OLD SYDNEY TIEUP ENDS

FLORENCE, N.S., May 6.—(CP)—The first tieup in two years at Old Sydney Collieries Ltd., Florence Pt., ended tonight with the mine's 600 employees due to return to work tomorrow after a two-day tieup over a wage dispute. The mine, which produces about 1,100 tons of coal daily, was tied up Thursday and Friday when 15 snooters asked for payment on a daily basis, instead of the contract payment system now in effect.

Simultaneously, the 5th Army from Italy invaded southern Austria at two points, applying pressure from the south while the 3rd Army was ripping miles deep into that dismembered nation from the north.

The German 7th Army fell back toward Czechoslovakia, 50 miles northeast of Pilsen, as the 3rd Army struck along a 175-mile front from Eger in northwestern Czechoslovakia to Steyer, 20 miles southeast of Austria's third city of Linz.

The fall of Pilsen, second city in Czechoslovakia, and the capture of the famed Skoda Munitions Works, carried the 3rd Army 45 miles inside Czechoslovakia.

Broadcasts from Prague said the Capital was torn by confused fighting.

The 1st Canadian, British 2nd and United States 9th Armies are sorting the more than 1,000,000 German soldiers who laid down their arms last week.

The 9th Army began withdrawing from east of the Elbe to a previously-agreed upon American-Russian line of demarcation somewhere west of that river.

In Memoriam

WILLIAM A. MACDONALD

The community of Grand Tracadie was greatly shocked and saddened on March 31, 1945 by the sudden passing of William A. MacDonald, one of its most highly respected residents at the age of seventy-one years.

He was a life-long member of the community and by his exemplary family life, devotion to duty, and ready willingness to do, in every worthwhile effort for the advancement and welfare of his church and community he was esteemed by all who knew him.

He was anxiously looking forward to the consecration of his son Francis to the Holy Priesthood, and to the return of his sons from Overseas but God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to call his faithful servant before these desires were realized.

He leaves to mourn besides his sorrowing wife, two daughters and six sons—Eileen, N. R. (Charlottetown); Margaret (Mrs. Harold Mitchell), Bedford; Francis, Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax; Eugene and John, Canadian Army Overseas; Leonard, R. C. Navy Overseas; and Kenneth and William J. at home. Also two brothers: Eustasius, Grand Tracadie and James A. Donaldson.

The funeral was held Monday morning, April 2, from St. Michael's Church, Corran Bann, where Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by his nephew Rev. William V. MacDonald, D. D., assisted by Rev. Francis MacDonald (son of

Negotiations in Italy Resemble Spy Thriller

By NOLAN NORGAARD
ROME, May 7.—(AP)—Two Allied Generals—ostensibly hunting for a Dachshund in Switzerland—actually started negotiations early in March for surrender of the German and Italian Fascist armies in northern Italy, but Heinrich Himmler's spies and suspicious helped force a delay in the capitulation, Allied Headquarters disclosed today.

Alexander's stumbling block in the negotiations of Maj.-Gen. T. S. Airey of the British Army and Maj.-Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer of the United States Army with Gen. Karl Wolff of the S. S. was the transfer of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring from Italy to command in the west.

Resembles Spy Thriller

This account of the negotiations—which at times resembled incidents from a typical spy thriller—was issued by Field Marshal Alexander's Headquarters.

In February Allied agents in Switzerland and enemy-held territories informed headquarters that certain groups of German generals were convinced the war was lost, and were prepared to discuss possible surrender negotiations.

The first concrete word came March 2 when agents in Switzerland reported two German officers had reached the Swiss frontier and wanted to establish communications with Allied officials.

One German said that subject to confirmation by March 6, he would return March 8 with full credentials and definite proposals after consultations at the Headquarters of Wolff, top S.S. officer in Italy.

Wolff and two other officers arrived at the Swiss border March 8. Field Marshal Alexander promptly notified the Allied Governments that if the overtures appeared genuine, he could send two senior staff officers to Switzerland to make contact.

For the job, he chose Gen. Lemnitzer, deputy chief of staff at Allied Headquarters, and Gen. Airey, assistant chief of the staff of intelligence at Allied Headquarters.

Among their instructions were that "they were under no circumstances to conduct negotiations but to instruct the Germans that if they wanted to surrender they must come to Allied Headquarters in Caserta to accept unconditional surrender."

Communications between Caserta and German Headquarters, and to "make clear to the Germans that the discussion at Allied Headquarters would deal with the methods of surrender purely on a military and not on a governmental or political basis."

Meanwhile, Allied agents in Switzerland reported Wolff had told them he was prepared to act and felt he could persuade Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, then commander of German armies in Italy, to join him.

Gen. Lemnitzer and Gen. Airey flew to Lyon, France, on March 13, changed into civilian clothing and drove to the Swiss border, where they adopted assumed names taken from the identification tags of two American soldiers they met in France.

Word came that it was possible to see Wolff near Locarno, and on the deceased) as Deacon, Rev. George A. MacDonald as Sub-Deacon and Rev. William Simpson as Master of Ceremonies. Occupying seats in the sanctuary were Rev. R. V. MacKenzie, Rector of St. Dunstan's University, Rev. John Sullivan, St. Dunstan's, and his pastor, Rev. Kenneth MacPherson. Rev. Bernard Gillis assisted in the choir.

The pall bearers were—Messrs. Michael Robison, Thomas McCabe, Edward Watts, Joseph MacDonald, Joseph MacKinnon and Peter Hughes.

May his soul rest in peace.

He's Kicked Out... And He Gets the Job

Nazis in Italy Surrender

Two German officials, in civilian clothes, at left, receive unconditional surrender terms from Lt. Gen. W. D. Morgan, right, Chief of Staff of AFHQ in Italy. Terms were arranged in a terse nine-minute conference at American headquarters in Caserta. At this meeting, representatives of General von Vietinghoff, German southwest commander, and Obergruppen Fuehrer Karl Wolff, German General Plenipotentiary of the Wehrmacht in Italy, surrounded all Nazi forces under their command.

Axis Surrender in Italy

Battle Veterans Return Home

After years of sacrifice, hardships and the horrors and triumphs of warfare these Canadian soldiers come home. They have vanquished the Nazi superman and now they're just waiting aboard ship for the order to disembark. It's a bright day in port and the army photographer caught the men in an informal—and rather impatient—pose. The majority have receipts for Eighth Loan Victory Bonds in their pockets, too.
