produces storm centers which reveal themselves after a while in sudden outbursts.—W. E. Woodward.

A jury in Toronto found a man guilty of manslaughter in an accident in which he was driving a motor cycle and Mr. Justice Rose, who claimed that the man was undoubtedly guilty of reckless driving, protested that "as long as justice acquits men who are undoubtedly guilty of reckless driving, so long will my family and your families be in danger: on the highways of this province." The judge's protest raises a point which should be thought over very carefully.—Chatham News.

The new conception of industry to which we are rapidly coming is that it has a triple duty—to the consuming public to its proprietors and to its workers. To the public a firm must give good value, to its proprietors it must secure a reasonable return on their investment, and to its workers a fair reward for their labour.

A clerk's error in writing "1934" instead of "1935" may result in death for Cecil Short, condemned to be electrocuted in Texas but reprieved by ex-Governor "Ma" Ferguson. A judge has ruled that the error has rendered the reprieve null and that Cecil Short must die.

Hepburn As Iconoclast

(Mail and Empire) One wonders if in his school-days Mitch (now the Honorable Mr. Hepburn) ever dreamed that a major social controversy would one day revolve around him, but also involve his wife and the wives of all his most intimate associates.

The cost of living in the United States is going to take a jump, if the charts prepared by the New Deal forecasters in Washington are correct. Between now and June 1, it is estimated prices will undergo a steady rise. This, it is stated, will be due chiefly to increased employment, a great volume of business turnover and the expenditure of $4,000,000,000 on the recovery and relief budget.

When one is very ill the physician demands—silence. How much more in health, should each of us endeavor to ourselves this everlasting remedy for the "head of our money-day soul!" The future city is going to be much quieter. The clumsy street cars are going to be replaced with huge buses, with heavily treaded wheels which will make little noise upon the pavement.

At a caucus of the Government members of the Quebec Legislature it was indicated the Provincial election would be in May or June. But, said Premier Taschereau, if the Federal election is postponed till the Fall, the Quebec legislature might hold a fifth session.

If the Chadfield Painless Death Ray machine ever materializes as a commercial enterprise, then goodbye to the potato bug and other vegetable pests, for, according to the inventor, the ray is guaranteed to exterminate agricultural pests as well as humans.

Two points are stressed in the report of Mount Royal Cemetery Company, that are worthy of general application, viz: (1) The value of smaller and more artistic monuments, and the pleasing prospect of backgrounds of shrubs and trees; some cemeteries have been ruined by a vulgar display of wealth in huge monuments; (2) "Our leading cemeteries should keep pace with the best thought of the times, with the best theories of religion, science and economics. They should be, as the name implies, sleeping-places—plans of rest and freedom from intrusion."

Fathers and sons practising in the same courts of law are not uncommon, but it is somewhat rare to find them engaged on opposite sides in the same case. This happened in London the other day when Sir Douglas Egyptian Liniment is an excellent jelly wash for neck, back, arms, shoulders, wrists, hands, and quickly relieves bruises, sprains, swellings and joint stiffness.

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

That Body of Deeds

By James W. Barlow, M.D.

VITAMINS ARE IN THE USUAL DIETS About eight years ago there were three vitamins known to research workers, and to-day there are eight or more.

With the discovery of these substances came a great wave of enthusiasm regarding their importance in the food stuffs. To-day, while their importance is admitted, it is generally agreed that the adult individual finds a good supply of vitamins in his food so long as that food is varied, has received no artificial or accidental separation into parts and has had no destructive influence applied to it.

As you know, vitamins were never even suspected until it was found that certain foods more attractive, appetizing, and more easily prepared for cooking, had removed certain valuable substances from these foods. It was because these substances (vitamins) were removed in the manufacturing process that certain ailments—scurvy, wasting diseases, eye diseases—occurred.

However, it would seem that the pendulum has swung almost too far toward the need for "extra" vitamins to put in the various foods—milk, bread and others.

The thought then is that while babies and children may need extra vitamins, the average adult, if he eats a variety of natural foods including fruit and vegetables daily, need not think about vitamins at all.

The King's Jubilee

(Toronto Globe) Canada's observance of the Silver Jubilee of the accession of King George to the Throne will be none the less fervent in spirit because of the general determination to respect his Majesty's person which shall mark the celebrations.

The dominant thought of jubilee year in all British countries, of course, will be one of personal affection for a monarch whose twenty-five years of leadership has been so great in advancing the frontiers of democratic freedom and in establishing a new sense of oneness in the minds of the people.

It will signify no unseasonable giving way to dull care or heavy-headedness if while enjoying to the full the social entertainments, a good many people should find time for a few serious thoughts.

Those who re-examine in 1935 the spirit of citizenship—the Empire's greatest glory—will find no abridgement of either the right to grumble or the right to rejoice. The politicians will see to it, as usual, that there is no dearth of things to grumble about; and, as usual, they will put into manifestoes and speeches expansive accounts of their own zeal and devotion and self-sacrifices for the public weal.

Mr. John Citizen will listen to such talk—and appraise it for just what it is worth. And while he is listening he may reflect upon the quiet, untrumpeted efficiency with which the members of the reigning house have served the public interest in arduous day-to-day labors for twenty-five years.

Twelve British sovereigns since the time of William the Conqueror have served beyond the silver jubilee: Henry I., 35 years; Henry II., 35 years; Henry III., 56 years; Edward I., 35 years; Edward III., 50 years; Henry VI., 39 years; Henry VIII., 38 years; Elizabeth I., 45 years; Charles II., 25 years; George II., 33 years; George III., 60 years; and Victoria, 64 years.

It is significant of the trends of modern thought that in this jubilee year public sentiment should turn, not to ornate material establishments of the anniversary in good works like the memorials, but rather to a commemoration through which human suffering will be relieved and human life prolonged.

Newfoundland's Recovery

(Sydney Post-Record)

Although the statement has been frequently made that Newfoundland is a country of agricultural possibilities, until the advent of the new Commission Government the old attitude of mind persisted that, because of the shortness of the season and because the soil in many localities is not naturally fertile, it was not worth while to attempt farming or even gardening on a more extensive scale.

The outlook is changed. Agriculture has come to be regarded as an important factor in the country's economic scheme of things. The Government, in fact, has made development of the land the backbone of its recovery programme. In the past, in good fishing seasons, cultivation of the soil was deliberately neglected. The Government now plans that the land shall more consistently receive the attention it deserves.

The Commission Government is seeking only the attainable in this respect is shown in a "statement of policy" which disclaims all pretense that Newfoundland can produce staple products of the island's capacity.

Code Of A Family Rules The Mitsuis

(Winnipeg Tribune) In the Onipolish name of Rothschild is one that over a century of common consent, represents economic power and influence.

Each of the seven Mitsui families of today are under an identical code bound to it by formal written pledges, unchanged in the past 35 years. Then the older rules of 1876 were drawn up anew but practically the same in principle.
