WILL QUESTION COL. SEELY'S APPOINTMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The promotion of Colonel Seely to the rank of Brigadier-General, and his appointment to command the Canadian cavalry, is to be the subject of a question in the House of Commons on Monday. Lord Charles Beresford asks what are his qualifications, and whether or not a feeling of irritation exists, both among the contingent and in the Dominion, because distinguished Canadian officers have been passed over.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Gentlemen.—Last Winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of Inflammation.

Exquisite Gem-Set Rings

TALES TOLD BY MEN IN THE FIGHTING LINES ON LAND AND ON SEA

A supply officer writes: "A supply officer's job is a very responsible one. He has to keep everyone contented. A regimental officer will come to him and say: 'We were forty rations of tea short yesterday.' 'Were you?' says the supply officer. 'By Jove, you are lucky!' The Kents were ninety yet. Here's some extra tea for you." He has to be very tactful and keep everyone's spirit high. The troops little know what anxiety he is going through. A signal has gone wrong on the railway line and the train is late. 'When will the train get here?' 'Those rations of tea are waiting for you and try and buy some bread. Where on earth can I get fresh meat? I have scoured the whole country in vain!'"

MIDNIGHT WALTZES TO MOUTH-CRAN MUSIC.

An officer writes: "The 113th Battery has been commended again and again for its accurate firing, which has created much havoc among the enemy. We have been at it for several days and nights, which, of course, a great strain on us all, but still the spirit of the troops is jolly and cheerful. We have occasional midnight waltzes here (when we cease firing for a few minutes), the music being supplied by our own organ, treasured by one of our numbers. I believe he would sooner lose his dinner than be deprived of his music. We do not lose all the dainty dishes we were accustomed to at home, a favorite dish out here being cheese fried in milk, to which is added a little jam and a bit of a mix-up, but it is very nice."

BLESSED ON WAY TO TRENCHES.

Rev. W. K. Griffin, a chaplain to the forces, writes: "We are all most interested in the midday waltzes. It is pitiful to see the men arrive from the trenches, many of them quite unable to walk, and the best of them merely hobble along. This is due to the effects of continually standing in the water. Some of the trenches are watered in a slimy water mud, but all of them are watered. I have not been able to do much in the way of services lately owing to constant moving about, and the C.O. is not keen on open-air services. I got the C.O.'s permission to say a few words and to give the Benediction to each company separately as they stand for the trenches. I stand at a certain place on the road to the trenches. Each company as they come stand at ease, and then I speak."

CHURCH SERVICE AT THE FRONT.

A bombardier writes:—"I have just been to a church service, the second one since we came out. We don't get many opportunities for them, worse than that, it was held in a barn. You can just picture it, seven or eight lanterns hanging about the men sitting at long tables with the officers sitting at the head. Just to give a homely touch to it were two women and two children from the farm. 'It seemed all so peaceful one would imagine it to be home at night instead of on the firing line with an occasional shell flying around. It was only a short field service, but very nice though. I wonder what your people at home would think of the last service we had was on a loft in a house, rather different from a church at home but still it was church just the same."

GREAT BRITAIN DECLARES CONTRABAND

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Great Britain's reply to the American note on the Wilhelmina case, which was handed today to Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador, follows:—"The communication made by the United States ambassador in a note to Sir Edward Grey, of the 18th instant, has been carefully considered, and the following observations are offered in reply:—"At the time when his majesty's government gave directions for the seizure of the cargo of the steamship Wilhelmina as contraband, the vessel had before them the text of a decree made by the German federal council on the 28th of January, under article 45 of which, all grain and flour imported into Germany after the 31st of January, was declared deliverable only to certain organizations under direct government control or to municipal authorities. The vessel was bound for Hamburg, one of the free cities of the German empire, the government of which is vested in the municipality. This was one of the reasons actuating his majesty's government in deciding to bring the cargo of the Wilhelmina before a prize court. "Information has only now reached us that by a subsequent decree dated the 6th of February, the above provision in article 45 of the previous decree was repealed, it would appear for the express purpose of rendering difficult the anticipated proceedings against the Wilhelmina. The repeal was not known to his majesty's government at the time of the detention of the cargo, or indeed until now. How far the ostensible exception of imported supplies from the general government monopoly of all grain and flour set by the German government, may affect the question of contraband nature of the shipments seized, is a matter which will most suitably be investigated by the prize court. "It is however, necessary to state that the German decree is not the only ground on which the submission at the prize court is justified. The German government have in public announcement claimed to treat practically every town or port on the English east coast as a fortified place and base of operations. "On the strength of this contention, they have subjected to bombardment the towns of Yarmouth, Scarborough and Whitby among others. On the same ground a number of neutral vessels, sailing for English ports on the east coast, with cargoes of goods on the German list of conditional contraband, have been seized by German cruisers and brought before a German prize court. "Again, the Dutch vessel, Maria, having sailed from California with a cargo of grain, consigned to Dublin, was sunk in September last by the German cruiser Karlsruhe. This could only have been justified if, among other things, the cargo could have been proved to be destined for the British government or for armed forces and with their unoffending crews, it was, so his majesty's government held, open to them to take retaliatory measures even if such measures were of a kind to involve pressure on the civil population, not, indeed, of neutral states, but of their enemies. They refrained from doing so. We subsequently eight towns and defenceless British subjects, including women and children, were deliberately and systematically fired upon and killed by ships flying the flag of the imperial German navy; void of defenses and possessing no military or naval importance, were bombarded by German airships, his majesty's government still abstained from drawing the logical consequences from this form of attack on defenceless citizens. "Further steps in the same direction are not announced, and, in fact, have already been taken by Germany. British merchant vessels have been torpedoed at sight, without an attempt being made to give warning to the crew, or any opportunity being given to save their lives. A torpedo has been fired against a British hospital ship in daylight, and similar treatment is threatened to all British merchant vessels in the future, as well as to any neutral ships that may happen to be found in the neighborhood of the British Isles.

MR. CHARLES McDONALD.

The many friends of Mr. Charles McDonald will deeply regret his death which took place at his late residence, 55 Dorchester St., Charlottetown, on the morning of Feb. 13th, at the advanced age of 72 years. The late Mr. McDonald was born at Vernon River Bridge and when a young man besides farming he learned to be a ship carpenter, which occupation he followed for many years in the employment of the McRae Company, of Orwell, and Charles J. McDonald, of Vernon River Bridge, who carried on a very extensive business at that time. He came to the city to live about 14 years ago where he renewed his occupation in the repairing of steamers and vessels, besides other carpenter work which a man of his ability was well able to do. About a year ago his health began to fail him and despite all that medical skill and kind attentions could do he passed away to the happy land where sorrow and death cannot enter. His spiritual welfare was attended to by the Rev. Pius McDonald and the Rev. Peter Duffy. The latter administered to him the last rites of the Catholic Church. There was a large attendance at the funeral which took place on Monday morning at 8.45 to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, where a Requiem High Mass was sung by the Rev. Father Pius McDonald, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, where his remains were consigned to their last resting place by the Rev. Father McDonald, there to await the sound of the Angel's trumpet which shall call us all together on the last day. He leaves a widow, four daughters, two sons and an adopted child, and one brother, James, who resides in Summerside, mourn the loss of his dear husband, true brother and affectionate father.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JOHN D. MCMILLAN.
It is a painful duty to chronicle the death of Mrs. John D. MacMillan, which occurred at the Prince Edward Island Hospital on Monday, the 22nd inst. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Hector C. MacMillan, Government Engineer, and was in the forty-seventh year of her age. Although a great sufferer from rheumatism, the health up to Sunday, the 14th instant, when she contracted a heavy cold, was quick and lively enough to put her through the other fellow's arm he has done well—if we can put a bullet through the German's head he has done excellently well.

MRS. R. H. RAMSAY.

The sad and sudden death of Gertrude Eliza, dearly loved wife of R. Heber Ramsay and daughter of Margaret L. and the late Geo. A. Stanley, which occurred at her home on Gratton Street, January 3rd, came as a sad shock to her many friends. The late Mrs. Ramsay, who was in her 48th year, retired in her usual health about 11.30 p. m., Jan. 2nd, but awoke about 3 a. m., complaining about severe pains in the head. In a few moments she sank into an unconscious condition, and though attended by the best medical skill in the city, continued to suffer until about 4 p. m., when she passed away. Of a bright and cheerful disposition she was much loved by her family and friends. Kind and generous almost to a fault, no needy cause or individual ever turned from her door empty away. Much sympathy is being expressed for the bereaved ones

NATURE'S DOCTOR

Regal
A stylish, muscle action health boot built on approved anatomical lines that gives tired feet, twisted bones and five toes a chance to live, breathe and grow as Nature intended.

Heel. The last is designed to maintain proper balance and throw weight of body on the bony structure on the outside of the foot. Snug heel seat prevents throwing undue weight forward on transverse arch.

Flexible Shank. (No steel stiffening). Allows the foot all the spring and resilience of action Nature intended to strengthen the muscles that support the arch.

Corset Grip Instep Support. The last is whittled out under the arch while the insole and outsole are cut in deeply at the shank and the uppers are fitted with "right and left" patterns so the shoe hugs tightly on the instep and a corset grip is produced. When laced over the instep it acts like a bandage for the weak arch, assists in proper distribution of weight and affords a support until the muscles acquire normal strength.

Toe Freedom. Secured by a last built on straight lines on inside from toe to heel. Note Nature's Last illustrated. Comfortable swing on outside to allow toes to expand under pressure.

EMBODYING every essential feature specified by leading surgeons to maintain normal feet and cure incipient cases of fallen arch.
