PRESENTATION—For the past year Miss Georgie Harper was employed in the Dominion Government at Ottawa. Previous to her departure from that city she was waited on by the staff of the Central Pay Office, Department of Finance. After a few remarks by Mr. I. M. Morgan, Chief Treasury Officer, he presented her on behalf of the staff with a beautiful electric iron and electric toaster. Previous to her marriage, Miss Georgie Harper was also tendered a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Sellick of Ottawa, by her Island friends in that city. The bride-to-be was escorted to the seat of honor by Miss Anne MacDonald and after some pleasing remarks by Mr. Nesry Shelton, she was presented with several lovely gifts. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and sing songs.

17 Seamen Torpedoed Reach Safety
(William Stewart, Canadian Press Staff Writer)
A BRITISH PORT. Aug. 18—(CP Cable)—Seventeen torpedoed merchant seamen including two Canadians—John McNeil, 27, and Norman Bewsher, 19, both of New Victoria, N. S.—have landed at this port after spending 13 days in a lifeboat.
The exhausted men, members of the crew of a Norwegian ship sunk by a submarine in mid-Atlantic, were picked up three miles off the coast by a whaler which discovered their two lifeboats, lashed together.
The seamen said that altogether 32 members of the crew escaped the doomed ship in three lifeboats and they had learned that the 15 who were in the third boat were also picked up.
McNeill said he was in the ship's galley when the torpedo struck and "everything seemed to blow up around us."
U-Boat Surfaced
He told how the U-boat surfaced near the lifeboat and the commander, who "spoke very good English and seemed a decent sort" apologized for the sinking. "He asked us if we needed anything and when we asked for some food he sent below for tins of jam, bread, and a bottle of rum," McNeill said. "But the jam turned out to be bad."
"He noticed I was badly burned, and offered to take me on the U-boat. I did not relish the idea a bit. I told him I'd rather die on the lifeboat."
"He said 'please yourself', but gave orders for a box of ointment and some bandages to be brought up, and handed them to me."
Photographed, Thumbs Up
"While we were taking on the supplies one of the Nazi crew photographed us. It was too good a chance to miss, and we all gave our 'victory' or 'thumbs-up' sign. I don't think the picture will appear in German newspapers."
"Before his departure the U-boat commander told us the course to follow to the nearest land, and the German sailors, all youngsters of 17 to 19, waved to us. You would have thought it a pleasure cruise we were going on."
There were 11 men in McNeill's lifeboat and six in the other.

Tanton-Matheson Nuptials
The following is taken from an Montreal Exchange.—
A marriage of interest to many friends in Montreal and the Maritime was solemnized Friday afternoon at half-past four o'clock at Trinity Church, Sussex, N. B., when Marjorie daughter of Mrs. John Roper Matheson, of Juniper, N. B., became the bride of Dr. Townsend Muncey Tanton, of O'Leary, Prince Edward Island, son of Dr. Edwin T. Tanton, of Summerside, P. E. I. Rev. Canon Shewen, rector of Trinity Church, performed the ceremony.
The church was beautifully decorated with white phlox in the altar, and the chancel had a profusion of snapdragons, larkspur, delphinium in shades of pink, blue and rose. Mr. Norman Jewett, of Toronto, presided at the organ. During the singing of the register Mrs. J. Barry K. Bight, of Hillsborough, N. B., sang.
The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wallace Matheson, of Juniper, N. B., wore a gown of white chiffon, the full skirt falling slightly entwine. Her over the face veil was of fingertip length of bridal blue tulle and fell from a halo of orange blossoms which had been worn by her grandmother, Mrs. J. K. Flemming more than fifty years ago. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias, snapdragon and sweetpeas, tied with white chiffon. The maid of honor, Miss Eileen Cruikshank, of Westmount, wore a gown of shell pink chiffon, having a jacket made of the same material. Her shoulder length veil of shell pink, fell from a cluster of pink carnations and her bouquet was of pink carnations and larkspur tied with white and pink chiffon. As flower girl, Miss Angela Thompson of Sussex, cousin of the bride, wore a Kate Greenaway dress of pale green organza over taffeta, trimmed with a narrow pleating of self material and outlined with tiny black velvet bows. Her halo hat matched the dress and she carried an old fashioned nosegay in shades of yellow and mauve. The bridegroom was attended by Captain R. H. Muttart, of Aldershot, N. S., and the best man, Dr. T. A. Laidlaw of Sussex and Mr. Hugh John Flemming, Jr., of Juniper.
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Gerard Thompson, where the floral decorations were carried out with roses, sweetpeas and stocks in pastel shades. The guests were received by Mrs. Matheson, mother of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. Tanton, parents of the groom, and the bridal party. The toast to

Diamond - Harper Wedding
A very pretty and interesting wedding was solemnized at 2 o'clock, Saturday, Aug. 15th at the home of Mrs. George H. Harper, East Royalty, when her daughter, Miss Georgie Roddick, became the bride of Mr. Neil Diamond, Windsor. Rev. J. R. Skinner performed the ceremony.
To the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. Harold Stead, the bride entered the living-room on the arm of her uncle, Mr. John B. Roper, and took her place beneath an evergreen arch, beautifully decorated with summer flowers and yellow and white streamers. The bride looked charming in a floor length gown of shell pink sheer over satin, fashioned with shirred waistline and long full sleeves. She wore a finger tip bridal veil of pink silk net, Swiss embroidered in Daisy design, and carried a bouquet of Talsman roses and maiden hair fern.
The bride's only attendant was her little four-year-old niece, Miss Isabel Stead, as flower girl, who looked sweet in a floor length dress of blue taffeta with matching bonnet. She carried a prettily decorated basket of mixed flowers and preceded the bride to the arch.
The bride's mother wore Queen's blue sheer with a corsage of Briar Cliff roses and the groom's mother, and deep pink roses.

Following the reception, Miss Esther Harper ushered the guests to the dining-room where a buffet luncheon was served. The room was suitably decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, candles and cut flowers. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake.
Mrs. M.W. Wood presided over the tea cups and Mrs. A. Auld, sister of the groom, cut the ices. Those assisting with the serving were Mrs. Fred Roper, Mrs. Wendell Wood, Mrs. William Hambley, Mrs. Brent Stead, Misses Anne MacDonald, Orva Gill, and Jessie Harper.
Amid showers of confetti and rice, the happy couple left by motor on a short honeymoon trip to New Brunswick. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of printed blue crepe with navy and white accessories.
Among the many and costly gifts received was a lovely silver vasesh from the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia where the groom is employed.
The Guardian joins with numerous friends in extending heartfelt congratulations to the young couple. (Patrol please copy)
