ST. JAMES CHURCH

At St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday morning the Rev. Dr. R. Moorhead Legate, taking as his text, "The church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth", preached a pointed and timely sermon on what the church is and what it stands for. At the evening service he repeated a sermon which he preached two years ago on the importance of small things and especially the necessity for studied watchfulness over all our thoughts, words and actions. His text was from Proverbs 25:11, "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver". In the morning the special music consisted of the anthem "If Ye Love Me" (Simper) in which Mrs. J. A. Lawson sang the solo. In the evening the choir sang the anthem, "Just A I am" (Bowles).

In Memoriam

MR. JOHN E. QUILTY

After a long, painful illness heroically borne, one of the best known and most highly respected residents of South Shore passed peacefully away on Friday, April 14, 1939, the person of John E. Quilty. About nine years ago Mr. Quilty was laid aside from business, and since that time has been a sufferer from that insidious disease, arthritis, and despite the close attention of medical skill and the constant ministrations of a loving family and the solicitude and co-operation of generous neighbors, death, the grim reaper, finally triumphed. Of a naturally sociable and generous nature, he accepted the heavy cross of complete invalidism and though suffering most of the time, he received his friends with composure. His passing was a fitting close to an exemplary Christian life and those about were deeply edified by his heroic patient and perfect resignation to the will of the Divine Redeemer.

The deceased was born at South Shore sixty-two years ago, and lived there all his life. He belonged to one of the oldest and most respected families in the province. He was the oldest son of the late Patrick Quilty and Mary Hogan, an industrious, capable and successful farmer, and a man of irreproachable character and sterling integrity, he by his thrift, intelligence, honorable dealing and keen insight in the welfare of the community, won a high place in the minds and hearts of a wide circle of friends. By his death South Shore parish has lost a charitable neighbor, the Catholic Church, a pious and talented member and his family an ideal husband and a kind indulgent father.

Great as the loss of his passing is to those who loved him, greater is it to his sorrowing widow, formerly Miss Laura Roberts, Middleton, P. E. I., and two young sons, namely: John Mark and William Patrick. Poignantly indeed, must they feel the loss of so faithful and loving a husband, so affectionate and devoted a father, and so confident in all-wise God cannot fail to sustain them in this their hour of affliction, for though the ploom of sorrow may at first seem impervious to mortal eyes, hope still sees a star, and faith and love is able to penetrate the darkest cloud. He also leaves to mourn one sister and four brothers: These are Annie; Mrs. Bernard Coady, Vernon River; Patrick in Gross Valley, California; Thomas in Melton, Sask.; Richard in Nelscom, Sask., and Walter on the old homestead, South Shore. A sister and a brother predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral was held on Sunday, April 16th, to St. Martin's Church and cemetery. There was a large attendance of citizens to pay a last tribute of respect to one who had so worthily filled his place in the community for so many years. A High Mass of Requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father Cecil Morneau C. S. R. of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer staff, Charlottetown, who also officiated at the grave-side. There with the solemn committal rites, his mortal remains were laid away to mingle with its parent dust and to await a glorious resurrection.

The following gentlemen were pall bearers: Messrs. Joseph Dorion, William Sheery, Wellington Murphy, Michael Sinnott, Allison MacMillan and Garnet Campbell.

To his grief-stricken widow and two children his kinship to his sister and brothers, The Guardian extends heartfelt sympathy.

At South Shore no more we'll hear, The voice of one we love so dear, His soul has left the dust behind, And bid adieu to all mankind. His days of sorrow are all over, He feels the pain of arthritis no more. He let his friends to weep and sigh, He's gone to meet his God on high.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

For the morning service in the Baptist Church, the Rev. Harvey L. Lenon, B. D. took as his subject, "Breaching Men Up". In his rendering of the epistle to St. Timothy, Paul refers to Onesiphorus "many a time he braced me up. When many followers of Jesus, dismayed by the high standards of the Kingdom, fell away, Jesus turned to the needy and inanimate group with 'will ye also go away?' Said Paul offered the word of encouragement, 'to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. Even by the strongest of words of deed of encouragement, bracing men up, is often needed. That we may serve well in this respect we must be interested in people, rather than things, we must have a sympathy with the needs of mankind, we must have a keen eye for the needs and problems of the people, rather than things, we must have the ready heart and hand. All need for sustaining, for bracing up, a sense of God near, upholding leading, empowering.

The large evening congregation heard an inspiring sermon on "The Technique of Christian Living". The anthem of the evening was "Oakeley's Evening and Morning" in which the mixed quartette was taken by Messrs. Campbell, Burns, Messrs. Quilty, Jones, Miss Vera E. M. Campbell sang expressively Katherine Tynan's "Sheep and Lambs" in the setting by Holm-

The band is well equipped with the finest body of musicians, the organization of which is in no little part due to the support and generosity of His Honour Lieutenant Governor DeLois.

Will Conduct Inspection On First Aid Work

Four teams in Charlottetown, competing for trophies in first aid work, will be examined on Monday and Tuesday of this week by Col. A. E. Snell, M. D., C. M. G., D. S. O., Ottawa, director of ambulance of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem it was learned last night. Col. Snell arrived in the City Saturday night, completing his tour of the Maritime Provinces.

Teams to be examined here include one each from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the 21st Field Ambulance, St. Dunstan's University and one composed of Scout Masters.

Trophies are assigned according to the classification of the team, it was explained. This is the first time senior teams from this Province competed it was understood, although a junior team from Quebec's Ecole St. Jean entered the competition two years ago.

A provincial branch of St. John's Ambulance was formed about a year and a half ago and since then considerable training work has been done, fostered by Col. J. E. Blake of the 21st Field Ambulance and Col. H. D. Johnson.

Col. Snell retired four years ago from the Canadian Forces in Canada, in which he held the position of Director General of Medical Services, to take up his present position. The work of examination of teams for this year would be completed in July. Col. Snell anticipated, and announcement of awards made probably in August.

Many ex-service men in this Province will recall Col. Snell, who was A. D. M. S. of the 3rd Division Canadian expeditionary force in France during the Great War. Col. Snell, who is staying at the Canadian National Hotel, will remain in the City until Wednesday. He then returns to Ottawa a few weeks before going to Saskatchewan to complete his work in the western provinces.

Physical Classes Annual Demonstration

The annual physical demonstration of the Y.M.C.A. was staged Friday night before an interested group of spectators in the Prince of Wales Coliseum Auditorium.

The boys and girls who were trained by George Geary, physical instructor, and Miss Leila Worthy, girls instructor, respectively, did credit to the address as they went through the various routines for which the program called.

The value of the exercises to growing boys and girls was readily realized. A bit of free movement gymnastics by the "Comers Girls", for instance, brought into play most of the more important muscles in the body in the course of a drill of some five minutes in length.

Other numbers were also interesting, especially the Spring Board tumbling, the Pyramids and other apparatus work. Edwin Johnstone, a member of the board of directors, presided.

The program was as follows: Grand March and "O Canada" - Combined Classes.
Free movement Gymnastics - Comers G.R.
Springboard and Horse - Comers Boys.
"Captain Jenks" - "Skipping" - Comers G.R.
Pyramids - Junior Boys.
Line Gymnastics - Junior Girls.
Springboard tumbling - Intermediate boys.
Presentation of medals and badges for attendance by Dr. J.A. Clark, President of the Y.M.C.A.
Tumbling - Intermediate girls.
Vaulting the Elephant - Intermediate boys.
Marching Formations - Intermediate girls.
Tumbling - Senior men.
Sporting exercises - Intermediate girls.
Parallel bars - George Geary.
God Save the King.

SOME FORM

was the use of relying on British military assistance as long as conscription was not used to enroll a land force. That cry has been raised in several countries where a nation's citizens still measured by the numerical size of its army.

France also is pressing Britain to establish conscription as the best deterrent to aggression.

France originally made her representations some months ago but since both countries have collaborated in guaranteeing the independence of Poland, Rumania and Greece, they have been renewed and strengthened.

These arguments for conscription of course disregard Britain's air and naval strength but the Balkan countries still question Britain's ability to go to their rescue against aggression with a comparatively small land force.

Disagree On Form
The drive for conscription has lost part of its effectiveness by the inability of propagandists to agree on what is meant by conscription. Only a small number are suggesting conscription on continental lines. Most of them favor either military training for youth of 18 to 21 and a compulsory national register of the powers to build up the territorial and regular armies and their reserves to wartime strength.

There is no doubt the Government will insist on conscription in wartime but from time to time Prime Minister Chamberlain has declared his opposition to it during peace. However he said the same thing about a military of supply, and those favoring conscription have taken courage from his decision to establish a separate government department to speed up delivery of army supplies.

The Sunday Express and Observer both published editorials today in favor of conscription and Bishop Furze of St. Albans in his diocesan magazine expressed belief that if the government of 1918 introduced a system of "not merely conscription to fight but of national service for everyone, the Great War would have been fin-

REGAL GOWNS FOR ROYAL WEDDING

The wedding of Princess Marie of Savoy and Prince Louis of Bourbon Parma, which took place recently, was one of the most regally gowned ceremonies to take place in Rome since the wedding of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Italy.

The bridegroom's sister-in-law, Princess Xavier of Bourbon Parma, chose two court gowns from Maggy Rouff for the celebration. One for wear at the religious ceremony and the other a pale blue satin with a court train of sapphire blue velvet, the top of the corsage and sleeves embroidered with arabesques of silver thread and sapphires.

The second of white faille, was embroidered with mother of pearl and silver sequins. A formal evening gown in midnight blue satin with skirt and bodice of pale blue satin with fitted corsage, the top of which curls back like two petals, is set off by two bows of the material.
