The gifts were opened by her sister, Zilda, and the accompanying verses were read by another sister, Rose. Dainty refreshments were served, and a most enjoyable evening was spent in dancing. The young people left wishing the bride-to-be many years of future happiness.

Victoria and Vicinity

The lobster fishermen are busily engaged making traps and overhauling their gear generally in preparation for spring fishing.

Miss Gertrude Howatt has returned home recently after spending the winter months in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. W. Bertram Trowsdale was obliged to enter Prince County Hospital for treatment on Monday last.

Mr. Harold Betts, Nine Mile Creek, was a visitor to Victoria over the Easter holidays, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Inman.

The P. W. C. student, Misses Isabel Inman, Jean Boswell, Annie Morrison, and Mr. Howard Lord, spent the Easter holidays at their respective homes.

Captain Harry C. Brown returned last week from a business trip to Sydney, N. S.

Victoria lost one of its oldest residents in the person of Kenneth C. Holm, aged 87 years, who passed away on March 22 last, after being unwell for a short time only.

Miss Annie MacDougall is visiting in Victoria, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. S. Inman.

The social Friday evening meetings in the hall continue to draw large attendances. These entertainments make up quite a bit to offset the loss of the rink.

Mr. Isaac Stewart and Mr. James McIntosh of Rose Valley were around last week, collecting money to help Mr. Murdock A. MacKinnon build a new house. Mr. MacKinnin had the misfortune to lose his house by fire last Thursday. There was a small insurance. We commend Messrs. Stewart and MacIntosh on their efforts to help the distressed.

The highways are now being broken out for spring traffic after meandering through fields and yards all winter. Now that the election is over, the thoughts of residents turn to the possibility of a paved road through the villages of Victoria and Crapaud. They are looking forward to it as an accomplished fact in the not too distant future. Here is a fine shipping port with ample warehouse room; here is a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, a large general store, a commodious hotel, a busy fishing centre and around it the finest farming land to be found anywhere. The residents hope that this will be given most favorable consideration by the powers that be.

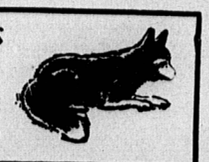
TIMELY NOTES ON TOPICS CONNECTED WITH Silver Fox Farming



Knowing how anxious our readers are to keep au fait with the fur markets we take pleasure in publishing the appended very interesting information received from Peter G. Clark of the Prince Edward Island Fur Pool, Ltd., Summerside.

"Fox ranchers, farmers, business and professional men and bankers, all of whom have enjoyed a share of the annual financial return from silver fox pelts for many years, this week have additional reason to regard the industry with increased respect. If anyone knows of any industry of any kind whatsoever that has withstood such lack of faith, neglect, inflation, deflation and general abuse, we would like to hear of it. With such a general outcry of blue ruin that thousands of ranchers cleaned out last fall the silver fox business has come through the first seven months of war with flying colors. Many ranchers became panic stricken at the outbreak of the war and dumped their pelts at sacrifice prices into the hands of itinerant buyers, who in turn flooded the market with these pelts where they were offered at extremely low prices.

In spite of this action as soon as these pelts have generally been cleared a gradual but convincing market improvement has been in evidence since the conclusion of the January sales in London, until today silver fox pelts are realizing prices which could not be obtained at the same season last year. The London auction sales have been in progress throughout the present week with amazing results. In spite of, or possibly because of, conditions, the percentage of clearances is the largest for many years. Prior to the sale all the offerings were inspected by a large number of buyers. The Hudson's Bay Company opened the series on Monday and continued until Thursday forenoon. Approximately 37,000 pelts were presented by this Company with 88 per cent sold. Throughout its sale the attendance was good with buying largely done by the London brokers who purchased for the home trade and also for foreign accounts. Prices are officially reported for the Company as 42 1-2 per cent above January, 1940, sales level, while unofficial observers report greater advances in some types.

Messrs. Anning, Chadwick and Kiever followed the Hudson's Bay Company and at the time of writing report a clearing of 98 per cent of their offering at a price advance of 50 per cent compared with their January auctions. They will be followed by Messrs. Eastwood & Holt. There is no sale today, Saturday. On Monday next Messrs. C. M. Lampson & Co. Ltd. will present their offering and the series is expected to conclude by Wednesday next.

In Paris where business has been at a standstill from the outbreak of the war until recently, the demand for silver fox has caused a modification of restriction and pelts are once more moving quite freely there, although no new Canadian offerings have as yet been allowed to enter France.

The New York markets continue to remain firm and at the auction held there last week the high levels of previous sales were fully maintained and the bulk of the entire offering was cleared.

Sales take place in Montreal beginning April 16th and Mr. Pingree, the General Manager of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Ltd., anticipates an offering of about 12,000 pelts as compared with about 6,000 in April, 1939.

Among the ranchers whose pelts have been sold at very nice prices during the last week or two we note from our records the name of Colonel R. Hunter Young of Winnipeg, for whom a pelt was disposed of at $62.00. The matching skin paired with this one and realizing the same price was owned by Mr. Norman Johnston of Summerside. Two pelts from the ranch of Mrs. M. J. Robichaud and owned by Mr. J. Quigg of Metaghan, Digby County, N. S., (which is in the heart of the famous French shore district) were sold for $65.00 each. Again amongst the producers of high class pelts we note the name of Layton Rogers of Kensington for whom pelts have recently been sold for over $60.00"

Colonel U. G. Dawson of the Charlottetown Fur Pool, Ltd., claims that the silver fox industry is due for a comeback next season, or perhaps the better way to put it would be a nearer approximation of supply to demand than has existed the past three seasons. "It is a fact," said the genial Colonel, "that the Norweigans have made very deep cuts in their silver fox breeding stock, turning their attention more and more to the development of the platinas and blues. The other Scandinavian countries —Sweden and Finland —have made similar cuts while Canadian breeding stock as we all know, has been reduced fully 33 1-3 per cent. The Americans too, although they did not suffer such a severe decline in prices, have eliminated a large number of foxes from their breeding pens, particularly the darker types, so that it is safe to assume that the world's production for 1940 will not exceed 600,000 pelts.

"Canada, I figure, will produce about as follows: Prince Edward Island, 35,000; Nova Scotia, 15,000; New Brunswick, 25,000; Quebec, 25,000; Ontario 25,000; Manitoba, 15,000; Saskatchewan, 15,000; British Columbia, 5,000; total, 160,000 pelts. The quota that we can ship into the United States will take up about 58,000 of these and Canada is capable of absorbing 60,000 more, leaving only an exportable surplus of 42,000 pelts. These should be readily saleable to Mexico, South America, and through London to Australia, South Africa and other countries."

The above are heartening words and we all need the spark of courage and hope to be kept alive as we have certainly all suffered severely from the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" the past two years. Even if we can just get by this year and the world production is held down to reasonable figures for a few years there is a chance of our industry coming back to a profitable basis.

All our readers have noted no doubt with interest the talks that have been going on in London and Paris towards the economic fusion of Great Britain and France and their Empires for the prosecution of this war and after. There are great potentialities in such a union which would no doubt attract many of the small neutrals to its orbit and give us Canadians an opportunity as members of the British Empire to market many of our products such as furs on a better basis than formerly.

Allan H. Snow, for many years a valued employee of the Hudson's Bay Company, Montreal, struck out for himself a few months ago as we noted in this column, establishing a place of business at 5686 Monkland Avenue, Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal. We are pleased to report that business with him has far exceeded expectations and among his clients who brought silver fox pelts were several Prince Edward Island ranchers. We hope in the near future to have some comments from Mr. Snow on the silver fox and mink outlook. His opinion will be valuable as he has had a great opportunity through the years to study trends.

Congratulations to Arthur H. Roper, Mount Edward Road, who was delighted the other morning beyond measure when he looked at one of his best female's family and counted —nine! This seems to be the record from what we have heard. Who can beat it?

A big crowd and keen buying marked the opening of the Hudson's Bay Company's silver fox sale at London, England, last Monday when 36,832 silver fox pelts were placed on sale. The first day saw 90 per cent sold with prices estimated by the sales room to be up 25 per cent in the average, with cheaper goods up 30 to 35 percent. London was the dominant buyer with South America buying the fine quality full silvers. Belgium was the best buyer of the cheap grades. There was a smaller proportion of Canadian skins in the catalogue than usual at this time of year. They amounted to a little more than 50 per cent of the offering instead of the usual 80 per cent.

The good results obtained on Monday were continued on the following days and on Thursday evening the Hudson's Bay Company announced that 88 per cent of the 36,832 silver fox pelts had been sold and that the average price advance for all grades was 42 1-2 per cent compared with prices paid at the January sale; further that the average advance for low grades was 65 per cent. They give averages for individual grades as follows: full silvers average $26.85; three-quarter silvers, average $23.95; half-silvers, average $21.85; quarter silvers, average $16.85; dark and slightly silvery, average $13.55.

Just a few days prior to the Hudson's Bay sale Herbert A. Nieman & Company, who next to Fromm's are the largest producers of silver fox pelts in the world, offered 12,874 skins at auction in New York. There was an eager demand for the merchandise and at the conclusion of the sale it was announced that 95 per cent was sold at an average of $35.02. Here are the average prices for colorings: full silvers, average $36.87; three-quarter silvers, average $27.91; one-half silvers, average $21.27.

It will be interesting to note the difference in price averages between New York and London. For the fulls New York has the advantage of about $10.00 average per pelt. For the three-quarter silvers New York also has an advantage of about $4.00 per pelt, while the London average for half-silvers of $21.85 is 58 cents per skin higher than the New York average. Peculiarly and perhaps something to be noted as presaging a change in the future is that the darker pelts were heavily sold in both markets, three-quarters and halves in New York being almost completely bought. As mentioned before in these notes we had better hang on to some of our good three-quarters and mediums, yes, even very superior dark silvers, because the trend to the lighter stuff may eventually peter out or at least be halted.

Just a brief note that perhaps may be helpful. Numerous ranchers have called up stating that females were having difficulties with their litters. We advised to add some bran and liver to the diet. A great many of the losses are due to the females being constipated so if you have any trouble of that kind in your ranch make the change suggested.

Late yesterday afternoon we had a telephone message from Reagh Tinney of the P. E. I. Fur Pool, Summerside, stating that they had just received a cable from Paris that their pelts held there for some months and numbering over 1,200, had been disposed of at prices of over 15 per cent higher than the limits placed on them last season. As our readers no doubt are aware, the Paris fur market has been largely inactive and all goods there were practically frozen assets, and as the French were anxious to conserve exchange no new furs were allowed to be brought into the country. It is therefore gratifying to know that the Parisian market has opened up once again and that silver fox so preeminently popular there in the past is proving easily saleable even under the tremendous stress and strain that the French people are experiencing. Furthermore there will be no impediments placed in the way of bringing the funds from France to Summerside. Congratulations to all hands concerned.
